FLOOD PERIL INCREASING

Four States of Midwest Suffer

Illinois Dike Gives Way Permitting River to Inundate Town

Missouri, Kansas and Texas Counting Toll in Property Loss

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Goaded to [illegible] rampages by phenomenal autumn rainfall, the rivers and streams of four States have continued into October the havoc they wrought throughout last month.

Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma are counting flood losses tonight, with hundreds of families homeless and many channels threatening to unload new tides of raging water.

Beardstown (Ill.) residents who spent so many days of September guarding an Illinois River levee in the face of rising water, saw their efforts made vain when a thirty-foot break in the dyke admitted to the city flood waters which swept the main streets and filled the southern section of the city to the level of the [illegible].

Two hundred families are homeless tonight and many of them are accepting aid from the Salvation Army, which sent relief from Galesburg. Downtown stores saw their first floors sink beneath the ascending tide, which made a torrent of one downtown thoroughfare for ten blocks.

[illegible], Ill., experienced the worst flood in thirteen years when the [illegible] River drove lowland residents to the housetops, whence they were rescued by police in boats.

The Mississippi River has reached its highest fall stage ever recorded at [illegible], Ill., and floods in the Missouri and Illinois rivers above St. Louis, near their confluence with the larger stream, have made many homeless and covered thousands of acres of corn and orchard land.

In most of Kansas and Oklahoma the conditions are less severe than Sunday night, with the water receding, but many streams have not returned to their banks. Three lives were taken by the flood in Oklahoma Sunday.

Bridges were washed away and [illegible] damaged in many localities in Illinois.

Rabid Baseball Fans Eagerly Await Third Contest of World Series Today

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 4. (AP)—All the baseball pride that has been swelling in the St. Louis heart for thirty-eight years burst forth in a glorious reception late today, when a crowd of upward of 100,000 jammed the railroad yards and the streets to welcome home Rogers Hornsby and his Cardinal players.

The demonstration probably was the greatest ever displayed in St. Louis, with the exception of that of the Armistice declaration. The Cardinals came home to a howling crowd of fans eager to catch the first glimpse of the players who had captured the National League pennant and evened up the world's series.

The demonstration was music to the Cardinals, a jazz symphony of bombs, whistles, horns, bells and plain ordinary yelling. Men and women swept police lines away and the crowd that choked the streets was so dense that it required more than an hour for the twenty automobiles, conveying the players, to traverse the fifteen blocks from the station.

TUMULT DIES

After the tumult and the shouting had subsided tonight, rival boards of strategy of the Yankees and Cardinals put the finishing touches on their plans of battle for the third game tomorrow, first of three contests scheduled here.

Unless there is a sudden shift of plans, tomorrow will bring about a pitching duel between "Dutch" Reuther, veteran southpaw of the Yankees, and Arthur Reinhart, slim young portsider of the Cardinals, in the second left-handed tussle of the series.

The Yankees came off victoriously in the first southpaw fray, Herb Pennock beating Willie Sherdel on opening day in New York and Manager Miller Huggins is confident Reuther will repeat the dose. "Dutch" has been through the heat of many a fiery campaign. His experience and coolness will be as much of an asset as his hurling skill when the clamor for the Cardinals breaks loose at Sportsman's Park tomorrow.

Charles Flint Rhem, brilliant young right-hander of the Cardinals, had been picked by some for duty tomorrow but Rogers Hornsby is understood to have listened to the advice of veteran counselors to keep him in reserve. These advisers believe

Tire Prices Cut in England by Three Factories

LONDON, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—A 15 per cent reduction in the prices of ordinary motor-car tires and a 20 per cent cut in heavier tires was announced this afternoon by the Dunlop, Goodyear and Michelin companies, coincident with the opening of the annual Cycle and Motorcycle Show at Olympia.

The slashing cuts, which bring prices back to the 1924 level and in some cases lower than before the war, have been enabled through the decreased cost of raw rubber in the last year, as well as better trade and prospects on the Goodyear plantations.

SIX BODIES RECOVERED FROM MINE

Twenty-seven Still Held Prisoners by Gas Blast Believed to be Dead

ROCKWOOD (Tenn.) Oct. 4. (AP)—An explosion in the Roane Iron Company's mine here today trapped approximately thirty-three men underground and tonight the fate of twenty-seven remained undetermined. Rescue parties were organized as possible after the explosion and started efforts to reach the scene of the blast, some three miles back from the entry. Six bodies had been brought to the surface.

That the explosion was severe was indicated by the finding of the unconscious form of a moner lying beside a dead mine mule a mile and a half from the scene.

Rescue workers found the body of W. C. Elliott at a sidetrack in the entry. Close by lay E. J. Boles, suffering from injuries.

Eddie Davis, who was picked up far from the scene of the explosion, was brought to the surface late today, but because of shock and injuries was unable to gove an accurate account of the explosion.

William and Arthur Teague, who had bratticed themselves to shut out the deadly "afterdamp," were found by rescuers in a dazed condition, about 1000 feet from the scene of the explosion.

At least three expert rescue crews of the United States Bureau of Mines, one traveling in a special rescue car, were sent here from adjacent points, bringing equipment to permit exploration in the vicinity of the blast. Workers described the mine as "very gaseous," but the extent of the damage had not been ascertained.

The mine, which is in the heart of Rockwood, was the scene of an explosion in 1925, in which ten miners were killed. Some of those believed entombed today assisted in the rescue in 1925.

The mine has been in operation almost continuously since the sixties. It produces coal to operate its ex-

Browning married "Peaches" after his adoption, later annulled, of Mary Louise Spas, who answered his advertisement for a "Cinderella" to share his fortune. He has gone to live for a "few days" at a hotel, it was announced.

FLORIDA AID STRIFE STIRS RED CROSS CONVENTION

Payne Again Attacks Those Who "Sacrifice Needy for Business;" Coolidge Gives Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Re-emphasizing that Florida's storm sufferers are in greater need "than the interests there would have us believe," John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, told the annual convention of that organization today that the time has come for decisive action against the propaganda activities of "officials and special interests."

Mr. Payne was the principal speaker on the day's program, while at the night session President Coolidge, who is president of the Red Cross, delivered his annual address.

Laying aside his prepared address, in which he declared the existence of the Red Cross again had been justified by the "dreadful disaster" to Florida, Mr. Payne asserted there is going on in that State a "conflict between humanitarian efforts" and "selfish business interests."

RAP AT GOVERNOR

The time has come, he said, when "we must consider seriously whether it is too late to renew our campaign for the relief for the poor and stricken in the storm area."

The first intimation he had about "what was going on," the chairman said, was when the chairman of the Chicago chapter "called me on the telephone and read me the message Gov. Martin had sent to the Mayor of Chicago, thanking him for offers and aid, and assuring the Mayor that he, the Governor, would let him know if further assistance was necessary."

"I suppose," he continued, "that the desire of a group to protect its business interests is a natural weakness."

It is time, however, for "the American Red Cross to speak out," he added, and the American people still should "be ready to go forward and provide adequate relief for the many people in Florida who are in dire need of it."

Contributions to the Florida relief fund total $3,110,000 to date, it was announced. A fund of $5,000,000 is sought.

Public support of the ministrations of the American Red Cross "represents idealism applied in a sensible, practical, sound way to the real problems of relief," President Coolidge told the convention. Recounting the humanitarian services of the Red Cross in the San Francisco and Tokio earthquakes and the more recent hurricane in Florida, the President continued:

"The public has come to realize the superlative ability of this organization to cope with such situations. There is faith that all contributions will be wisely, economically and honestly spent for the benefit of the sufferers—none being used for purposes of administration."

TOUCHES THE IDEAL

Declaring that "in this country we have no permanent class requiring charity," the President observed that "after all, human nature does not want permanent charity, but permanent independence through the opportunity to work out its own destiny. It is at this point that the economic well-being and prosperity of a nation passes over into the ideal. Great wealth belonging to a few is not a condition that we seek in this country, but rather a system of production and distribution where the great mass of people shall be contributors to the process and shall share in the rewards.

"Under this system, toward which we are constantly advancing in America, prosperity and idealism merge, and the cause of economics

ORATORS TO SEE COOLIDGE

President Will Make Address of Welcome at Final Meeting of International Contest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—President Coolidge today accepted the invitition of the publishers committee to make an address of welcome at the final meeting of the 1926 International Oratorical Contest, to be held in the Washington Auditorium on the evening of the 15th inst.

The meeting in which the spokesmen of England, France, Canada, the United States and Mexico will compete for the international championship and a handsome loving cup, will be attended by one of the most brilliant audiences in the history of oratorical contests. The international finalists, who will participate in the meeting of the 15th inst., will reach Washington within the next few days. They were the guests of leading business and professional men in Chicago at a luncheon given in the Palmer House in that city on last Friday, after they had returned from Mexico City, where they participated in a meeting attended by President Calles and more than 4500 residents of the Mexican capital.

LISTS OF FINALISTS

Between the date of their arrival in Washington and the final meeting the contestants will rest and accustom themselves to the acoustics of the Washington Auditorium. The finalists and their subjects follow: Herbert Wenig of Hollywood, Cal., "The Constitution of the United States;" William M. Newton, Liverpool, Eng., "The British Empire;" Henri Rubidon of Paris, France, "The French Government;" Jose Munoz-Cota of Mexico City, "Bolivar and the Latin-American Peoples;" Herbert Moran of Toronto, Can., "Canada's Part in the New World."

The recent luncheon in Chicago marked the first occasion on which two or more of the young orators were heard together on American soil. Henri Rubidon due to a brief attack of illness, and Jose Munoz-Cota, because of delayed train connections, were unable to attend, but the youthful representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Canada spoke in the Windy City before an audience which included the most prominent men of Illinois.

Eight European countries, Canada and Mexico have been visited by the young men, whose path across the world has blazed a trail of friendship between nations. Wherever they have spoken, great crowds have gathered to pay respect not only to the ora-

KEYES CHARGED WITH FELONY; SUPERVISORS UNDER ARREST

Counter-Accusations Filed as Political War Opens; Misuse of Public Cash on Both Sides Charged; Special Attorney for Cases Proposed

Nine of the most important officials in Los Angeles county were named yesterday as defendants in felony charges when political warfare of unprecedented proportions broke out, resulting in criminal charges being filed by Dist.-Atty. Keyes against all five members of the County Board of Supervisors and three other officials and in criminal charges being filed against the District Attorney by the Supervisors.

The complaints were issued late yesterday afternoon against Jack Bean, Frank E. Woodley, R. F. McClellan, H. W. Wright, Prescott J. Cogswell, members of the Board of Supervisors; William A. Davidson, superintendent of the county mechanical department; Fred E. Wadsworth, superintendent of the county park, and George W. Jones, road commissioner. These complaints were issued from the office of Dist.-Atty. Keyes.

The officials made formal surrender on the charge and when the entered the courtroom of Municipal Judge Ballard, brought with them a complaint preferring eight criminal charges against Dist.-Atty. Keyes. That complaint also was filed and Keyes will be expected to surrender this morning.

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

The Supervisors, meeting as a body last night, also authorized R. F. McClellan, chairman of the board, to send a telegram to Gov. Richardson, and Atty.-Gen. Webb, asking that a special prosecutor be appointed to try the Keyes matter. They suggested the names of Oscar Lawler, George E. Farrand and David Faries as possible prosecutors.

The complaint naming the Supervisors and the other officials charges them with thirteen counts of felonies. The complaint against Keyes names him as misusing public funds in eight instances. The funds are said to have been a part of the "secret service funds" which Keyes is allowed under the law.

The opening gun in the war, the issuance of the complaint against the Supervisors and the other three officials, came with very little warning late yesterday afternoon. The surrender of those officials and their filing of a complaint against Keyes came with still less. The latter action was characterized last night by friends of the District Attorney as a "counter-attack."

LONG INVESTIGATION

The complaint against the eight officials, filed by Keyes after it was signed by Chester Horn, an investigator of his office, charges each defendant with thirteen counts. It sets forth one blanket charge of conspiracy to defraud the county, three charges of preparing false evidence and nine counts of embezzlement.

The issuance of the complaint, while it came as a surprise yesterday, follows an investigation that was first begun in 1922 by the late Thomas Lee Woolwine, who was then District Attorney. The matter was dropped after a short investigation, to be reopened by the 1926 grand jury and later, when that body was summarily discharged during the course of the investigation, referred to Keyes for his action.

The complaint against Keyes, sworn to by Chairman McClellan of the Board of Supervisors before Municipal Judge Ballard, charges the District Attorney with eight separate offenses in misusing funds intrusted to him for use as a secret-service fund to be spent in special investigations.

Seven of the eight counts charge Keyes with wrongfully paying money to attorneys for services as special prosecutors. The eighth count charges him with turning $5000 over to Sheriff Traeger for a purpose not authorized by law.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE

The complaint against the Supervisors and the three others is a forty-two-page document. It was prepared by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Shelley. The thirteen counts are set forth below.

In the conspiracy count, which covers twenty closely written pages of the complaint, it is asserted the eight men conspired to defraud the county of Los Angeles and the taxpayers of property and money. The complaint sets forth the asserted history of a thirty-four-acre plot near Big Pine, which is at present said to be used by the Supervisors and several others as a recreation spot.

According to the counts, the defendants took criminal means to obtain the use of the property and

Supervisors Say Charges Part of Plot

The following statement was given out at the office of the five County Supervisors yesterday shortly after criminal complaints were issued against the entire board as individuals. The statement, concurred in by all members of the board, is as follows:

The action just taken by Dist.-Atty. Keyes against the Board of Supervisors is the culmination of the political plot that has been hammered on so hard for the last eight months by a coterie of well-known political brigands, for the purpose of gaining control of the county government.

Knowing the facts as he does and as he so stated, we are surprised that the District Attorney would lend himself to so despicable a game as that of trying to discredit men whose records in this community and in the public service is an open book.

The District Attorney has evidently precipitated this matter to camouflage a situation in which he was about to find himself. The law provides the District Attorney with a secret service fund of $5000 per year and more only at the discretion of the Board of Supervisors.

NEW FUND PLEA

Since July to date Mr. Keyes has been granted $10,000 by this board and there is now before the board a request for an additional $5000. Upon receipt of this latter request, the Board of Supervisors notified Mr. Keyes to appear before the board and explain some of his expenditures from this fund, since an investigation of the fund disclosed that probably more of the fund had been illegally spent than had been spent legitimately. Evidently the District Attorney does not relish the idea of attempting to explain some of his expenditures from this fund, which, in our opinion, are clearly illegal.

The action by the District Attorney against the Board of Supervisors will in no wise deter this board from a full and complete examination and exposure of these expenditures, together with suitable and proper action against those responsible therefor, and before this thing is over, the taxpayers of this county will well understand why it cost the county approximately $375,000 to operate the District Attorney's office last year.

SAW NO CRIME

On September 21, last, this entire matter was gone over with Mr Keyes and Mr. Shelley, his deputy, and after a three hours' conference with Mr. McClellan, Mr. Morgan and Mr. Hill, Mr. Keyes, in his characteristic manner, stated "I'll be damned if I can see where there has been any crime committed," and well knows that there never has been a single transaction in connection with the purchase of Big Pines Park or in the handling of any other item of county business that was dishonest or unbusinesslike, and his action against this board has been taken for the purpose of coercing further appropriations for his use without question. The Board of Supervisors welcomes the opportunity of placing all these matters before the court at the earliest opportunity

Something has caused Mr. Keyes to start this action despite his previous expression that the whole matter was without merit. Last week when the request for an additional $5000 for his secret service fund was taken up by the board an investigation was made as to the manner in which the purposes for which this secret service fund has been and was being expended. It was found, to the amazement of the Board of Supervisors, that no receipts or vouchers had been filed with the County Auditor, "showing what disposition has been made of any of the moneys received from such fund," as the law provides. It was also found that from April, 1925, to June, 1926, Mr. Keyes had turned over to Louis A. Dunl, a member of Mayor Cryer's board of mechanical engineers, over $10,000 for asserted gambling investigation, although no knowledge of any gamblers ever prosecuted by Mr. Keyes has ever come to the attention of the public.

Second, in the early part of this year Mr. Keyes's stenographer, Miss Brewster, had drawn $1000 in cash and turned it over to Mr. Keyes for a trip to New York by himself and his deputy, Harold L. Davis; that a few weeks later on a telegraphic request, $804 additional was drawn from the secret service fund and telegraphed to Mr. Davis at the Belmont Hotel in New York City.

$75,000 OF RUM DESTROYED

GALVESTON, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Liquor valued at about $75,000 was dumped into the waters of Galveston Bay. Another liquor party will take place next week when about 30,000 bottles of liquor will be destroyed. The liquor was seized on the British schooner Island Home, and the American motor boat Rosalie M., more than a year ago.

Keyes Charges Intimidation in Board's Action

Dist.-Atty. Keyes hurled charges of attempted intimidation at members of the Board of Supervisors last night after he was notified that complaints have been issued against him on request of the Supervisors. His statement follows:

The action of the Board of Supervisors in filing the ridiculous accusations against me today after I had followed my sworn duty as District Attorney and the recommendation of a majority of the first 1926 grand jury by charging the board with defaulting the county in appropriating to their own use property and money belonging to the county is one of the most brazen attempts to intimidate and coerce a law-enforcement officer in the history of this county

Threats and offers to compromise and every conceivable device of desperate men have for some time past been employed to prevent the initiation of this prosecution against the Board of Supervisors.

Charges against the Board of Supervisors set out that they have appropriated property of the county for their own benefit.

The most they claim against me is that I have exceeded my authority in using every effort in my power to put criminals in the penitentiary, where they belong. In every instance the money I have expended has been for the benefit of the public and for the single purpose of the prosecution of crime and the punishment of criminals, and it is not even charged that I benefited by this expenditure.

The money was expended to put murderers, perjurers and other criminals in the State prison, and if that is not my duty as District Attorney, I do not know what it is. The allegation in which it is claimed that I illegally allowed the Sheriff of this county the use of $5000 is not based either on good faith or law as this was done upon the special request of the County Auditor and the Board of Supervisors to assist in the enforcement of the Wright Act.

The action of the board in refusing today to grant further money for the secret service fund authorized by the State Legislature for the District Attorney's office, will make it impossible to carry out the enforcement of the Wright Act and will hamper the prosecution of all the major cases in this office.

Despite this handicap, however, I give full assurance that nothing within my power will be left undone to effectually prosecute violators of the law whether of high or low position, and no matter what obstacles are placed in my path by interested persons.

ASA KEYES,
District Attorney.

KEYES WILL REMAIN AT HEAD OF M'PHERSON PROSECUTION IN SPITE OF FELONY ACCUSATION

Dist.-Atty. Keyes will continue to head the prosecution of the Aimee Semple McPherson case now under way before Judge Blake, but a special deputy Attorney-General probably will be appointed to prosecute the District Attorney on the complaint sworn to yesterday afternoon charging him with the misuse of public funds.

An official announcement that Mr. Keyes intends to continue to lead the prosecution forces in the McPherson case came yesterday evening from the District Attorney. From Supervisor R. F. McClellan came the statement that acting on a resolution passed by the Board of Supervisors he had requested Gov. Richardson and Atty.-Gen. Webb to appoint a special Deputy Attorney-General to push the charges against Keyes.

The official request to the Governor and the Attorney-General, according to Mr. McClellan, suggested that the appointment be made at once and recommended Oscar Lawler, George E. Farrand or Da[illegible]a Raries for the position. The telegram to the State officials followed a conference between the Supervisors shortly after their arrest on charges of similar nature to the one sworn to by McClellan against Keyes.

According to the provisions of the Political Code, the Attorney-General is the only State official able to appoint a special prosecutor to take over any case from a District Attorney and then only when it can be shown that the county official is involved in the matter about to be considered. Attorneys, however, point out that a special prosecutor can be ordered to take over case after case until an elected District Attorney has no duties left. In every case, however, the District Attorney may take the matter into open court for a hearing before a Superior Court judge to establish whether he is disqualified.

In an official statement issued late yesterday afternoon Mr. Keyes declared that the complaint against him in no manner will affect any of the cases which he now is prosecuting, and that the appointment by Atty.-Gen. Webb of a special prosecutor in the case against him is to be expected.

"I intend to continue at the head of my office," Mr. Keyes said, "and to give the people of Los Angeles county the same kind of fearless law enforcement as I have given them in the past. This charge against me is only another attempt on the part of the various persons now charged with crimes to prevent prosecutions. The charges against me cannot stand, but that is more than I can say for the complaints which have been filed following my investigations and at my instructions."

KEYES DECLARES HE HAS EDGE IN DOUBLE ATTACK

Charges Against Governing Body Result of Long Investigation Into Big Pines Deal

then took further criminal means to improve and hold it.

The three counts of preparing false evidence are brought as a result of this asserted effort to obtain and hold the property. According to the charge, the men filed a false location notice on the property in order to get possession of it. Then because the law requires money to be spent yearly on mining claims, they filed false notices of improvement work, it is said.

CARTER IN PARLEY

The remaining nine counts are brought as a result of the asserted illegal use of county property, labor and money in improving the property. The largest single item is included in a charge of embezzlement of $62,000 which was declared advanced to Allen Jones for an option on property for which the county later paid.

That count, it is said, is the only one in which the camp property at Big Pine does not figure. All the others are an outgrowth of the improvement of the camping sites.

The complaints were signed by Chester Horn, an investigator of the District Attorney's office. The signature was appended after a long conference between Dist.-Atty. Keyes and William H. Carter, foreman of the recently discharged grand jury which was said to have been ready to act on the same charges on the day they were summarily discharged by Superior Judge Keetch.

It was believed Carter would sign the complaints. However, after the conference, Horn was called in to swear to them instead. The complaints were witnessed by Municipal Judge Baird. The warrants were given to Ben Cohn, chief investigator for the District Attorney's office, who immediately notified the attorneys for the defendants, Morgan, Hill and Bledsoe. The attorneys asked that their clients be allowed the privilege of surrendering rather than awaiting arrest. Cohn granted the request.

KEYES STATEMENT

Dist.-Atty. Keyes, after issuing the complaints, made the following statement:

Criminal complaints against all members of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, the Superintendent of the Mechanical Department, the County Superintendent of Park at Big Pines, the County Road Commissioner and other defendants were filed today by my office.

These defendants are charged with criminal conspiracy, preparation of false evidence and embezzlement of public funds. Evidence upon which the complaints are based was gathered by investigators employed by me upon the suggestion of the first grand jury of 1926.

While a considerable portion of the allegations of criminality date back over a period of years, the discovery of the actual evidence upon which definite charges could be based was brought about by the attempt on the part of these officers to complete the conspiracy formulated and adhered to over this extended period.

CAREFUL INQUIRY

Before drawing his complaint a most exhaustive investigation of the situation has been made, in the course of which I have been mindful that a public official, and particularly a member of the governing body of the county, is entitled to protection from unfounded attack through the criminal courts and that evidence against him must be carefully weighed before he should be accused.

There have been so many rumors containing imputations of various kinds against the members of the Board of Supervisors circulated over the county for many months that these defendants, as well as the public, should welcome a full and fair hearing of the facts which must result either in their vindication or conviction in a court of justice.

ASA KEYES,
District Attorney.
October 4, 1926.

The charges against Keyes accuse him of wrongfully spending several thousands of dollars of the secret service funds. The complaint sets forth the names of the attorneys called for special service. The eight counts follow:

Count 1: Keyes is charged with paying Attorney W. J. Clark $1000 for special work on the appeal of Channing Follette, justice of the peace, who is now at San Quentin on criminal charges.

Count 2: Keyes paid Maxwell Burke for special services in prosecuting the appeal of a man known as "Ward." His fee was $225.

Count 3: Attorney Charles Ostrom was paid $650 for prosecuting the appeal against "Kid" McCoy.

MISUSE DENIED

Count 4: Attorney Hugh McBeth was compensated to the extent of $150 for services in prosecuting a case known as "People vs. Gordon."

Counts 5, 6 and 7: Keyes is charged with illegally paying $375 to E. J. Lickley, who has been engaged as a special prosecutor in the District Attorney's office.

Count 8: Keyes is charged with giving Sheriff Traeger $5000 for purposes not set forth by law.

Commenting on the charges, members of Keyes's staff stated the money all was used properly. There is no provision for a prosecutor to carry appeals to the Appellate and Supreme courts, it is said, and it has been the custom of district attorneys to use secret service funds in this case. In Count 8, it is said, the money was used for Wright Act prosecutions and the expenditure was authorized by county officials.

The specific charges contained in the complaint against the other officials are set forth below.

In the complaint the first count charges the eight men with conspiracy to defraud the county of Los Angeles. It gives an entire history of the Big Pines Camp setting forth all the details repeated later in the other counts, as going to make up the crime of conspiracy.

The men are said to have filed the location notices to get the property under private control and then to have used county money and funds to improve it. They are specifically charged in count one with conspiring together to do this.

ILLEGAL EVIDENCE CHARGE

Count two sets forth the filing of the location notice on October 1, 1924. The notice took advantage of mining rights on 160 acres of the national forest reserve. It stated there were valuable minerals to be found there. This filing, according to the charge, is illegal for the reason the men knew there were no minerals on the property.

Counts three and four assert the filing of illegal evidence in proofs of improvement. These proofs were filed with the Federal government and were in the nature of affidavits that money had been expended in improving the mines on the property. This, the complaint states, is untrue and therefore illegal.

Count five asserts the defendantse embezzled $62,000 which they turned over to Allen Jones. That count is brought under a section of the Penal Code, which makes the unauthorized use of public funds by any official a crime even though no criminal intent is shown.

OTHER EXPENDITURES

According to the charge, Jones owned an option on 560 acres of property. The county lent him $50,000 with which he took up the option. He later sold the property to the county for $62,000.

Count six charges the embezzlement of $76.83. The money is said to have been paid out of county funds to Haas-Baruch Company for supplies furnished to men working on the property which the Supervisors were using as camp property.

Count seven charges the expenditure of $14.60 for surveying expenses.

Count eight sets forth the payment of $20.52 to J. E. Rockhold, County Surveyor, for expenses.

Count nine charges the payment of $19.19 for private expense.

Count ten repeats the charges of count five under a different section of the Penal Code. It asserts the embezzlement of $62,000 with criminal intent as opposed to the other charge which makes it illegal to use the money even though no criminal intent is shown.

Count eleven charges the payment of $40 to Haas-Baruch Company for supplies for workmen on the property.

Counts twelve and thirteen charge the Supervisors with the payment of wages to men who performed labor on the private property.

FORMER GRAND JURORS LAUD KEYES FOR ACTION

William H. Carter, foreman of the grand jury which recently was discharged in the midst of investigating the affairs of the Big Pine Camp, and Arthur A. Weber, prominent member of that body, yesterday issued a statement commending Dist.-Atty. Keyes on his action in filing complaints against the Supervisors and officials of the county.

The statement, which was issued after a conference between the District Attorney and the two members of the former inquisitorial body shortly after the complaints were filed, follows:

"The vigilant action of the District Attorney in initiating the prosecution of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors today, is noted by the grand jurors recently retired before their work was done. This and the McPherson case were up for consideration and for action when the grand jury was summarily dismissed by Judge Arthur Keetch without notice.

"The District Attorney may depend upon receiving the co-operation of a majority of the retired grand jurors. They admire the courage of this public official in taking action on a case which undoubtedly will result in certain elements attempting to render him ineffectual by malicious counter-attacks. We hope this case may be tried on its merits."

SYMPATHY VOICED BY MRS. McPHERSON

"I am sorry for anyone who is in trouble, no matter who they may be," was the only comment emanating from Angelus Temple last night after Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of the Four-Square Gospel and leader of the evangelistic organization and her mother, Mrs. Minnie "Mother" Kennedy had perused newspaper accounts of the felony charges lodged against Dist.-Atty. Keyes, directing genius of the preliminary hearing of the two women on charges of conspiracy. The statement was made by Mother Kennedy and was approved by her evangelist daughter.

Angelus Temple was dark last night, but a large crowd attended prayer-meeting services in the auditorium of the Bible School. The services were conducted by Rev. Billy Black. Mrs. McPherson did not appear at the meeting, but spent considerable time in conference with her mother and Roland Rich Woolley, defense attorney.

SEPARATION OF PICTURES SUGGESTED

Special Theaters to Show Highly Artistic Films Proposed at Session

BRIARCLIFF MANOR (N. Y.) Oct. 4. (AP)—Motion-picture exhibitors should organize special theaters for the showing of highly artistic pictures, thus divorcing "big appeal business" from the "limited appeal" business and giving screen classics to appreciative audiences, Eric Clarke, manager of the Eastman Theater, Rochester, told the Society of Motion-Picture Engineers here today.

Speaking on exhibitors' problems, Mr. Clarke said the presentation of highly artistic pictures is certain to mean loss of business and cannot be justified in a theater which caters to the "steady picture-going public." Greater subtlety and artistry in pictures which the public will want to see, he declared, will lead the way to public appreciation of better films, and so overcome the present tendency of motion-picture audiences to express their indignation or lack of interest by staying away.

"If the showing of an artistic picture means loss of business," he explained, "its showing at our house cannot be justified. To cater to the tastes of the few while the many stay away is fundamentally wrong.

"It is up to exhibitors to organize special houses for showing these pictures of limited appeal. Let us divorce our big appeal business from our limited appeal business. Publishers have done this and so must we. Profits would then be possible where there are now losses. A different public would be developed without disturbance to the great public."

Father Freed as Sons Enter Trade School

MODESTO, Oct. 4. (AP)—J. R. Miles, Oakdale farmer, who was sentenced to serve five days in the County Jail here for refusing to send his two sons to high school, was released from custody today after his sons had registered at an industrial school at San Luis Obispo.

Miles refused to send his sons to Oakdale High School on the grounds that high school teaches boys and girls to gamble and drink. He was given the alternative of sending his sons, Bruce, 15 years of age, and Gordon, 13, to high school or spending five days in jail. He decided to serve his sentence.

Reports Link Italian Prince to Royal Girl

PARIS, Oct. 4. (AP) — The Havas agency today says it is reported that Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and a daughter of the Duke of Guise are engaged.

The Duke of Guise has been the head of the House of Orleans, and as such pretender to the French throne, since the death of the Duke of Orleans early this year. He has two unmarried daughters, Princess Francoise, who is 23 years of age, and Princess Anne, 20.

Suzzallo Asked to Quit Post as University Head

SEATTLE, Oct. 4. (AP)—University of Washington Regents tonight demanded the resignation of President Henry Suzzallo. They said Dean David Thomson of the college of liberal arts and faculties would be named as his successor. The Regents issued the following statement:

"The majority of the Board of Regents, having an increasing conviction that politics should have far less prominence in the president's office of the university, and, therefore, in its best interests, while fully appreciating the services and standing of Dr. Suzzallo as an educator and administrator, feel called upon to ask his resignation. Affairs of the university will be managed by Dean Thomson until a new president is selected."

Woman Charges Partners Stole Collected Gold

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Mrs. Grace Stark of Los Angeles, working under a partnership agreement with William and Patricia Cottrell, undertook to make a business out of the purchase of old gold in Los Angeles for resale to the San Francisco mint.

The three came to San Francisco with the first consignment, valued at $500, and all registered at the same hotel. When Mrs. Stark awoke William and Patricia were gone. So was the gold.

Today she obtained a warrant for their arrest charging larceny.

MEN ACCUSED OF FUND MISUS VETERANS IN COUNTY'S SERV

The legal battle which will be brought on by the issuance of complaints yesterday against the entire Board of Supervisors, three department heads, and later, against Dist.-Atty. Keyes, will call into the political arena some of the oldest and most grizzled gladiators of the county.

Almost every one of the nine men named yesterday in criminal charges has been to the fore in political activity for a period of longer than ten years. Several have been prominently identified in politics nearer twenty years.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes leads in the number of years spent in political service in this county. He first joined the District Attorney's staff in 1904. He became District Attorney in 1922, when he was appointed to the position by the present Board of Supervisors after Thomas Lee Woolwine's resignation.

CONTINENT SHIFT TEST SUCCEEDS

First Data Obtained in Two Days at San Diego Naval Station Observations

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Although hampered on the first day of the international radio and astronomical tests that ultimately will prove or disprove the contention of the German scientist, Wegener, that the continents are drifting apart, success attended the tests Saturday and Sunday, it was announced at the North Island naval air station today by Prof. Frank B. Littell, captain of the corps of professors of mathematics of the United States Naval Observatory.

Capt. Littell is heading a group of international scientists who have gathered at North Island in a worldwide scientific attempt to test the Wegener theory, and to ascertain within the hundredth part of a second correctness of longitude existing between half a hundred radio and astronomical stations in thirty-five different countries. Associated with Capt. Littell at North Island are Col. Charles Maillee of France, and Paul Hollenberger and J. C. Hammond, associate astronomers of the Naval Observatory at Washington.

Philadelphia's Elite Welcomes 'The Miracle'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4. (Exclusive) Before an assemblage of the social and official elite of this city, such as has never before been seen at the opening of a theatrical engagement here, Morris Gest's presentation of Max Reinhardt's production, "The Miracle," opened a season of five weeks at the Metropolitan Opera-house tonight.

As a token of esteem and gratitude for the labors of the internationally known producer in preparing the presentation of the spectacle here Mayor Kendrick, in the name of a civic committee, presented to Gest a laurel wreath of gigantic proportions.

For the current season, which includes the five weeks' engagement here, three weeks at Convention Hall in Kansas City, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce; three weeks at Civic Auditorium in San Francisco and four weeks at Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles, Morris Gest has reassembled the entire cast of international celebrities, who appeared at the New York premiere, January 15, 1924, at the Century Theater.

Gigantic Snake Breaks Cage in Railroad Depot

LONDON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Lady Richmond Brown and Frederick A. Mitchell-Hedges, explorers, who have just returned from Central America, today battled with an eighteen-foot boa constrictor in their collection which had broken loose from its cage at Paddington Station.

Lady Brown and Mr. Mitchell-Hedges captured the reptile and heaved it by main force back into its cage. While spectators in the station scattered in all directions, Mr. Mitchell-Hedges caught the snake by the neck while Lady Brown caught it by its middle, avoiding the great coils which could have crushed her easily.

DAUGHERTY AIDE ASSERTED DONOR OF $15,000 "GIFT"

Miller's Assistant, Who Approved Metals Claim, Said to Have Been Recipient

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—Evidence was introduced in court today intended to show that one of the last official acts of Thomas W. Miller as Alien Property Custodian was to shake a $15,000 "plum" from the governmental tree into the hands of Adna R. Johnson. Johnson is the man who wrote the letter releasing to Richard Berton, German metal magnate, the $7,000,000 proceeds of American Metal Company Stock impounded during the Trading with the Enemy Act.

Miller is on trial with Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General in President Harding's Cabinet, for conspiracy to defraud the government in permitting approval of the metal company claims. Johnson was a special assistant to Daugherty.

The climax of Johnson's testimony today came when U. S. Atty. Buckner took him for cross-examination.

INTRODUCES CHECKS

Buckner introduced two checks made out to Johnson and dated February 12, 1925, one for $10,000 and one for $5000. It was shown that Johnson cashed them on March 8, after returning from a vacation which consumed the last month of his government service, he having resigned, effective March 1. Next, a letter was introduced from Miller, whose own resignation was to become effective March 15, to the Attorney-General saying that he had appointed Johnson as a civilian lawyer to assist the government in suits involving alien property claims brought against it by the Equitable Trust Company of New York and Sigg Fehr of Ohio.

The prosecutor sought to show through questioning Johnson, that in fact the fee was a mere present and that no real work was even expected in return. The witness admitted that "a man named Stanley, a government lawyer, already was in charge of these cases."

"Last November were you not dropped by the present Alien Property Custodian, relieved of all further duties?" asked Buckner.

"I was."

"And up to that time you had never appeared in either of these cases, the cases you received $15,000 for assisting in?"

"I had not."

WILLIAMS RECALLED

Today's session, which marked the beginning of the fifth week of the trial, was opened with the recall of George E. Williams to the stand for cross-examination. The testimony of Williams, first assistant in Miller's office, was interrupted Friday to permit Senator Goff to testify in time to sail for Europe on a liner on which he had engaged passage.

Buckner brought out by questioning that the letter forwarding the Merton claims from the Alien Property Custodian's office to the Attorney-General's office was in fact not a reason but only a statement that claims seemed all right supposing that the Attorney-General's office found the facts as stated in them to be correct, and the law involved correctly interpreted.

"In common language," Buckner asked Williams, "what you really did with these claims was to pass the buck from your office to the Attorney-General's, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sir," Williams responded. "You might say that is what we did."

MILLER LAUDED

After Williams was excused, William Rand, counsel for Miller, introduced a letter written his client by President Coolidge in accepting Miller's resignation in March, 1925. The letter was read to the jury. It contained expression of Mr. Coolidge's thanks to Miller "for all the efficient service you have rendered in the past."

out of Southern Kansas into Oklahoma yesterday, sending thousands of lowland residents from their homes, is believed to have reached three today when it became known that Oscar Brooks, a railroad foreman, was drowned yesterday while attempting to save a Rock Island bridge over the Elm fork of the Red River, near Mangum, Okla.

Two deaths, one from drowning and one from fright, were reported near Bartlesville yesterday, but neither could be confirmed today. Several are still missing today and officials are attempting to make a check.

The Walnut River in Kansas and the Red River, boundary line between Oklahoma and Texas, were added today to the list of rampaging streams which have tied up traffic and caused several hundred thousand dollars' worth of property damage in Southern Kansas and Oklahoma, as the result of a week of heavy rainfall.

Flood waters from Walnut River and Timer Creek invaded the downtown district of Winfield, Kan., a city of 11,000 persons, last night, and the business section was cut in two by water this morning.

The Red River has washed out a number of railroad bridges in Oklahoma.

tors themselves out to the basic principles of government and international amity they have discussed.

More than 2,000,000 secondary school pupils of five nations competed in the oratorical contests from which these five young men emerged with national honors. The growth of the contests has been nothing short of marvelous in the past three years, while at the Chicago luncheon it was further declared by Randolph Leigh, organizer and director of the contests, that Sweden and Argentina already have signified their intentions to enter next year with the probability of still more nations participating.

The final contest for international honors will be presided over by President Coolidge, who already has described the event as "the greatest competition of its kind ever held in the world." All of the prominent officials of the United States, leaders in world affairs and representatives of foreign nations will be in the audience which will hear the five brilliant young men. The judges will be Chief Justice William H. Taft and four of his United States Supreme Court associates.

Thirty-six leading newspapers of the world, including the Los Angeles Times, New York Times and Chicago Daily News conducted the national contests which ended in the selection of the five present champions.

SUCCESSOR TO WORKS POST NAMED

Ira F. Thompson Given Seat on Appellate Bench by Gov. Richardson

Ira F. Thompson, judge of the Los Angeles County Superior Court, yesterday was appointed by Gov. Richardson to be an associate justice of the Second District Court of Appeals to fill the vacancy created by the promotion of Associate Justice Works of the same court to the position of presiding justice. Justice Works was named by the Governor to succeed Presiding Justice Finlayson, recently appointed by Associate Justice of the Suprem Court to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Justice Lennon.

IRA F. THOMPSON

Judge Thompson has been on the Superior Court bench since 1923, when he was appointed by Gov. Richardson to fill a vacancy. He was elected to succeed himself in 1924, leading the judiciary ticket at the final election that year. Prior to going on the bench he had practiced law here for nearly twenty years. He is a graduate of the University of California and a native of Michigan.

Promotion of Judge Thompson to the Appellate Court leaves a vacancy on the Superior Court bench to be filed by Gov. Richardson, the appointee to hold office for the next two years. Immediately upon receipt of the news of Judge Thompson's elevation speculation as to his successor became rife. Opinion among those who profess foresight in such matters favored the chances of Fletcher Bowring private secretary to the Governor, lawyer and former Courthouse newspaper reporter.

LEWIS R WORKS

Judge Works received his appointment by wire from the Governor with the indorsement of Secretary of State Jordan, and was sworn in yesterday morning by his colleague, Associate Justice Craig. He will serve the unexpired term of Justice Finlayson and will have to go before the voters, if he desires re-election, in two years.

Through acceptance of the presiding justiceship, eight years are lopped from Justice Works's present term. He was elected for the short term in 1920, and two years ago re-elected for a twelve-year term. He resigned as associate justice Sunday night, and for a few hours was a private citizen until he received the Governor's telegraphic appointment.

FLORIDA STRIFE TO FORE AGAIN

serves the cause of humanity. The higher idealism, the true philanthropy, is not that which comes to the rescue after the catastrophe, but rather that which through obedience to sound economic laws, creates a prosperity among the people that anticipates and prevents the need of charity."

ONE EXAMPLE

What the Red Cross is doing is "only one example of innumerable results of American idealism," Mr. Coolidge said, pointing out that the resources of wealth and prosperity had supplied charities in many other directions. That fact, he declared, "is one of the most complete demonstrations that our people in their effort to accumulate property are moved by a righteous purpose," adding that "their success has not been turned to greed, avarice or selfishness, but has been productive of generosity, benevolence and charity."

Organization of the Junior Red Cross among high school students, the President said, was "one of the most promising of recent developments," with its aim, the inspiration in the youth of that "fine spirit of service and self-sacrifice which is so characteristic of the senior organization."

The junior groups also were praised as helpful forces in fostering international friendliness through close contact with similar organizations abroad.

LETTERS OF GRATITUDE

"Among the choice treasures of my bookshelf," the President added, "are thousands upon thousands of bound personal letters written by the school children of Japan expressing the gratitude of that exceedingly courteous nation for the millions of relief which was afforded them by the American Red Cross at the time of the devastating earthquake and flood which overwhelmed Tokio and the surrounding territory in 1923. Out of the spirit of those who have and the gratitude of those who received a better understanding and more enduring ties of friendship have certainly been wrought."

LOS ANGELES QUOTA STILL $3500, SHORT

Los Angeles' total for the Florida disaster relief fund yesterday piled up to $46,500, which leaves but $3500 to be raised in order to complete this city's quota of $50,000.

According to official word received yesterday from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross by J. C. MacWatters, chairman of the local chapter, conditions in the devastated area are still critical and the need for help is vital.

"Send in your voluntary contribution as soon as possible, is the earnest request of the Red Cross directors. Checks or money orders may be mailed to the American Red Cross, 310 Transportation Building," said the chairman yesterday.

HOLLYWOOD ROOF BALLROOM FUND TO AID

With a crowd present at close to 1000 persons, Manager Jackson of the Hollywood Roof Ballroom, was optimistic in the belief that the Florida relief fund would be enriched considerably upon the final tabulation of receipts for the benefit program and dance conducted at the Hollywood Roof last night.

The program was presented under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, Hollywood service clubs and the Hollywood Roof Ballroom, the ballroom being loaned for the occasion and the employees and musicians donating their services.

Supreme Court Gives Warm Welcome to Angeleno

Judge Approaches Bench as Private Citizen

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Judge Frank G. Finlayson of Los Angeles, who began his practice of law in San Francisco more than forty years ago, today returned to become an associate justice of the State Supreme Court here.

FRANK G. FINLAYSON

Judge Finlayson was sworn in to his new office today in the Supreme Court room at the State Building by presiding Justice William H. Waste, and will preside until January 1 in the seat left vacant by the death of Judge Thomas J. Lennon. He will also be a candidate in the November election for the remaining four years of Judge Lennon's unexpired term.

The new justice comes to the Supreme Court bench from Division Two of the District Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Los Angeles, where he rose to the position of presiding justice. He was appointed to the higher tribunal here on September 11 by Gov. Richardson, following the death on August 14 of Judge Lennon.

MORROW PRESENT

Judge Finlayson took his seat in the presence of Federal Judge William W. Morrow of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in whose office the new justice began his career at law many years ago. Also present, in addition to Judge Waste, were the four other associate justices of the Supreme Court, Judges Emmet Sewell, John E. Richards, John W. Shank and Jesse W. Curtis.

Judge Finlayson entered the courtroom as a private citizen, as he had officially resigned his position in the Appellate Court two hours before by telegraph. He appeared with his commission from Gov. Richardson. After presenting his commission, he was sworn in and took his seat on the bench.

"Each member of this court, individually and collectively as a court, welcomes you to this bench," Presiding Justice Waste said in welcoming Judge Finlayson. "You do not come to us as a stranger, for each of us has known you as a friend and as counselor. Neither are you a stranger to the work before you here, as you have several times been with us as justice pro-tem of the Supreme Court.

"The quality of work you have done before, both in this court and in your former positions, is sufficient proof that you will have no trouble in your new position. It is a great pleasure to welcome you to the Supreme Court of the State of California, both on behalf of myself and my associates on this bench."

EARLY DAYS RETOLD

Judge Morrow, sitting as a special guest of the court, then told the story of Judge Finlayson's start in the legal profession, and how he had "overcome an overcrowded condition in the profession of law and risen to positions of honor through his ability, integrity and strength of character."

Judge Finlayson's answer was brief. He said:

"I sincerely trust that the enthusiasm of those younger days will remain with me, and will help me to perform the duties of this court. I can only say, paraphrasing the words of Shakespeare, 'that I will try to learn how properly to wear my blushing honors.'"

Judge Finlayson, having resigned his position in Los Angeles, said he will move his home to San Francisco immediately, adding that he expects to spend the rest of his life here.

Following his appointment to the Supreme Court for a short term, Judge Finlayson filed a petition to become a candidate for the unexpired term of Judge Lennon. His petition has been approved, and his name will be on the November ballot.

Protect Your Child From Diphtheria

(From the California State Board of Health Weekly Bulletin, April 17, 1926)

"Every child has a right to be as healthy as human knowledge can make him. There is no better way to help a child than to provide him with adequate protection against contracting diphtheria. The parents' duty in the matter is plain and there should be no hesitation in securing immunization. Some health authorities say that the time is coming when every death from diphtheria will be looked upon as one of criminal negligence and, therefore, a case for a coroner's jury to act upon. At the present time there is no excuse for failure to take advantage of this protective measure. The wise parent will have his children immunized against diphtheria without delay."

TRIAL BEGUN ON DOHENY APPEAL

Long-Disputed Elk Hills Case Reaches Supreme Court

Counsel Maintains Loan to Fall Not Bribery

Declares Authority Existed for Granting Leases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—The long-disputed question of the validity of leases on the naval oil reserves, started with a Senate investigation and passed upon by lower Federal courts, today reached the Supreme Court.

At the opening of its fall term oral arguments in the Edward L. Doheny case, involving contracts for the construction of storage tanks for the Navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and leases on the Elk Hills naval reserve in California, were begun by Frank J. Hogan, leading counsel for Doheny, and his associate, Frederic R. Kellogg. Mr. Hogan completed what he termed a statement of facts, and tomorrow before the special counsel for the government is heard, Mr. Kellogg will apply them to what he contends is the law in the case.

ASSURED OF RIGHT

Doheny's counsel held the Act of 1920 gave the Secretary of the Navy full discretion in determining [illegible] of the oil in the reserves, that former Secretary of the Navy Denby himself determined to exercise this authority upon the recommendation of Admiral J. K. Robinson, in charge of the reserves, and decided to take the oil out of the ground, where it was being drained by neighboring privately operated wells, and place it in storage tanks for future use of the Navy in emergencies.

The Doheny counsel also held the Secretary acted after being assured by the Judge Advocate-General of the Navy of his right to do so, and that the loan of $100,000 by Doheny to Albert B. Fall, about a year before the contracts and leases were made, did not constitute a bribe.

Hogan contended evidence by the government in the trial court failed to show any connection whatever between the contract and the loan, made between old friends who have slept out under the stars together, upon a promissory note. It was not customary in case of bribe-giving, he said, to take promissory notes and he further held the policy of taking the oil from the reserves had originated in and been developed at the Navy Department.

He insisted that while Fall, most of the time absent at his home at Three Rivers, N. M., was consulted from time to time in the development of the policy, that he had no active part in framing or promoting it. There was abundant evidence to show, he added, that Denby had not been an "imbecile" as the District Court at Cheyenne stated in the Sinclair case, he must have been if it were true he did not know what was being done.

DENBY WATCHED POLICY

Hogan argued Denby had maintained close and careful scrutiny and supervision in the development of the policy advocated by Admiral Robinson, who was described by government counsel, he stated, as being a superenthusiast. Robinson's earnest advocacy of the storage of the naval oil was attributed by Hogan to his zeal in looking after the welfare of the Navy.

Prosecution of the cases was attributed by Hogan to a wave of hysteria which swept over the country prior to the 1924 Presidential campaign.

"We are told that Fall and Doheny secretly entered into a conspiracy," he exclaimed, "in which it was agreed that Fall would deliver the contracts and leases upon the promise that he would receive as a bribe $100,000."

Hogan contended the action by the Interior Department did not exceed the co-operation which it should give in view of its better equipment to handle affairs relating to land matters and that by direction of Denby competition had been sought, and bids had been invited and received before the offer of Doheny, one of the three bidders, had been selected. He insisted that Fall had merely been consulted by direction of Denby over the acceptance of the bid and had approved Denby's decision.

CONFUSION CHARGED

Confusion was apparent in the minds of the court during the opening of Hogan's argument and with Justices Van Devanter and Sutherland seeking information, Chief Justice Taft undertook to state the legal status of the controversy up to the present.

The Chief Justice said the District Court at Los Angeles in the Doheny case held there was authority to make the contracts, but found them vitiated by fraud, while the Circuit Court at San Francisco held there was no authority to make them, and that it was therefore unnecessary to go into the facts. In the Teapot Dome case, he stated, the Wyoming district judge found there was authority to make the contracts and that the facts did not sustain the charge of fraud, but the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals had held that while there was authority the fact showed there had been fraud which invalidated them.

Doheny counsel agreed this was an accurate statement.

It had been anticipated counsel for Sinclair would assist in the Doheny argument, as the decision in the Doheny case is expected to be largely controlling in the matter of the Teapot Dome leases and contracts, but Hogan explained that after consultation it had been decided otherwise.

Prohibitionists Name Elliott as Senate Nominee

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 4. (AP)—The Prohibition party State central committee today notified Secretary of State Jordan it has chosen John B. Elliott, bone-dry Democratic nominee for United States Senator, to be the Prohibition party nominee for that office. Representative Walter Lineberger won the Prohibition nomination in the August primary, but was disqualified because he lost the Republican nomination, the nomination of the party with which he is affiliated. Appointment of Elliott to fill the vacancy is in accordance with the provisions of the direct-primary law governing such cases.

Jordan also received notification that the vacancy in the Sixty-fifth Assembly District caused by the death of Thomas L. Dodge, Republican nominee, had been filled by appointment of Willis M. Baum by the Los Angeles county central committee.

Iowa Farmers Make Little Use of Financial Aid

DES MOINES (Iowa) Oct. 4. (AP)—An experiment in farm finance launched at the suggestion of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine appears to have disclosed that Iowa farmers are little interested in new facilities for agricultural loans.

A year ago two finance corporations were organized to issue short-term loans to aid farmers of the State in holding their crops for better prices. The corporations were prepared to lend several millions of dollars, but the amount actually placed was less than $1,000,000, and much of that money went to big live-stock feeders and for purposes other than the storing of corn for a more favorable market.

The corporations now are clearing up their accounts and a survey shows that during the period corn was at its peak in July and August, comparatively little corn was sold for the liquidation of loans. Since that time adverse weather has severely interfered with corn marketing. The farmers who are able to sell, however, are accepting 8 or 10 cents less than the top price.

METHODISTS REPORT GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—The Methodist Episcopal Church has 67,242 members in foreign fields, and 197,126 baptized children under instruction preparatory to being received into membership, Dr. William B Tower, recording secretary of the church's foreign missions, has reported. This is an increase of 16,607 over last year's figures. There are 1128 missionaries in thirty-four countries.

SUSPECT IN PUEBLO BANK THEFT SEIZED

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Charles G. Senior, 26 years of age, whom the government has sought since a Federal grand jury indicted him in December, 1923, for the asserted embezzling of $3500 from the First National Bank of Pueblo, Colo., was arrested early today after Deputy United States Marshal Cross had roused him from bed at his home. Senior has been living under the alias of Ralph Morrison, according to the deputy marshal. He will be returned to Colorado to stand trial.

FIGHTING SPIRIT OF CARDS PLEASES ROGERS HORNSBY

BY ROGERS HORNSBY

Manager St. Louis Cardinals, National League Champions

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—... these hard-hitting Yankees and our hard-hitting Cardinals ... [illegible] ... would have though that Thevenow would be leading the team in batting with the average of .500? But that is what he is doing, while Babe ... is hitting only .143, with one hit in seven times at bat. I can mention that without appearing to be crowing, because that's exactly my average. Combs and Dugan are leading the Yankees, with two hits in six chances and that's only .333.

ROGERS HORNSBY

Batting averages don't mean a whole lot. Thevenow usually does not hit very much, measured by the official averages, but he gets most of his hits in the pinches. He is a game batter. Notice how he came through yesterday after O'Farrel doubled. That's what Thevenow is—a great man in the pinch.

Take the Yankees' averages. Gehrig is batting .143, but he drove in two of the four Yankee runs. Lazzeri, with an average of .286, drove in the other run that was earned while the fourth run was unearned, the result of an error.

SOLID BASE KNOCKS

The thing that is encouraging to us is that all of our seven runs

PURISTS ARE HARD HIT

Beer Guzzlers, Card Players and Users of Uncouth Language Shining in Series, Says Pegler

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—This world series, which has moved along to St. Louis for a three-day stand, is likely to confound such athletic purists as Alonzo A. Stagg and Fielding H. Yost, who regard regular hours as the offset of a fast ball and piety as a surer weapon in a ball game than a thirty-six ounce bat.

There are ball players in this production who are alleged to have frequented beer stores in their time, who have been known to utter unchaste language and who have played cards for money. Of course, the fact that a man sometimes trades at a beer store does not have to mean that he generally comes home by hoss cab in a dead heat with the milkman, riding the horse and anxious to take the same up to bed with him. But the theory of the athletic purist is uncompromising and it holds that if a ball player buys one bag of beer or says "hell" or draws to an inside straight, he is a person of untidy morals and therefore the athletic inferior of the clear-eyed, right-living kind.

E.C.

This idea runs into embarrassment the minute you begin to apply it to the current world series, for there never was anyone in baseball more insistently pure than Branch Rickey, now of the business office of the St. Louis Cardinals and, by Mr. Rickey's own word, he was, in his brief career as a catcher with the old Hilltop Yankees, beyond question the worst ball player in the game. Furthermore Mr. Rickey was Manager of the Cardinals for several years and, although he gave inspirational lectures to the players and never uttered any word more sulphurous than golly, he did not win any pennant.

Then he gave way to Rogers Hornsby, who is well up on the values of aces back to back and who salts his conversation with all the popular de- ... for inquiry here. Anyway, Aleck isn't Mr. Stagg's kind of athlete nor Mr. Yost's and yet, at the age of 40 he was so good that Mr. Stagg's current team and Mr. Yost's current team couldn't have driven the ball out of the infield all afternoon.

This is not intended to prove that sobriety, gentle language and pretty thoughts are harmful to an athlete. Neither is it intended to prove that illegal brews and distillates, coarse conversation and traffic with bookmakers are essentials of athletic greatness. These matters are set down in perplexity over certain strange facts, not in a spirit of controversy. It is very confusing.

TILDEN, WILLS DID NOT SIGN

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Neither William Tilden nor Helen Wills have been sought by Charles C. Pyle as members of the entourage of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen's tour of North America, according to a statement issued this morning by the sports promoter.

"In justice to Mr. Tilden and Miss Wills," said Mr. Pyle, "I desire to deny reports that I have been negotiating for the services of either player. Should I sign a contract with Tilden the writers would declare his star was setting. Should Mlle. Lenglen defeat Miss Wills twice the fickle public would say that the famed American girl was outclassed by the French star.

DUTCH REUTHER IS HUGGINS'S CHOICE FOR TODAY'S BATTLE

BY MILLER HUGGINS

Manager New York Yankees, American League Champions

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—I'll send Walter (Dutch) Reuther against the Cardinals in the opening of the St. Louis series this afternoon. I have a couple of very definite reasons.

MILLER HUGGINS

First of all Reuther has pitched against the Cardinals with a great deal of success as a National Leaguer. He knows all their veterans and their hitting styles. And in the second place, and even more important, Reuther's cross-fire delivery is a tough one to hit into right-field territory, and in all the St. Louis games we must bear in mind the fact that the right-field wall is a short one and will be the object of every hitting attack.

YANKS LIKE ST. LOUIS

In this connection let me say a word about the Yankees. My club has always hit well in St. Louis. Twice, during the regular-season play, after bad batting slumps the boys finally came out of it in the St. Louis park. The most notable of all of these was the final western trip, when after a bad slump in the other parks, the boys started hitting the ball the minute they hit St. Louis and clinched the pennant in a jiffy.

The fact that we have four left-handed hitters in our batting order, while the Cardinals have only two, should give us an advantage. The fellows in our club who wallop the ball hardest and are the longest natural hitters are right-field hitters as well. The Cardinal sluggers for the most part are left-hand hitters, and in left the field is a trifle longer, though, I must admit, still within range of any real slugger.

My club expects to be without friends once we start play at Sportsman's Park. But they're used to that. I don't think the Yankees ever made a trip into St. Louis when we weren't razzed from the start and a little razzing more or less won't make any difference. The Cardinals never before having won a pennant, are naturally the favorites with the fans. My men realize all that and pay no attention.

HAVEN'T BEEN HITTING

We haven't been hitting up to form so far in the series, and we were faced with the two best pitchers in the St. Louis staff. We're bound to hit better from here on out, and the St. Louis pitching cannot hold up to the standard set by Alexander & Sherdel in the two opening games. Which leads me to believe that the Yankees have a little the edge from here on, regardless of the fact that the Cardinals will be playing on home grounds and before home fans. After all the Babe sized it up about right this morning when he said:

"All the yelling in the world won't carry a fly ball into safe territory; and a lot of cheers don't help an infielder to turn a ground ball into a double play."

Aside from sending Reuther to the box I don't contemplate any change in the Yankee line-up of the first two games, unless it might be to send Collins behind the bat. But that is uncertain.

PLAYING FIELD CAN'T GET WET

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 4. (AP) Fair and cool weather was predicted for tomorrow when the Cardinals and Yankees play the third game of the world's series at Sportsman's Park.

The rain which fell last night and continued today will not materially hurt the condition of the playing field.

The infield was covered with a waterproof tarpaulin and no amount of rain can damage it before it is uncovered. The outfield is well drained and a few hours of sun and a light breeze tomorrow will make it firm and fast.

that Rhem's favorite weapon, speed, would be made to order for the Yankee sluggers whereas Reinhart's deceptive offerings would be less to the liking of the New Yorkers.

SHERDEL NEXT BET

If Reinhart goes to the mound and wins, Hornsby probably will come back with Sherdel in the fourth game Wednesday. Sherdel twirled a good game Saturday although beaten and would be fit for duty again after three full days between assignments besides which he would have the advantage of his experience against the Yankees in his first effort.

So far there has been little to choose between the contending clubs, deadlocked at one victory apiece as they shift battlegrounds. The Yankees won the first tilt with better pitching and timelier hitting and the same factors prevailed for the Cardinals in the second contest, Pennock for the Yankees and Alexander for the Cardinals both turned in mound masterpieces. One wallop was sufficient to give them the decision in each case, Gehrig's single producing the winning tally in the first game and Southworth's homer settling the issue in the Sunday game before a record-breaking crowd.

Defensively the Yankees have had somewhat the best of it so far. They played errorless ball in each game, with their "kid" infield shining particularly, while the Cardinals seemed less steady and were charged with an error in each contest. The expected superiority of the Cardinals behind the bat has failed to materialize thus far. Hand Severeid, now in his fifteenth season, has played faultlessly behind the bat for the Yankees in filling the shoes of the injured regular, Bengough. Defensively, his work has easily measured up to that of Bob O'Farrell, the Cardinal star, although the latter's bat has been more potent.

Expert observers predict that the series will go at least six games, if not the limit of seven, thus necessitating a return to New York for the finish. It would take three straight victories for either team here to end the struggle, and no unbiased critic anticipates such a streak with the contending clans as well matched as they have appeared to be in the first two frays.

If the intersectional warfare goes the limit, or as far as six games, it promises to shatter all baseball rec-

SCHALK WINS FOR SOX

South Siders Take Lead for City Title; Catcher Drives in Two Runs to Beat Chicago Cubs, 3 to 1

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Eddie Collins's White Sox made it two in a row over the Cubs this afternoon by taking the fifth game of the series and the South Siders went into the lead for the title, three games to two. The score was 3 to 1, with Ray Schalk in the hero role. He drove in two of the South Siders' runs.

Red Faber and Charley Root went along through three scoreless innings, then in the fourth the Sox broke loose and counted.

It was Faber himself who knocked in the run. Kamm singled, advanced to second on an infield out, then to third on Freigau's error from where Faber scored him with a single. This was the first run off Root in thirteen innings of the city series.

EDDIE COLLINS

Another Sox tally registered in the fifth when Barrett singled advanced on Sheeley's sacrifice and raced home on Ray Schalk's one-base blow.

The Cubs scored a run in the sixth by virtue of Kelly's single, Wilson's double and a fumble by Morehart of Grimm's vicious liner. Wilson tried to score on this play but was out at the plate. The Sox scored their third run in the last of the seventh when Falk singled, Kamm sacrificed and Schalk followed with another single.

Linemen Are Real Heroes of Football, Says Friedman

UNSUNG PLAYERS CLEAR WAY FOR POPULAR STARS

Great Michigan Quarterback Tells Strategy of the Forward Pass; Emphasizes Good Blocking

BY BENNY FRIEDMAN,

Captain and Quarterback Coaches' 1924 All-American)

[Copyright, 1926, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

(NOTE: When the three great coaches, Knute Rockne, Glenn Warner and "Tad" Jones, selected a 1925 All-American team, they were unanimous on one player. Benny Friedman of Michigan led the all-star selection both as quarter and captain. Friedman was the leading scorer of the Big Ten conference, one of the greatest in the country, for the year, though he had never called his own signal inside an opponent's 20-yard line. He is one of the most famous field generals of all time; one of the three great passers the game has developed; last year he scored 23 goals from placement.

He is a dangerous runner because of his change of pace and straight-arm and a great blocker and tackler.

This year his sense for strategy places him as the leader of the Michigan eleven.

In this series, Friedman has written not only for the expert, for coaches and players, but for the spectator. He makes the subleties of football intelligible to the laymen as he introduces the refinements of his own mastery to other men in the game.)

It is hard to tell you just what happens on a forward pass because there are so many passes and different passes result in different action. However, I will select one of the simplest of the better passes.

The defense left end rushes in to intercept the pass or tackle the passer before he can get the ball away. He is blocked out by the fullback. The two guards, protecting the passer, pick off the first men through usually the tackle because the tackles always are used to rush the play. The two tackles of the passer's team have closed the hole left by the guards when they came out to protect the passer. The center has also remained in line to block.

BENNY FRIEDMAN

The passer's two guards and center are trying to hold the opposing two guards and probably the center also, depending upon the defense formation. As a rule, the defensive center drops back and tries to intercept the ball or break up the play as soon as he sees a pass coming.

The right end goes down ten yards and veers to the left at an angle of forty-five degrees. He does this to pull the defensive right halfback out of position.

The front, or right halfback of the passer's side, goes down about eight yards and veers to the right.

The man in quarterback position angles off to the left, past the line of scrimmage and then cuts at an angle over center. When he angles off to the left he draws the fullback away and when he shifts suddenly to the right he gains a few steps on the fullback.

PASSER HAS CHOICE

The defensive center will probably follow the right halfback but the halfback has the edge because he is faster and can get away from the center.

Now the stage is set for the pass. The passer has his choice.

His No. 1 choice is the right halfback. He is usually free because others have been decoyed away and there is no other man to the right of him, where he is running.

No. 2 choice is the man who came from quarterback position, cutting over center.

No. 3 choice is the right end who goes down and cuts at an angle of forty-five degrees to the left. If the halfback does not follow him he is free.

The other end, the fourth eligible receiver, is ignored. He is on the other side of the field, calling for a difficult throw. He has been used as a decoy and has drawn a man with him. The passer picks a free man and if he has two or three free men he picks the one furthest down the field. Chance for interception becomes more remote, the gain of a completed pass will be longer and the other free man, or men, can interfere for him if he makes the catch.

LINEMEN REAL HEROES

Football's heroes are the men who make the long runs and score the touchdowns.

The men that have been idolized on the college campus are the men that carry the ball.

This has been the custom of the football-going public ever since the game was established in the United States.

The real hero in football is rarely applauded or recognized.

While the men that carry the ball are popular with the public, the man that makes it possible for the runner to advance is popular with the coach.

Regardless of how fast a runner is, or of how well he can dodge straight-arm, pivot, reverse or change his pace, he will never be successful unless he has ten men blocking effectively for him.

Harold (Red) Grange was a great runner but most of Grange's success was due to his team-mates.

Grange was at his best in going through a broken field. He could do everything in running with the ball that you would want a back to do but few ever realized how Grange reached the broken fields of Illinois' opponents.

To make Grange successful Coach Robert C. Zuppke developed one of the finest blocking teams the country has seen. When Grange took the pass from center, there were ten men moving ahead and blocking out the defense players. Ten men were breaking a path for Grange, mowing down the rushing defenders and enabling Grange to make his way past the scrimmage line. There he was able to shift for himself.

Ending his career at Illinois the year that Grange made his phenomenal start was McMillen. This powerful lineman was one of the greatest guards who ever lived. He was as fine a guard as Grange was a back but little fame came to him. Without McMillen Grange could never have started as brilliantly as he did but McMillen was a lineman and the linemen do most of the work while the backs gather in the glory.

TIME GREAT FACTOR IN PASSING

I have had some success as a forward passer and kicker but I owe that success to a brilliant line. I do not believe that modern football has ever seen a better line than the one Michigan had last year. I doubt if there has been another as good. It is not difficult to stand behind a line like that and throw forward passes.

LA BARBA AND BROWN CLASH

take La Barba at 112 pounds, since he makes the division limit by going without fewer meals than the champion would have to do.

Another thing in Brown's favor is that he is a short-ender in the betting and every short-ender has won around here in the last dozen main events.

La Barba is being quoted as high as 10 to 7 and 2 to 1, but more folks want to bet Brown money than the other end of the bargain.

Both boxers will enter the ring in splendid condition. When they took final limbering-up exercises yesterday, neither could produce a physical alibi against himself. This fight has been a natural ever since Brown took Genaro a few weeks after La Barba had won the championship from him and galloped home to a more clean-cut victory.

The semi-wind-up features Bobby La Salle and Joe Salas. The boys are making 128 pounds. Salas has been a steady winner during the past year. Anybody who can whip Salas is eligible for main events. This is work cut out for La Salle. If Bobby can cut the buck he may get a match with Jimmy McLarnin.

Dario Barron and Delos Williams box the special event. Barron has been boxing main goes at smaller clubs and shows up as about the best Mexican fighter on the boards next to Bert Colima. Williams is handled by Fred Windsor and is a veteran.

The two fours are Clyde Phelps vs. Happy Romero and Gene Mozier vs. Marion Atkeson. The latter pair of fisticuffs are sailors off the U.S.S. Nevada and the U.S.S. Idaho.

CARDS' SPIRIT CHEERS ROGERS

were driven in by solid base hits while only three of the Yankees' four runs were earned and one of them was given to them by our misplays. Misplays, which won't happen very often. We have made fifteen hits and seven runs in two games and our team has batted .227 while the Yankees, scoring four runs, have made only ten hits and are batting only .175. Those are not very husky batting averages for two slugging teams, are they?

What pleases me most is the way my team has fought in this series. We ran into brilliant pitching in the first game. Pennock was a great pitcher Saturday and it was the first time we ever had faced him. Then it was our first world series and there was the danger that some of our young players would be nervous. But they fought off any nervousness that tried to crop out and when they came from behind in yesterday's game they proved their courage to me and to the satisfaction of everybody in the ball park.

FINE TREATMENT

I'd like to call the attention of all the fans in the country to the fine treatment we had in New York. The crowds cheered us when we hit the ball and they cheered our fielding. I didn't hear a boob or a jeer at any time. They treated us like guests and friends and I'd like to ask a favor of the St. Louis fans. They are happy over this pennant that we have won and we're tickled to death that we have been able to win it and that we are coming back home on even terms with the Yankees—a great ball club.

RANFT DEFEATED IN HANDBALL TOURNEY

"Murder-ball" Bill Ranft and his partner yesterday "blew" their chance to lead the round-robin tourney at the L.A.A.C. by losing to Fred Olney and Bell by the score of 96 to 30. The outcome was a big surprise. The winners played superbly while Ranft was unable to "kill" consistently.

Another surprise of the day was the easy defeat of F. E. Garbutt and Clampett by Courtney and Doxie, 93 to 33. Joe Pagliano and Doree played and won a double-header, beating Howard and Beelman 110 to 16 and Retzer and Parker, 89 to 37. Harry Hunt and Wilson tied with Charley Keppen and Paul Lowry 63 to 63.

MORGAN TO DEFEND TITLE IN BAY CITY BOUT WITH DUNDEE

TOD MORGAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, was signed here today to defend his title against Johnny Dundee at the Recreation Ball Park, October 19. Dundee will leave New York for the Coast tomorrow, while Morgan is already on his way to this city.

The match was signed up by the Monarch Athletic Club of this city, of which Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, and Ancil Hoffman, Sacramento promoter, are the leading lights. The match will be ten rounds to a decision.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER BILL HENRY

U. S. C. certainly gave the northern folks a genuine thrill by the beating they handed the Santa Clara Bronks. The folks up there evidently had hopes of a Broncho victory and when, at half time in the Stanford-Occidental game, it was announced that the score at the end of the first period in Los Angeles was nothing to nothing, loud cheers rent the atmosphere. By the time the Oxy-Stanford game was over it was announced that U.S.C. was leading, 21 to 0, in the third period, and the cheering was not nearly so vociferous. Incidentally, we note that in yesterday's "Observations," which were wired from Palo Alto, the telegraph operator had apparently never heard of such a place as U.S.C. and very carefully edited the whole business that it read U.C. every time and we had written it U.S.C. Oh, well, we've had our stuff edited before.

Coach Exendine's Occidental Tigers may not be any world's champions, but they are going to be a good football team before the local grid season is much farther advanced. Against Stanford they demonstrated the only thing that could be expected—a determined defense. They took the ball away from the Cardinals twice after Stanford had taken four shots from the six-yard line and couldn't put it across and, unless you saw the game, you couldn't appreciate how close it was.

For instance, the second Stanford touchdown came after a sixty-five-yard run on a forward pass from Hyland to Sims. Jack Schweizer, who was playing safety for Oxy at the moment, decided to try to intercept the toss as he did three others during the game, but he misjudged this one by inches and Sims got it. The final Stanford score in the last thirty seconds came after the Tigers had traveled half the length of the field and Bud Teachout was standing on the Stanford line with arm outstretched when Work leaped in and snagged the ball and ran ninety-eight yards for a score.

On two other occasions Occidental got inside the Stanford twenty-yard line and each time Clayes passed a little too far and the ball was grounded in the end zone. If the Tigers had been able to use Solly Mishkin or Buxton they would almost certainly have earned a score. Milt Nash played a marvelous game at guard and Fusco backed up the line like a champion. Northern critics are unanimous in the statement that Mike Godet and Bud Teachout are the best pair of ends that have been seen on the Coast since the days of Muller and Stephens of California.

U.S.C. PREPARES FOR W.S.C. TEAM

der ordinary circumstances this would only serve to make Cravath mad. Saturday it was different for the Trojan skipper only recently had a crop of bunions or corns removed from his tootsies and as a result the pedal extremities were unusually tender.

Jones took advantage of Cravath's temporary disability to use Johnny Fox at center with the first team. Jeff snapped the ball back for the second squad, while "Cupid" kept himself busy feeding the oval to the regulars.

Kaer's midsection is a bit strained and it was evident from the way he ran yesterday that his ribs are a bit tender from the pounding they received Saturday. An X-ray photo disclosed nothing more serious than a strained ligament, however, so the Red Bluff boy will be there or thereabouts when the Cougars line up for the opening whistle.

On the whole Jones was very well satisfied with the performance of his athletes against the Broncos. How he could be otherwise is hard to imagine. He emphasized, however, the need of continued hard work, pointing out that the season is yet young and that nothing but the most intense application to their respective duties will get the Trojans over the hump to the conference championship—if such a goal is to be attained by U.S.C. this year.

There will probably be no changes in the line-up for the Cougar clash, which means that Don Williams, Morley Drury, Manuel Laraneta and Bert Heiser will make up the backfield. Jim Moser still holds Allen Behrendt's end spot, the latter being handicapped by an early-season injury.

There was no indication that Drury, following his spectacular work of Saturday, will call signals at the start of the W.S.C. game. Jones had Don Williams and Morton Kaer running signals with Drury at his customary outside halfback berth.

Cliff Herd took in the Stanford game Saturday as did Bill Cole and both returned with reports of the Cardinal's toughness. Both agree that there'll be nothing funny about the Red Shirts when the 30th inst. rolls around. Gordon Campbell watched the Golden Bears in action and has decided that Dick Blewett will probably win out in his battle with Clymer for the quarterback berth. Take Campbell's word for it that the Bruins will be no pushover for anybody's football team this year.

ords for attendance and receipts. It may be closer to a $1,500,000 series than the $1,000,000 variety common to the last three years.

Gate receipts already have passed the $400,000-mark for the first two games, with the second contest breaking all single-game marks. Sportsman's Park will not accommodate anything like the crowds that packed the Yankee Stadium, exceeding 61,000 each day, but it would not be surprising to see $500,000 added to the coffers here, with another $400,000 in sight if two more games are required to settle the issue in New York.

The attendance, if seven games are played may reach 350,000, to far surpass the record 301,000 total in 1923. The players' pool, derived from the first four games only, now is over $204,000, and seems certain to be close to $400,000 altogether, as compared with the previous record of $360,703 set in 1923 when the Yankees defeated the Giants.

SNODGRASS LEAVES TO JOIN NEW BOSS

Harvey Snodgrass, ranking tennis star in 1925 and singles champion of Southern California, left yesterday afternoon for the East to compete in several exhibition matches under the C. C. Pyle banner, with Suzanne Lenglen, Vincent Richards, Howard Kinsey and Miss Mary K. Brown.

The first professional tennis match will be held this Saturday night at the Madison Square Garden in New York. They will make two appearances on the eastern coast and two in California. They will appear in Los Angeles around the first of the year.

Favors Left-handers for Both Teams Today

Right-Field Fence Easy for Heavy Hitters

Giants Leader Likes Cards' Chances Best

BY JOHN J. McGRAW

Manager of New York Giants

So far as I can see the logical thing for the two managers in the world's series to do today would be to pitch Arthur Reinhart and Dutch Reuther. For that reason I believe they will be the opposing pitchers. Both are left-handers and both are very effective against left-handed hitters. The outstanding danger in the St. Louis park is a long hitter like Ruth, Gehrig, Southworth or Combs getting hold of a ball and whipping it into the right-field stand. It doesn't take much of a poke. To meet the ball squarely is all that is required.

JOHN McGRAW

FREE SHOT

The long left-field hitters, right-handers like Meusel, Lester Bell and Hornsby, may have a free shot at the left-field bleachers but the danger there is not so great as in the shorter right field.

Dutch Reuther is an old-timer who knows his business. Unless he has a slip in control the left-handed swingers will have a lot of trouble in pulling a ball towards right. Reinhart, though younger, is just as effective. The Cardinals are counting on him to be a big factor in this series following the fine right-handed work of Alexander in New York. He has a good chance to put the Cardinals in the lead. To tell the truth, it is my opinion that the St. Louis club now has an edge on the Yanks.

The razzing of a St. Louis crowd, however, is nothing new to the Yanks any more than it would be to the Giants. I don't expect the New Yorkers, especially the veterans like Ruth, Meusel, Dugan, Shawkey, Shocker, Hoyt and Severeid to be nervous.

Babe Ruth has had a lot of experience in being razzed by hostile fans. By the way, it is about time that some one called attention to the remarkable ability of Ruth. Most fans look upon him as merely a home-run slugger. He is more than that. Ruth is one of the smartest and oldest all-around ball players in the country today. The success of the Yanks in winning this pennant is largely due to his efforts at the bat and in the field. Come to think of it, where would the Yanks have been without him?

I wonder if the fans ever realized what a wonderful defense Ruth has in his throwing arm. Had you noticed the number of runners who check up and play safe when he gets hold of a ball?

EYES ON RUTH

While I can see an edge for the Cardinals playing three games at home before a friendly crowd, I am not discounting what Ruth may do once he gets going. He and Gehrig are likely to start something any minute. The problem of the Cardinals is to prevent these long left-handed hitters getting hold of the ball. For that reason I feel pretty sure that Huggins will nominate Reuther for the pitching job today. He will be particularly eager to make a good showing because he didn't get in the world's series last year. Above all Reuther will not be nervous. He is a well-seasoned veteran who knows what he is about. In Cleveland when the Yanks were finishing up their season they called on Reuther to settle the club down and he did a good job of it.

Of course, if it gets cloudy and dark and if the left-handers are not in shape, anything may happen overnight. The Cardinals and the Yanks might resort to speed.

An encouraging sign for the Cardinals in this series has been the lack of nervousness.

As a matter of fact, I believe that both ball clubs, from now on will settle down and play as if it were the regular season.

The breaks and the pitching will tell. It is a toss-up. Still, I have a St. Louis hunch.

The stage seems set for them.

Golfers Plan Great Reception When Von Elm Arrives Home

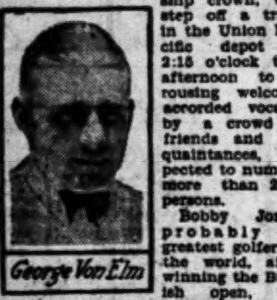
CITY HONORS TO AMATEUR CHAMP

Parade Follows Depot Debut of National Titilist

Banquet Tonight to Honor Jones's Successor

Breakfast Club Toast for George Thursday

BY BILL WISE



George Von Elm

George Von Elm, the blond answer to California's golfing prayer, wearing the national amateur championship crown, will step off a train in the Union Pacific depot at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon to a rousing welcome accorded vocally by a crowd of friends and acquaintances, expected to number more than 2500 persons.

Bobby Jones, probably the greatest golfer in the world, after winning the British open, the American open in a driving finish that has never been equaled, was unable to retain his national crown in the face of the perfect stroking that returned Von Elm champion just three weeks ago.

Von Elm has been shooting for the major title in national amateur golf for three years. This year Jones was the logical favorite in the amateur event. He rewarded friends and critics by winning the medal in one of the fastest fields the tourney has ever drawn. He continued clipping par through all of his first rounds. In the meantime, Von Elm, recovering from a fair first eighteen holes, continued to improve and was at his best in the finals.

Jones, playing over one of the hardest courses in the country, clipped par for a 70 over the first half. Von Elm, pitching for the pin with an accuracy that never varied, turned in a 69 and was leading Bobby by the slender margin of one hole at the halfway mark.

After lunch the historic battle was renewed—neither broke, and both had pars for the approximate 70s when Von Elm ended the macth, 3 and 2, to win the first national amateur championship ever accredited to the State of California.

George comes bouncing home tomorrow. The reception committee, well versed in George's fast-stepping greens tactics, will have him in tow and when the shouting has partially died down, hundreds of automobiles will parade with Von Elm to the City Hall, where he will be presented with the key of the city. After demoralizing traffic on many prominent streets, the parade proper will disband at Westlake Park.

The same friends, and the few who couldn't make the train in the afternoon, will attend the testimonial banquet and entertainment in the Ambassador Hotel this evening. Covers have been laid for 1200, and reservations, still available, may be secured from Chet Lyday, S.C.G.A. secretary.

Following dinner and entertainment, the beautiful Ambassador fiesta room will be cleared for dancing and as all guests are invited to bring wives, their own preferably, a crowd of more than 2000 persons is expected to participate in what should be the most heartfelt demonstration ever accorded a native son.

BREAKFAST CLUB GUEST THURSDAY

California's brand new national amateur golf champion will be the guest of honor at the early morning sup of the Breakfast Club, Thursday. No less than 1000 bankers, (see Bob Weaver) will be on hand to greet Von Elm when he is presented with a solid gold—and honorary life membership in the organization.

PURISTS FAIL TO DO STUFF

scriptive adjectives affected by the generality of men and, in less than two seasons Mr. Hornsby won the first bolt of symbolic dry goods ever unfurled in St. Louis in the history of the major leagues. Mr. Hornsby seems to be just as clear eyed as Mr Hickey, if not more so, for he is a batter and fielder of note and this comparison balls things up very much.

Then, there is Grover Alexander, an old fellow of 40, who stood out there on the clay hump of the Yankees' pitching box the other day and flipped the ball up the slide, now fast with a jerk to it, now slow with a drooping curve and struck out ten of the men who won the American League pennant by sheer weight of their wooden ware. By the common standards of conduct you would not adjudge old Aleck a fallen man, but by the standards of Alonzo A. Stagg you couldn't adjudge him anything else, because that old guy simply will not turn pretty. Aleck has his own way and he doesn't go the way of Mr. Stagg and Mr. Yost.

One hears that he is opposed to prohibition in principle, but whether he carries his opposition to the extent of actual conflict is his own business, of course, and no subject

RISKO ARRIVES FOR BOUT WITH HUFFMAN

Johnny Risko arrived in Los Angeles from Denver yesterday and at once started work in the Main-street gymnasium. He figures to be ready in plenty of time for the ten-round bout Matchmaker Joe Levy has him billed for Tuesday evening, next, with Eddie Huffman at the Olympic Auditorium.

As far as advance notices go, Johnny looks the part. He is bigger than Huffman, but not as tall, with a build like Tom Sharkey. His capable looking hands denote a deal of the punching power he is credited with, the same punch that had Paul Berlenbach on the floor, and which carried him to forty-seven knockouts in seventy starts.

BEARS LOSE COCK

BERKELEY, Oct. 4. (AP)—Bart Cock first-string tackle of the University of California football team, will not be able to play against St. Mary's Saturday. Graduate Manager L. A. Nichols announced today that Cock twisted his elbow in the contest with the Olympic Club last Saturday and will be out two weeks.

LONG BEACH PLAY TODAY

Scores of local golfers will be included in the first-day qualifying play of the invitational golf tourney opening at the Long Beach Country Club today. Winners and runners-up in all flights will be guests of the club at a dinner Saturday evening. A two-ball mixed foursome event will close the first annual event Sunday.

MRS. ANNE WOLVERTON

Mrs. Anne Wolverton of the Los Angeles Club scored a 90 over the difficult Warren G. Southland Net Stars Play in Junior Event

Members of the tennis colony of Southern California are anxiously awaiting the opening of the annual Southern California championships which have been carded for the Los Angeles Tennis Club the 18th to 24th insts. The events for the tournament will include only senior classes as the junior titleholders have already been decided.

Harold Godshall

Plans made earlier in the season called for the appearance of many famous Davis Cup and international court wizards, but according to the manager, Capt. A. B. C. Gray, none of the leading national players will be present for the tournament. The only competition to be offered the local men and women will be that from San Francisco and Berkeley, Northern California. It was predicted that La Coste, Borotra, Williams, Tilden and several other nationally famous racketers would attend the tournament this year, but plans were not successfully completed.

Harold Godshall James Ruscher, Ralph Sindorf, Miss Gladman, Mrs. Henry, Miss Robinson, and several other promising local juniors will be the entrants for the South. Gerald Stratford, 1925 national collegiate doubles champion, will lead the northern colony of racketers which will further include the Misses Crookshank and Rose Mary Brunn, two of the North's leading junior girls.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

FROM all indications, Los Angeles is not going to let George Von Elm forget that he won the first national golf crown ever brought to this city. When George arrives today, he is to be met by a delegation of enthusiastic citizens of the community who are chockful of plans for parades, speeches, testimonial breakfasts and dinners, telegrams of congratulations, etc., etc.

And on top of all this, Mr. Willard Wood, probably the leading automobile news purveyor of this city told me yesterday with bated breath that some sort of contraption with fancy paint and pretty lines and which runs on four wheels is to be presented George on the occasion of his homecoming. Said token being an appreciation to George for capturing the golf title from the peerless Bobby Jones. And, oh, yes, Willard whispered that the name of this vehicle starts with a C, and the second letter is an a, and if I tell you any more, you'll know all about it and it won't be a surprise to George.

Boxing seems to have got no further than first base in Chicago. Nobody has made any money among the promoters, and the leading one of the city, Jim Mullen by name, has lost plenty. In fact, matters are so bad that yesterday Eddie Sears returned the railroad tickets he had purchased for himself and Mushy Callahan for their proposed trip to the Windy City this week. Bushy was to have battled Spug Meyers and Russie LeRoy in Chicago this month, but the gates would have been so bad there that Sears figured the trip would represent more outgo than intake. Smart boxing men say the politicians and the gangs in Chicago have ruined the game there and were responsible for the resignation of Chairman Huncke of the Boxing Commission, who retired, he said, because the job was not worth having threats made on his life.

With an indignant flourish "Pop" Barrett has taken his pen in hand to ask why the matchmakers don't give his boy, Nick Antonio, a tumble. "Figure this out and tell me why?" he writes:

"Baby Joe Gans got his first star event by beating Young McGovern by a shade; Paul Demsky got the same opportunity by doing the same thing; Nick Antonio knocked out McGovern in the first round and can't get a star event. Is it because the big meal tickets fear wrinkles in their bellies?"

There doesn't seem to be any room for argument. "Pop" has all the best of the debate before it starts. Nick not only knocked out McGovern at Vernon recently, but he did it after McGovern had floored him with a left hook to the chin. At the time, ringsiders, the writer among them, remarked that the knockdown was going to cost McGovern plenty of punishment. It did. Thirty seconds later he was taking the full count on the floor from a terrific liver punch.

Portland Here to Play Stars Minus Johnson

The Portland Ducks, who are leading the second division, will arrive here this afternoon to start a seven-game series with Hollywood at Wrigley Field tomorrow. Due to injuries Ernie Johnson, their manager, will not be with his players, though he is to be presented by proxy with an automobile by admiring friends at the ball park next Saturday afternoon. However, Tom Turner, president of the club, will do the honors for Ernie, after which he will drive the vehicle, a Buick (adv.) to Johnson's home at Laguna. Ernie stayed at Portland to recover from his injuries.

Though the Ducks fall several points shy of being in the first division they boast several of the featured players in the league in Bagwell, the leading hitter, with a percentage of .393 and Smith, the home-run artist, who has bagged forty-five to date. They will also introduce this series their new shortstop, a gent named Tissell, purchased from Des Moines for $13,000, said to be the highest price ever paid for a minor league player to another minor league.

Lane Predicts Split-Season in Coast Loop

SEATTLE, Oct. 4. (AP)—William Lane, owner of the Hollywood Stars baseball club, before leaving Seattle yesterday, predicted a split season in the Pacific Coast League next year. Lane said the schedule would be divided into two sections and that the winner of the first half will meet the victor of the second half in a play-off series for the title, unless the same team wins both races.

Lane's plan would be for each club in the league to contribute $2500 toward a purse of $20,000, which would go to the team winning both halves of the schedule.

CALLAHAN STOPPED BY MICKEY WALKER

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)—Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion, starting a comeback after losing his championship to Pete Latzo and being knocked out in his next start, scored a technical knockout over Shuffle Callahan of Chicago Heights here tonight. Callahan was battered all over the ring for five rounds and was decidedly weak when his seconds chucked in a towel at the end of the fifth round.

FLEET SPORT NOTES

Two diminutive flyweights occupied the limelight in the first interdivisional smoker of the Battleship Division Three held aboard the U.S.S. Arizona versus the U.S.S. Oklahoma in the outher harbor Saturday night.

"Tiny" Florici, Oklahoma, who holds a decision over Jimmy Lucas, the battle fleet champion, won the decision from Nacon, Arizona. This was the fastest bout of the program. They went at each other in a hammer-and-tongs affair and threw science to the four winds.

Valey Valderama, Oklahoma, won by default in the bantamweight class.

Muhat, Oklahoma, featherweight, won by default.

Joe McKensey, Oklahoma, received the judges' verdict over Pete Pentrowski, Arizona.

Billy Fitzgerald, Arizona, knocked out Soto, Oklahoma, in the first round with a right cross to the button. This in the lightweight class.

Joe Flinker, Oklahoma, won by default.

Bogardus, Arizona, won the decision over Van Neste, Oklahoma, light-heavyweights.

Fred Trager, Oklohama, heavyweight, won by default.

All bouts were scheduled for six rounds.

A new ruling in this year's fleet athletic rules prohibits an extra round of three minutes' duration in case of a draw. This year, in the event the judges disagree, the referee has the deciding vote.

GRAPPLERS TAPER OFF MAT WORK

Pesek, Stecher Wind Up Training Today for Match at Olympic Auditorium

Close to 10,000 wrestling fans are expected to make the turnstiles click at the Olympic Auditorium tomorrow night. Promoter Lou Daro is staging the biggest mat clash in the history of the game in the West with Joe Stecher, the heavy weight king, defending his bauble against the furious onrushes of John Pesek, the "Nebraska Tigerman." It will be a finish match, best two out of three falls.

JOE STECHER

Stecher and Pesek, two of the greatest grapplers in late history, should be at the peak of their careers for tomorrow night's bout. They will wind up training today. Stecher, according to his brother, Tony, has gotten into better condition in his Long Beach camp than he has attained since he threw Charley Cutler in 1916.

Pesek is in perfect wrestling condition, he says. The "Tigerman" will be outweighed twenty-four pounds by Stecher. He will scale at 190 with Stecher tipping the Fairbanks in the neighborhood of 214 pounds.

Nevertheless Pesek is predicting an early victory for himself. He says he will rush out and get the match over with in a hurry. The "Tigerman" from Ravenna does not believe that Stecher's weight will work against him. He is expecting his speed and agility to prove the downfall of the champion. Pesek's chief weapon is expected to be his famous figure-four grip which consists of the double wrist lock and head scissors.

Stecher's legs will match Pesek's faster lower limbs tomorrow evening. The two men have the best-trained pairs of legs in wrestling.

Harvard Not to Enter Into No-Scout Pact

BOSTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—A sharp division of opinion appeared today as coaches of well-known New England college football teams commented on the no-scouting agreement between the head coaches of Yale and Princeton. It was learned definitely that Harvard is not and will not be a party to the agreement during this season, although it may enter into such a compact next year.

Head Coach Jess Hawley of Dartmouth and R. W. P. (Reggie) Brown, head coach at Boston University, both declared in favor of scouting as now carried on. On the other hand, Coach D. O. (Tuss) McLaughry of Brown and Coach Cleo A. O'Donnell of Holy Cross asserted that abolition of scouting would be a good thing. Coach Arnold of Harvard, however, declined to express an opinion until he "had thought it over."

SAMMY McLARNIN ON MAIN-STREET CARD

Sammy McLarnin will make his initial main-event start in this city Saturday night against Tony Cruz in the six-round wind-up at the Main-street Athletic Club. Sammy is the brother of the famous Jimmy. He wants to fight his way and Pop Foster, the veteran guide of the brothers, is taking the youngster along easy.

MRS. STETSON IS GOLF MEDALIST

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4. (AP)—Scarcely rested from the arduous task of winning the women's national golf championship on Saturday, Mrs. G. Henry Stetson took up the quest of the Berthellyn Cup over her home course. At the Huntington Valley Country Club today she won the qualifying medal with a score of 81, one stroke under the woman's par.

SENIOR SQUASH PLAY-OFF

Second Annual National Tourney Starts at Movie City Club This Morning; Many Stars Attend

The second annual national squash tournament, which has attracted both senior and junior champions, will start this morning at the Hollywood Athletic Club. First games will start at 10 o'clock.

Entries of the Movie City club are expected to take the high honors, but Boyd Comstock of the L.A.A.C. firmly believes that Ad Schaummer will come through. David Butler, second ranking senior player and one of the greatest squash players in the country, is in great shape and should play his best.

Squash fans of the Hollywood club are putting a lot of faith in Bill Holman, their squash champion, and Dan Jones, winner of the junior tournament staged recently.

Dick Hinckley, the national senior champ, and Beff Jones of the University Club are also popular favorites.

Hinckley and Sandy Wilson have formed a doubles team in the doubles tournament, David Butler and Chet Cooper are also paired, Esmonde Wiley and Bill Holman and Dan Jones and Kent Redwine make up the other outstanding doubles entries.

Tom Gallery and Dick Hinckley are the present senior doubles title-holders but Gallery is out of the tournament with a broken ankle that refuses to heal up. With these two squash stars out of the way it is a scramble in the doubles event.

Butler looks like first in the senior event, Jones second and Hinckley or Holman third. The squash games are open to the public and no admission is charged. The tournament will continue for four days.

GRIDDERS START OFF

WILLOWS, Oct. 4. (AP)—The Sacramento Valley Football League opened its fourth season yesterday. Willows defeated Arbuckle, 13 to 6; Marysville defeated Woodland, 6 to 0; Williams defeated Grass Valley, 6 to 0, and Roseville defeated Colusa, 14 to 0.

She brought Robbie with her. She takes him everywhere.

She says it is such an education for him to meet people.

Robbie doesn't care for kindergarten.

He went just one day and he bit the teacher.

His mother says his subconscious mentality was positively antagonistic to the teacher's temperament.

Mrs. Parker says that Robbie is so precocious, and he prefers the companionship of grown people to children.

So she teaches him to spell and things at home.

She asked him what C-A-T spelled and he said dogma.

Mrs. Parker said no no, darling, what does D-O-G spell, and he said helma.

My husband says that when he was 6 his mother electrocuted him twice a week for less than that.

He says he thinks it's fierce the things children get away with these days.

How Do They Celebrate?

I wonder what lawyers do to celebrate their fees. Do they buy new cars? Do wife and daughter get beautiful ropes of pearls? Do they buy annuities? Or do they just salt down?

It is absurd to think that they use them all for the upkeep of the home, or to pay for their children's educations. They could never spend their fees all on that.

How do I know? I paid my lawyer this morning.

ROLLS-ROYCE

"AFTER I bought this Rolls-Royce," said a man who had shopped around among several makes of ordinary cars, "my desire for change was completely quenched by the all-satisfying versatility of my Rolls-Royce."

Owning a Rolls-Royce is not only an investment in unsurpassed performance, comfort and long life, but—even more important—an investment in absolute mental ease.

What would be considered a journey in any other car, say a 100-mile trip to visit some friends, is as free from fatigue in a Rolls-Royce as a jaunt to the next suburb in an ordinary car.

To touring comfort, add absolute safety at all times. The magnificent springs, axles, steering apparatus and brakes have never been known to fail—and some cars are now rolling up over 500,000 miles.

The absolute three-year guarantee against failure of any mechanical part is an astounding proof of economical investment.

Let us take you on a 100-mile trial trip and show you the true meaning of motor-car reliability.

No Changes Announced for Large Churches

Appeal for Wright Act Support Sounded

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Oct. 4.—Annual appointment of pastors to the 373 Methodist churches in the Southern California district featured the closing session tonight of the fiftieth annual Southern California conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which has been held at the First Methodist Church here for the last week. Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of San Francisco, presiding officer of the conference, read the appointments. No changes in the larger pastorates were announced.

The conference today reaffirmed its stand against the proposed repeal of the Wright Act and against the legalizing of horse-racing in California and in favor of Bible-teaching in the public schools.

FRIENDLY SLAP PROVES FATAL

Man Staggers, Falls in River and Drowns Ere Help Arrives

ALEXANDRIA BAY (N. Y.) Oct. 4. (AP)—Orrin Williams was thrown into the St. Lawrence River and drowned yesterday as the result of a friendly slap on the back by Arthur Le Febre. The latter was arrested on an open charge.

Harry Hunniwell, a witness, declared he and Williams were standing near the end of a dock, when Le Febre approached and slapped Williams between the shoulders, saying:

"This is a great night for a swim, boys."

Williams staggered and fell into the stream, Hunniwell said, and efforts to reach him were unsuccessful.

FRENCH AIM TO APPROVE DEBT PACT

Ratification With Oral Reservations Declared to be Government Policy

PARIS, Oct. 4. (AP)—Oral reservations to the Washington debt agreement, which would not affect the validity of ratification as far as the United States is concerned, probably will make their appearance in the forthcoming French discussion of the debt settlement.

Approval of the debt agreement now has definitely become a government policy, according to the best information. Premier Poincare, who was opposed to the arrangements concluded by Ambassador Berenger, because of the absence of a guarantee clause, has been persuaded that it will be necessary to ratify the agreement in order to have a good effect on the financial situation.

He is ready to accept ratification with reservations, which may figure in the official journal without becoming a part of the act of ratification. Although approval of the Berenger-Mellon agreement was very doubtful when Parliament adjourned in August, it is considered possible that ratification may be voted under these conditions.

The Finance Committee of the Chamber, meeting today, decided to postpone action on the debt agreement until Premier Poincare can be heard, probably within the next few days.

There is doubt as to whether Ambassador Berenger will return to Washington. His mission, which was renewed in July, is good until January 1, but the impression prevails that if the debt agreement is not ratified, the Senate will ask the government to name a new Ambassador.

San Francisco Mercury Rises to 81 Degrees

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—The thermometer was 81 deg. in the shade in San Francisco at 2 p.m. today, the hottest early October weather since 1917.

On October 3 of that year the San Francisco thermometers turned in a score of 96.

OLD BONDS FOUND

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Reposing in an old safe, the combination to which had been forgotten, $390 worth of Texas bonds have been found. The bonds are of $10 denomination. Interest coupons are attached. The bonds were issued in 1879 to be redeemed in 1899. They were found by E. C. Stewart of Austin, Tex., while searching for the will of his father-in-law, Leonard Eck. A bill to pay the Eck estate the amount of the bonds will be presented to the next session of the Legislature.

DANDRUFF

Just Seems to Dissolve

WE HAVE been telling how materially MENTH-O-FOAM aids in training a natural wave and not saying a word about its antiseptic qualities. People from almost every walk of life have been telling us that MENTH-O-FOAM just seems to dissolve Dandruff. We have tried it too and found it works. Now we are prepared to go a little farther and tell you the conclusion we have reached after our tests. It's just this:

If you use MENTH-O-FOAM regularly you just can't have a single sign of Dandruff. Try it. Its application is very simple. The effect is marvelously stimulating to the scalp. Moreover, MENTHO-O-FOAM shampoo cleans thoroughly and will not discolor the hair, it is not greasy nor is there any odor left on the hair. Try MENTH-O-FOAM today—you can just see the Dandruff dissolve yourself.

The first application does not foam as a rule as it is just cutting the oil. Squeeze off first application with hands.

Apply MENTH-O-FOAM again. This time it will foam. Squeeze off foam and apply again, rubbing scalp and hair vigorously. Continue applications until foam comes off pure white.

After squeezing off the last foam, do not rinse. Just rub dry with a rough towel. You will note how readily the hair dries and how glorious the hair feels.

If the hair is at all naturally wavy, it will curl as you are drying. Even if the hair is perfectly straight it is easy to lay a "finger" wave after a MENTH-O-FOAM Shampoo.

Tinney Worse, Doctor Orders Kin Summoned

DETROIT, Oct. 4. (AP)—The condition of Frank Tinney, comedian, ill at a local hospital, took a turn for the worse tonight and relatives and friends have been summoned to his bedside.

Although hope for his recovery has not been abandoned, Dr. Leo Dretzka, Tinney's physician, declared the comedian's condition is grave, and that he has notified the management of the show in which Tinney was appearing here to summon Tinney's relatives.

Tinney, who was rushed to a hospital after collapsing Saturday, showed slight improvement yesterday. He suffered a relapse about noon today and tonight is reported as sinking. A diagnosis of his case shows him to be suffering from a general nervous and physical breakdown.

New Highway to Hetch-Hetchy Area Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—A new highway to run from Mather, Tuolumne county, to the Tioga Pass road, was proposed to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors today when a request was received from the City Engineer for a $6000 appropriation to cover the cost of surveying the road.

The highway traverses the Hetch-Hetchy country and is classed as one which the city is required to build under the terms of the Raker Act.

MISSION WOMEN CAPTURED

Three Americans Prey of Chinese Bandit Gang; Seven Escape Fate of Comrades

HANKOW (China) Oct. 4. (AP)—Bandits yesterday attacked a large party of missionaries while they were proceeding to their stations at Shenchowfu, Hunan Province, and robbed and carried off three Americans. The Americans are Miss Minerva S. Weil, Reformed Mission; Miss Lydia Koebbe, Evangelical Mission, and Karl P. Beck, Reformed Mission.

Seven other missionaries who escaped now are safe at Taoyuan. They are Miss C. Brunnemeir and Miss J. Granner, both Americans of the Evangelical Mission; Miss Schweitzer of the Evangelical Mission; Misses R. N. Messimer, Amiskie and Henneberge and a Mrs. Hilgeman, all of the Reformed Church.

The party had paid $153 for the services of thirty armed soldiers of the Changteh guard, but when the bandits appeared the soldiers fled.

RAIDERS SLAUGHTERED

About 500 northern troops who attempted a sortie from the besieged city of Wuchang today in an attempt to recapture Pagoda Hill from the Cantonese were mowed down by the southerners, who used machine guns. The northerners attempted to return to Wuchang and found the city's gates closed against them. It is believed all were killed.

The northern troops within Wuchang who have been holding it for some time are growing desperate. While the Cantonese without have adopted the embargo method of besieging the city, the civilian population is starving. Some days ago the food supply was reported exhausted for all civilians except foreigners and now the military is said to be without either food or fuel. Desultory firing continues.

Telegrams from authentic sources in Nanchang dated September 26, last say that Sun Chuan-Fang, overlord of five eastern provinces and ruler of Kiangsi, who is fighting the Cantonese, is completely in control of the city of Nanchang and that his soldiers are murdering and pillaging, with casualties running into the thousands.

VOLUNTEERS ASKED

A supplementary message from the Methodist Mission in Nanchang asks that volunteers be sent to assist in caring for the wounded Chinese.

Foreigners known to be in Nanchang are: John S. Littell, Edward M. Littell, Rev. Lloyd Creaighill, wife and child, all of the American Church Mission; Rev. W. R. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson and Dr. W. E. Libby of the Methodist Mission.

Nanchang is the capital of Kiangsi Province and the seat of Sun Chuan-Fang, who, as an ally of the northern military leader, Wu Pei-Fu, has been engaged in warfare against the Cantonese for some weeks. The Cantonese were reported early in their northern invasion to have penetrated to the extreme north of Kiangsi Province and to have conquered Nanchang. Recent reports indicated the tables had been turned and latest available information indicates the Sun Chuan-Fang soldiers are engaging in an orgy of slaughter and looting.

HEADQUARTERS WITHOUT NEWS OF MISSIONARIES

CLEVELAND, (O.) Oct. 4. (AP)—Missionary headquarters of the Evangelical church here today had received no notification of an attack by Chinese bandits on a party of Evangelical missionaries and the subsequent kidnaping of three missionaries.

Told by the Associated Press that the church workers had been kidnaped, Rev. G. E. Epp, executive secretary of the Evangelical missionary board, said that Miss Lydia Koebbe, mentioned by the Hankow dispatch, is connected with the foreign-mission department of the Evangelical church.

HEADS GIRLS' SCHOOL

Miss Koebbe was in charge of a girls' boarding school at Tung Jen, Province of Kweichow, the next province west of Hunan, Rev. Epp said. Miss Koebbe's American home is at Grass Lake, Mich.

The other two kidnaped, according to the Hankow dispatch, are connected with the Reformed Mission of the church. Headquarters for this organization are in Philadelphia, Mr. Epp said, and Evangelical headquarters had no record of them.

Mr. Epp was familiar with the movements of the missionaries. He said the party of church workers was en route from Ku Ling, a summer resort in the mountains in the Province of Kiangsi, to their stations at Shenchowfu. He said the missionaries go to the mountain "every few years" for a vacation from their routine work at Shenchowfu.

Of the seven other missionaries whom the dispatch said escaped after the attack by the bandits, three are connected with the Evangelical missionary forces, Mr. Epp declared. They are Miss C. Bunnemeier and Miss J. Granner, Hubbard, Iowa, and Miss Vera Schweitzer, Hanover, Ont.

TINDER BOX UNIVERSITY DESCRIBED

President Campbell Tells of Fire Traps at State Educational Institution

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Many of the buildings comprising the University of California were described by President Campbell today as being either "fire and earthquake traps" or "tinder boxes" in an address before the Foreign Trade Club here.

The university president advocated the passage of Amendment No. 10 on the ballot at the November election. The new legislation provides $3,000,000 for new buildings on the Berkeley campus and $3,000,000 for the Southern California Branch in Los Angeles.

Only sixteen of the seventy-five buildings on the Berkeley campus are of fireproof materials, Campbell said. The club approved amendment No. 10.

DOCK WORKERS STRIKE

LONDON, Oct. 4. (AP)—The work of loading and unloading vessels at the Tilbury docks was suspended today by the sudden strike of 2000 men. The strikers' grievance is an asserted new regulation by the port of London authorities that union delegates will not be allowed to enter the docks.

EDUCATOR URGES CHANGE IN FIRST COLLEGE YEARS

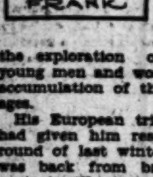
Wisconsin University Head Opens Experimental Laboratory to Find Students' Needs

An outstanding observer of trends in modern life and letters, Glenn Frank has some new thoughts on education, gained from his first year's experience as president of a university of 8000 students. The former magazine editor gave expression to these thoughts through the medium of the Associated Press in the following exclusive interview with Richard Gilbert Massock.

BY RICHARD GILBERT MASSOCK

MADISON (Wis.) Oct. 4. (AP)—Educators are approaching the task of making university graduates something more than specialists in circumscribed fields, or storehouses of purposeless learning. One of the first laboratories for developing greater and more useful enjoyment of advanced education will be the University of Wisconsin, where an experimental college, a sort of university within a university, is being set up.

Glenn Frank, the youthful journalist and educator, sat in his office and in characteristic phraseology unfolded for the first time some new ideas, unusual thoughts and conclusions grounded in his first year's experience in the presidency of the university.



It was his thirty-ninth birthday anniversary. He was as alert, as enthusiastic, as when he came to Madison slightly more than a year ago to be director of the exploration of thousands of young men and women into the vast accumulation of the learning of the ages.

His European trip in the summer had given him rest after the tiring round of last winter and spring. He was back from brief but intimate contact with some of the great minds abroad.

"Mass education has produced new problems in university education," the writer ventured. "What do you consider the dangers of present teaching methods and what do you consider the challenge to teachers in the great educational institutions?"

"The student in the average university is today in danger of falling victim to either of two dangers—the danger of suicidal smattering or the danger of suicidal specialization," he replied.

TWO ADVANTAGES

"The challenge to educators is to devise ways and means of insuring to students both the advantages of broad cultural background and the advantages of intensive specialization later.

"This must be done, I think, by concentrating our attention on the first two years of college as a period to be devoted to the conquest of a cultural background and the development of a general intellectual technique for finding today by turning students loose to take a series of separate studies. Some radically new approach to this problem is necessary, an approach that may mean the complete scrapping of the present curriculum."

"How would you begin to search for the path that leads to solution of the problem?" was the next query.

"No one of us knows just what that approach should be," he said. "Some of us have our guesses. But they must be ruthlessly tested by experiment. That is why we are setting up at Wisconsin, inside our College of Liberal Arts, an experimental college of 250 students in which we shall be free to try a wholly new approach to this part of higher education. We are going at it exactly as a scientist would go at his experiments on cancer in his laboratory.

EXPECTS FORMULA

"A time will come, I think, when we shall find a formula for these two years that will produce for the average student actually more in the way of coherent cultural background than the average student now gets out of four college years."

The question of the growth of student bodies and control of their size was brought out.

"It is not fantastic," Dr. Frank said, "to suppose that a time may come when universities will grant a degree for these first two years that will satisfy the mass of students, who, without sustained intellectual interest, simply go to college because they or their fathers feel that they must be college men. This would mean a healthy exodus from our colleges at the end of two years of those who otherwise clutter up the university and impede the work of the better type of students.

"This will, in the case of the better students, give us men and women better prepared for the stiff and searching work of the highly specialized years to follow."

Before termination of the talk it was suggested that student morals and manners are recurrently matters of public comment and conjecture.

FALSE ASSUMPTION

"What do you, as a university president, think of all this discussion about drinking and asserted lack of individual restraint among students?" was the first question.

"It seems to me that nine-tenths of the discussion of the morals and manners of the present college generation begins with a false assumption—namely, that a college community is essentially different from the ordinary community. It isn't. A college community is simply a cross-section of the American community—of the American nation."

President Frank made it plain that he is not a member of the moral alarmist squad.

"The dominate tendencies of the American social order will be found in the college community," he said. "If there is a new freedom outside college there will be a new freedom in college. If there is bootlegging outside college there will be a certain amount of bootlegging in college. Certain conditions are, of course, intensified in a college because youth is concentrated there; just as certain conditions will be intensified in a Union League Club because maturity is concentrated there.

PROBLEMS SAME

"You cannot lift 8000 human beings—young or old—out of a social order from which they have taken their tone and temper and make them over in six weeks by the executive orders of deans and university presidents.

"The problems inside the college are the same problems found outside the college. They need the same patience and the same recognition of the essential slowness of all real social solutions.

"When the morals and manners of a university generation begin to worry us, it behooves us to remember that these morals and manners are, after all, a product of American society in general more than of university society in particular."

Rum Informer Pleads Guilty to Swindling

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—William Davidson, alias Caine, who startled a Congressional investigating committee several months ago with a story about the manner in which banks are asserted to have handled bootleggers' business on the Pacific Coast, today pleaded guilty in the Superior Court here to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The complaint against Davidson charged that he swindled a local restaurant proprietor, Alphone Moll, out of $4600 in 1923.

Davidson asked for probation today but his request was put over until Saturday.

Miners Going Back to Work by Thousands

LONDON, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Despite the most intensive oratorical campaign to stem the tide of miners drifting back to work, it was announced today that 9000 more returned to work and that long queues are reported at the collieries of some Midland districts.

The increase of workers is notable in Scotland, which has been the stronghold of the strike.

Last week 270,000 tons were mined in Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire, which is over half the normal output. The movement back to work is rapid and it does not seem likely that the latest government move for setting up a national tribunal ever will be voted on the basis of a formal settlement.

Tentative Air Regulations Are Discussed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—A series of conferences on tentative air regulations laid down by the Commerce Department was begun today by Assistant Secretary McCracken, in charge of commercial aviation plans.

Aircraft manufacturers were called in first and airway operators and others will be heard later.

The proposed air regulations, drafted with the collaboration of the army and navy air services, provide for pilot licensing, commercial-plane inspection and equipment and other matters.

The New Britannica in the NEW FORM at a Saving of 40%

FOR the first time in the Britannica's history, a New Edition has been brought out in a popular-priced form, simultaneously with the more expensively bound Cambridge Issue.

Because the Britannica is primarily an educational institution, and because of its vital importance to all, it was determined before publication of the new 13th Edition, that the matter of price should deter no one from taking immediate advantage of its timely and practical usefulness.

Through certain definite economies in production, the publishers are enabled to offer you this complete new 13th Edition, in the popular NEW FORM binding, at a saving of 40%—or a trifle more than HALF THE PRICE of the famous Cambridge Issue. A price that can never be lower than it is today!

This amazingly low price is made possible because:

(1) The 32 volumes are bound as 16 (two vols. in 1 cover.)

(2) The special opacity paper is made to order in immense quantities at a substantial saving in cost.

(3) Printing from the original plates used for the Cambridge Issue makes it unnecessary to reset 33,000 pages of type. This one item alone results in a saving of thousands of dollars.

The number of sets available in the NEW FORM is necessarily limited. Prompt inquiry is, therefore, advised. Send coupon for FREE Booklet describing both issues.

Small Payment—Easy Terms

The low price and the easy terms constitute a Celebration Offering to suitably mark the issuing of the new Britannica—an event of world importance and of greatest pride to this company. You are invited to accept this opportunity and urged to do so promptly. The way is by first examining the FREE descriptive booklet giving the full details of easy purchase.

TRADE UNIONS IN CONFERENCE

Federation of Labor Attacks Company Guilds

Year's Program Includes Fight for Five-Day Week

Another Membership Drop Revealed in Report

DETROIT, Oct. 4. (AP)—Reaffirming adherence to its traditional policy of constructive militancy, the American Federation of Labor, through its forty-sixth annual convention, defined today the major projects of its program for the advancement of union-labor welfare during the coming year.

Outstanding among the tasks set forth in the annual report of the executive council and the keynote address of President William Green were these:

To oppose to the full extent of its power the efforts of employers to compel their employees to join company unions; to continue a vigorous national campaign for the abolition of child labor; encourage co-operation between workers and management in the conduct of industry with a view to reducing production costs for the benefit of all; oppose a rapidly developing sentiment for the abolition of the direct primary system; resist without quarter the subversive propaganda of Russian sympathizers within the ranks of American labor; stimulate agricultural elements to a keener appreciation of the necessities of co-operative organization for improvement of the farmer's position; work for the five-day week of forty hours throughout American industry.

CUT MEXICAN BONDS

Approximately 500 delegates including fraternal representations from Mexico, Canada and several European countries, assembled for the initial sessions of the convention today.

The business program will continue through this week and next.

Declining to take the position of interfering in the international problems of a neighboring state, the executive council report acknowledged demands from various quarters within the federation for severance of relations with the Mexican Federation of Labor with the statement that "we believe that the Mexican labor movement should exercise unrestricted authority to make decisions for Mexican labor and to adopt policies to be pursued in their labor problems."

An invitation to agricultural interests to align themselves with the co-operative policies of the federation was extended in the council's report on the farm problem.

Touching collateral conditions in industry, the report not only re-expressed hostility to company unions, organized by employees in single plants with management co-operation, but looked askance at some programs of employee stock ownership.

"The federation will oppose to the full extent of its power the efforts of employers to compel their employees to join company unions," it was stated.

"A supplementary method of retarding the legitimate development of trades unions is that which would have the worker financially interested in the concern by which she or he may be employed. It is intended by this method to create the impression among workers that there is no necessity for trade-union organization. Companies with company unions favor this plan." . . .

The total membership of unions affiliated with the federation was shown to have decreased during the year. For 1926 the number of union members enrolled in the organization was given as 2,813,910, against 2,877,297 in 1925, and as compared with a high point in the federation's history, reached in 1920, of 4,078,740. The council gave notice of intention to increase organization efforts.

El President Coolidge Ensalza el Idealismo

WASHINGTON, Octubre 4.—La ayuda que presta el público a las ministraciones de la Cruz Roja Americana, "representa el idealismo aplicado de manera sensata, práctica y sana a los problemas planteados por el socorro a nuestros semejantes." Esas palabras fueron pronunciadas por el Presidente Coolidge durante su discurso de esta noche ante la convención anual de tan benéfica asociación. Al pasar en revista los humanitarios servicios de la Cruz Roja en los terremotos de San Francisco y de Tokio, y en el reciente huracán de Florida, se expresó así el Primer Mandatario:

"El público ha llegado a darse cuenta de la habilidad superlativa de esta Asociación para hacer frente a esas dolorosas situaciones. Existe ya la fe implícita de que todas las contribuciones se gastan sabia, económica y honradamente en beneficio de los que sufren, pues ya ninguna parte de ellas se aplica a gastos de administración."

Declaró el Presidente que "en este país no existe una clase permanentemente menesterosa y necesitada de la caridad," e hizo observar que, "si bien se mira, la naturaleza humana, más que de caridad permanente, necesita tan sólo de independencia permanente para conquistar sus destinos por medio del trabajo. Cuando logra esto, satisfecha ya de su bienestar y prosperidad materiales, pasa a rendirle culto a lo ideal. En este país no anhelamos ese estado de cosas en que la gran riqueza se concentra en manos de unos cuantos, sino que deseamos más bien establecer un sistema tal de producción y distribución, que las grandes masas del pueblo puedan contribuir a los fondos benéficos, y gozar del alivio que éstos procuran, en caso de necesidad."

Créese Hayan Perecido Sesenta y Cinco Mineros Sepultados por Explosión

ROCKFORD, (Tennessee), Octubre 4.—De treinta y dos a sesenta y cinco hombres han quedado sepultados a tres millas bajo tierra por una explosión que se produjo hoy en la entrada de Rogers, de la mina hullera de la Roan Iron Company, en este mineral.

Una cuadrilla de rescatadores, que penetró milla y media dentro de la mina, encontró a un minero inconsciente y a otro muerto. No pudo penetrar más adelante. John M. Webb, encargado de la estación federal de rescate de mineros sita en Knoxville, fue puesto al tanto de las condiciones en que se produjo el accidente, y expresó su opinión de que todos, o, al menos, la mayoría de los mineros sepultados deben de haber perecido.

Misioneras Capturadas por Bandidos Chinos

HANKOW (China), Octubre 4.—Ayer fue atacado por bandidos un gran grupo de misioneros, que se dirigían a sus estaciones de Shenshowfu, Provincia de Kuman, y despojados de cuanto llevaban. Tres misioneros norteamericanos fueron plagiados por los bandidos. Son la señorita Minerva S. Well, de la Misión Reformada; la señorita Lydia Koebbe, de la Misión Evangélica, y el señor Karl P. Beck, de la Misión Reformada. Siete misioneros pudieron escapar, y se hallan ahora a salvo en Taoyuan.

El grupo de misioneros había pagado $153 por los servicios de treinta soldados armados de la guardia de Changteh, que llevaban como escolta; pero, al ver a los bandidos, los soldados se dieron a la fuga.

Guerra Politica Entre Funcionarios del Condado

Nueve de los más significados funcionarios del condado de Los Angeles fueron declarados ayer reos del delito de "felonia", como resultado de una guerra de inusitadas proporciones, que ha estallado en los círculos políticos de la entidad citada. Ocho acusaciones penales han sido lanzadas por el fiscal Keyes, y han recaído sobre tres funcionarios ejecutivos y cinco miembros de la Junta de "Supervisores" del Condado. Los "Supervisores", a su vez, han presentado acusación penal contra el fiscal.

Las personas acusadas por el fiscal se pusieron a disposición del juez municipal Ballard, en cuya sala se presentaron. Consigo llevaban ya lista una demanda en la que formulan ocho capítulos de acusación penal contra el fiscal Keyes. La demanda fue presentada al juez y créese que hoy en la mañana se pondrá a disposición de este el citado Keyes.

En la acusación de felonia contra los "Supervisores" y los demás funcionarios se han formulado trece capítulos. En la acusación contra Keyes se alega que éste ha malversado fondos públicos en ocho ocasiones. Trátase, según se dice, de los "fondos para servicios secretos", que, según la ley, tiene Keyes a su disposición.

Periodista Convicto de Fraude

Joel E. Smith, promotor de una revista intitulada "The Conqueror", se confesó ayer culpable ante el juez James, en el Juzgado de Distrito Federal, de haber hecho uso del correo para cometer fraude. Se le sentenciará el 1 de Noviembre.

Smith ofreció varios premios por subscripciones, y no cumplió su oferta, según reza la acusación. Hace varios años fue convicto de delito análogo, y purgó una condena de dos años en un presidio federal.

Y corrió directamente a cerrar la canilla. Luego, dijo: "¿Qué están ustedes haciendo allí los tres, sentados y llorando, y dejando que la cerveza se derrame por todo el piso?" MORTGAGE GUARANTEE COMPANY

Leading Mortgage Insurance Company of the West

Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits $5,400,000.00 Resources More Than $40,000,000.00

THE Mortgage Insurance Act of California—one of the most stringent Acts in the United States for the safeguarding of real estate loans—was sponsored by the founders of the Mortgage Guarantee Company, and enacted into law in 1913. This Company since its inception has been the predominate institution operating under this law.

The principles upon which this business was founded, and upon which it has been built to its present magnitude, stand today as the supreme protection to both borrowers and investors.

And from this long and successful experience have evolved the various forms of loans and guaranteed investments for institutions and individuals, which are so satisfactorily fulfilling the requirements of a great and growing clientele, including numerous banks, insurance companies and trust estates throughout the country.

Whether you are making an investment or arranging a loan, there is real satisfaction in knowing that the institution with which you are dealing is solid and permanent; that it will stand as a constant safeguard of your interests; and that when your investment or obligation matures, the same institution will be ready to serve you promptly and efficiently, as the occasion may require.

LOAN DEPARTMENT

THE MORTGAGE GUARANTEE COMPANY was founded upon and continues steadfastly to follow a conservative loaning policy, believing that upon no other basis can an institution of this character continue to grow in strength and in usefulness to the community served.

The beneficial effect of this policy, to both borrower and lender, is convincingly shown in the Company's record of loans in the City of Los Angeles, covering a period of years and many millions of dollars, with only two small foreclosures aggregating $12,500.

Another interesting example is the Company's record of investment for one of its leading clients covering a period of five years during which the total defaults amounted to less than 1-100 of one per cent on the amount outstanding (about $10,000,000.00) at the end of the last fiscal year.

Loans are confined strictly to desirably located real estate, either improved or in process of improvement. Appraisals are made by State-approved appraisers and copies filed with the Commissioner of Insurance and the Superintendent of Banks; and in no instance can a loan exceed 50% of the appraisal value of the property.

The various classes of loans include 15-year amortized loans on private residences, 10-year amortized loans on income property, and short-term loans on all classes of property conforming to the Company's standard requirements.

The terms and conditions surrounding the loans of this Company are formulated with true regard for the interests of the borrowers, and are the outgrowth of many years of constructive service to realty owners.

Prompt service, minimum costs, the prestige of a desirable connection, and the proper safeguarding of each phase of every transaction, are some of the important advantages to the borrower in dealing directly with an institution of wide experience, complete facilities and large resources.

A schedule of interest rates will be gladly furnished upon request. Personal conferences are invited.

INVESTMENT DEPARTMENT

IN THE PRESENT MARKET of high prices and low yields, the investments offered by this Company provide a more liberal return than perhaps any other securities of comparable safety.

These investments in every instance are secured by 200% or more of select, improved, conservatively valued real estate adequately insured against defective titles and other possible hazards. Moreover, they are guaranteed as to both principal and interest, not by a concern of questionable responsibility, but by one of the strongest institutions of its kind in the United States, both in resources and personnel.

For private and institutional investment, therefore, the Guaranteed First Deeds of Trust and Guaranteed First Mortgage Certificates of this Company offer the utmost in point of security and yield.

The Certificates, issued in denominations of $100 and multiples thereof and maturing in one to five years, are non-fluctuating, exempt from State, County and Municipal taxes in California, have exceptionally high loan value and constant marketability, and yield up to 6%.

A critical comparison, point for point with other offerings, emphasizes the outstanding merits of the investments originated, safeguarded and guaranteed under the Mortgage Insurance Act of California by the Mortgage Guarantee Company.

Avoid Interest Losses

If you have ever neglected to detach and convert your coupons on due dates; if you have ever held securities which were in default; if you have ever failed to turn in "called" securities for redemption on the dates specified; if you have ever had to wait for your funds to accumulate to a certain amount in order to invest them; then you know how quickly and easily interest is lost.

The Guaranteed First Mortgage Certificates of this Company not only enable investors to avoid all interest losses, but also eliminate all the cares and responsibilities of the usual investment holdings. These Certificates, therefore, are recommended to all who are seeking a thoroughly sound and completely worry-proof investment in convenient form.

A descriptive booklet will be gladly mailed upon request.

COSTLY FIRE IN LUMBER YARDS

Glendale Company Suffers Loss of $70,000

Shift in Wind Prevents Spread of Blaze

Gasoline Tank Explosion Hurts No One

GLENDALE, Oct. 4.—Fire that broke out in the yards of the Bentley Lumber Company at Los Feliz Road and Railroad avenue, shortly after noon today, caused damage estimated at $70,000 before it was brought under control an hour later. The flames started in a shed in which the finish lumber was stored destroying 500,000 feet of lumber together with the shed, leaped to the warehouse in which composition roofing and other building materials were in stock, and thence spread to a dry kiln, that was also burned out.

Fire Chief A. H. Lankford rushed his entire force of men to the fire with the exception of the crew from the Verdugo Woodlands station, which was moved to Station No. 1 in case of emergency. Firemen poured a steady stream of water into the burning area with booster pumps attached to four engines.

At the start of the fire the wind threatened to carry the flames across Gardena street and spread them to adjacent buildings, but a shift in the breeze and the efforts of the firemen prevented this danger after a bungalow belonging to R. W. Castellano at 1221 Gardena avenue had been totally destroyed.

During the fire between fifteen and twenty automobiles belonging to employees of the company, that were parked on the company's property, were burned, two of them blowing up with loud reports, and a 400-gallon underground tank of gasoline, from which the firm's fleet of trucks derived its gasoline supplies, also blew up with a crash, but without injuring anyone. The premises of the Moore Cabinet Works, next door to the Bentley plant on Los Feliz Road, were damaged in the rear by the flames when the wind changed.

The loss, which is covered by insurance, is placed at $30,000 for improvements and buildings, $30,000 for lumber and building material and about $10,000 for additional equipment that has not yet been completely checked up. Roger Bentley, vice-president, declares that the company will continue business at its present location as usual.

Demands Use of Hospital for Osteopaths

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 4.—Another legal broadside against the Community Hospital was fired today by Dr. Errol R. King, osteopathic physician of this city, who filed an amended complaint to obtain a court order declaring the hospital open to all types of authorized physicians. The new complaint gives a detailed series of questions and answers published at the time a campaign was waged to obtain funds by public subscription for the Community Hospital, in which it is asserted that a definite statement was made by President J. V. Titus that any type of practitioner authorized and licensed by the State would be permitted to practice in the hospital.

The first complaint was filed March 16, last, in the Superior Court of Riverside county before Judge B. F. Warmer of San Bernardino. The amended complaint again names the hospital, its board of directors, and Miss Nellie M. Porter, former superintendent, as defendants.

Dr. King asserts he subscribed $100 to the fund upon strength of representations made by the hospital officials. He further declared that since the opening of the hospital March 15, 1925, the directors have prohibited the use by osteopathic physicians of the regular maternity, surgical and operating rooms, and medical wing for their patients.

POSTOFFICE SWAMPED

Lankershim Plans for Sidewalks to Get Carrier Delivery

LANKERSHIM, Oct. 4.—There is a move here for everybody in the townsite and immediately adjacent to stop what they are doing and get in behind a strenuous sidewalk program. There is a plan to completely sidewalk the town, up and down and criss-cross, in order to be granted free city mail deliveries by the national postal authorities, which demand that a town be sidewalked before it will start the mail-carrier system.

Pending all this, leading citizens here say the local postoffice is likely to "blow up" because of the present congestion due to the need for the delivery carriers. The postmaster is literally swamped with business. The office has 850 boxes and a waiting list of 350. The rural routes supply 1100 families and it is estimated that more than 1000 persons daily call at the postoffice windows for mail. All other windows are overcrowded. The moment that carriers are permitted to carry mail about town to homes, all of the present congestion will cease.

Time and again Postmaster Osborne has asked the national authorities for carriers and the reply has been that the city must be sidewalked first. Now comes the move that the most important thing to be done here is to build sidewalks, and everybody is called in to get behind the project.

OPPOSE LEASING OF MUSCLE SHOALS

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 4.—A. C. Hardison of this city, appointed by Secretary Jardine to serve on the investigating committee regarding the disposition of Muscle Shoals, is opposed to leasing the plant to either of the two power companies who wish to get control of it. Hardison is a member of the American Farm Bureau executive committee and as such was named on the investigating committee by Jardine. He states that the committee is opposed to either power company obtaining the lease. Hardison returned today after a visit to the project with other members of the committee.

CITY NEEDS THE MONEY

Long Beach Municipal Gas Plant Forced to Raise Rates or Quit Business

LONG BEACH, Oct. 4.—After an experience of three years in the gas business, during which time it has operated its own gas plant and distributed through its own gas mains, Long Beach wants to change its rates for gas if it is to continue in the municipal ownership game.

Fifty-cent gas, the campaign slogan that was shouted to the voters when they were asked to authorize a $3,000,000 bond issue to enable the city to go into the gas business, is still a slogan and even a reality here, but on several occasions it has been threatened with extinction. Talk by City Councilmen of increasing the gas rate has aroused such a storm of protest that the gas question has been left severely alone by Councilmen in recent months.

But the newest attempt to alter rates promises to gain not only the support but the official approval of the city fathers. Announcement of a new tentative schedule of gas rates was made today by W. A. White, head of the gas department. The schedule, it was announced, already has the approval of City Manager Henderson and Councilman John Arnold, chairman of the gas committee. Under the new schedule consumers of gas in Long Beach would be taxed in accordance with their choice of three different rates, as follows:

Fifty cents per 1000 cubic feet for any amount up to 50,000 feet. Under rate No. 2, the charge would be 40 cents per 1000 feet for the first 50,000 cubic feet; 35 cents per 1000 for the next 50,000 feet and 30 cents for the next 100,000 cubic feet. The third rate is designed for consumers of gas in excess of 200,000 feet up to 5,000,000 feet of gas and is set at 20 cents per 1000. Another rate for users in excess of 5,000,000 feet per month is 20 cents for the first 5,000,000 and 15 cents for all over that amount.

The chief effect of the proposed change in rate as it concerns the average domestic consumer would be the changing of the minimum monthly charge from 75 cents, the existing rate, to $1 under the first classification. Minimums for the other three rates are $20 for the second classifications; $40 for the third and $1000 for the fourth classification. The city has one customer, the Southern California Edison Company, which uses millions of cubic feet of gas per month at its Terminal Island plant.

AGED MAN TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Veteran Federal Employee Grows Despondent Because of Ill Health

GLENDALE, Oct. 4.—Spencer L. Toll, 84 years of age, of 1019 Santee street, Los Angeles, was found dead this morning in an outhouse on the estate of his brother, Charles H. Toll, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles, at the Toll residence at 415 Kenneth Road, Glendale, the deceased having hanged himself from a beam in the building.

The aged man had been missing from his brother's home since yesterday morning and when he failed to return last night a search was instituted, but it was not until this morning that his body was found. Mr. Toll was forced to undergo a serious surgical operation several months ago, and his health had been causing his relatives serious concern since that time, as he had failed to recuperate as well as had been hoped.

Mr. Toll fought through the Civil War, coming here forty years ago from Iowa. He entered the service of the government in the railway mail service and was in charge of the clerks in the Arcade postoffice station in Los Angeles when he retired from active work some years ago. TRIBUTE FOR PIONEER ENGINEER

Many Attend Funeral at Three Rivers

George W. Welch

Photograph made at recent opening of the Generals' Highway to Giant Forest where veteran surveyor was guest of honor.

THREE RIVERS, Oct. 4.—Pioneers from all sections of Tulare county paid final tribute yesterday morning to George W. Welch, 96 years of age, picturesque pioneer of Three Rivers, former surveyor of Jones county, Iowa, prominently associated with construction of a railroad in Iowa and surveyor of the first road to Giant Forest, Sequoia National Park. Mr. Welch died late Friday at the home of Mrs. Ora Welch, daughter-in-law, of Three Rivers. He was buried yesterday in the Three Rivers Cemetery.

In addition to his surveying in Iowa he also pioneered in this field in Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio. A native of New York State, he moved in his youth to Ohio and attended Oberlin College. He came to California in 1885 and surveyed the old Visalia Tulare Railroad, starting in 1887. Later he built the Colony Mill road to Giant Forest, the first to that region.

Formal dedication of the new all-year, one-way road—the Generals' Highway—to Giant Forest, September 5, 1925, by Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks, marked a great moment for Mr. Welch. The elderly man was honor guest of forest service and county officials on that occasion, being shown special tribute. That was his first visit to Giant Forest in twenty-one years. It was his last trip to the big trees which he loved so well, and which his untiring effort helped to bring closer to thousands of visitors from all parts of the world who have traveled into Sequoia National Park since he supervised carving out of the first road to that region.

The Generals' Highway branches from the old road at a point beyond Three Rivers, cutting down driving time considerably, also being much easier and safer to negotiate.

The charm of the high Sierras cast their spell upon Welch soon after his arrival in the Three Rivers section forty-one years ago. He became a familiar figure with his horse and pack animals as he explored the canyons and peaks. Later in life he became interested in the spineless cactus and while calling upon Luther Burbank secured some starts of the plant first-hand. A large field of spineless cacti is still standing on his place near here.

Always a lover of books and magazines, he displayed keen interest in political matters. As a staunch Republican he voted for Lincoln and saw his inaugural journey through Ohio. He cast his first vote for Admiral Scott, who was defeated by Pierce.

Never addicted to the use of liquor, he gave up tobacco years ago and believed his simple mode of living enabled him to almost reach the century mark in spite of frailty in young manhood.

Miss Frankie Welch of Three Rivers, his granddaughter and most direct descendant, promises to follow his illustrious footsteps. Miss Welch already displays marked ability as a newspaper woman.

Also surviving are two nieces in Santa Monica, Mrs. Fred H. Taft and Mrs. Charleana Welch; a nephew, George W. Welch of Boulder, Colo.; two nieces, Misses Clare and Louise Barrow of Columbus, O.

Rev. Sutherland of the Lemon Cove Church officiated at the funeral.

Van Nuys Man is Like Modern Rip Van Winkle

VAN NUYS, Oct. 4.—F. J. Huckman, pioneer Van Nuysan, today finds himself in the position of a Rip Van Winkle who quits his home town for the brief space of four years, and on coming back finds himself lost because of the fast growth of the place. Huckman left Van Nuys four years ago for Syracuse, N. Y., to sell his holdings there. It took much longer than he first thought, as he expected to return within several months. He arrived here today, and the first thing he did was to ride over Van Nuys and parts of the San Fernando Valley adjacent.

"For a time I didn't know where I was," he said. "There are about fifty times more autos, all the horses and wagons are gone, streets and highways are paved in every direction, spaces that were desert places are now jammed with homes, schools, business houses and theaters have been erected and telephone lines run up and done almost every road. I can remember the time when even a telephone was a luxury in a physician's home.

"Radios have been born since I have been gone. Before coming home I first thought I would go to New York City and see the baseball world series. I am glad I did not now, for in a friend's house here yesterday I sat by a radio and enjoyed the game play by play. But the most wonderful thing of California is its road system. It has the world beat in this."

FIGURES FAVOR BAKERSFIELD

Future Growth of City Assured by Report of Vital Statistics

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 4.—The patient stork averages a landing in Bakersfield each eleven hours and five minutes and two seconds, or 790 times a year, according to City Clerk Vance Van Riper's sheet of vital statistics. In that bit of information lies Bakersfield's claim to a prospective rapid growth for the visits of death every twenty-one hours and seven minutes is the average maintained, the City Clerk reports.

Hand in hand with the aforementioned figures are those closely allied and furnished by F. E. Smith, the County Clerk. Disregarding his working hours, he issues a marriage license on an average of one every eleven hours. And here again the outlook is promising, in that he grants divorce papers at the rate of one every nineteen hours.

ORIENTALS UNEASY AS TO EMPLOYMENT CUT

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Pronounced uneasiness is growing in oriental circles throughout British Columbia regarding recent moves calculated to reduce their means of livelihood. Following announcements by lumbermen that they are prepared to reduce oriental employment by 25 per cent per year until they are totally eliminated provided the minimum wage of 40 cents per day is not enforced or substituted by a minimum of 35 cents, agricultural workers have renewed their protests against orientals working on Sundays. Surrey municipal council has agreed to take action against Chinese who do field work on Sundays, farmers asserting the orientals work seven days a week creating unfair competition. A check will also be made on movement of produce by motor trucks on Sundays.

WILD BEASTS INVADE CITY

Declare Open Season for Dangerous Animals Said to Have Made Their Home in Park in the Heart of San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 4.—Although located directly in the heart of the city boasting a collection of animals from all over the world, Balboa Park in this city, is still the stalking ground of wild animals, according to Dr. Harry Wegeforth, president of the Zoological Society. Since the attendants were permitted to be armed with shotguns by the local courts to protect the "wild animals" classified for the public gave, from a common herd of dogs, it was discovered yesterday that the "dogs" are a pack of real wild coyotes hiding in the heavy timber of the park.

Guns of the guards brought down two of the beasts yesterday. This discovery has thrown the Zoo guards into a panic, as it comes just after the shooting of a wildcat through the window of the natural-history museum a few days ago and the killing of a wild blue heron recently. The heron robs the ponds of fish, the wildcat seeks the goats and ducks and the coyotes any live thing accessible to them. A wide open trapping and hunting season is on right in the heart of San Diego.

ANAHEIM, Oct. 4.—Checks totaling $287,000 are now being received by growers who marketed Valencias in the second pool of fruit handled this season by the Anaheim Co-operative Orange Association branch of the Mutual Orange Distributors' Association, according to report this morning by J. H. Ritchie, manager.

Final settlement for the pool shipments is expected to be announced by the Anaheim Orange and Lemon Association about the middle of this month.

HOLD RANCHER ON BURGLARY CHARGE

SAUSALITO, Oct. 4. — A. Weber, rancher west of Porterville, is being held in the Tulare County Jail in Visalia for asserted connection with a series of robberies in this district recently.

Weber was arrested by Constable D. O. Howard of Pixley, who says the defendant is wanted in connection with theft of two dozen thoroughbred Rhode Island hens and pullets from the Sam Hill ranch, near here, early Sunday morning. Five of the stolen hens are declared to have been found on Weber's place.

The man is also believed to have looted the Sausalito schoolhouse last Friday morning. Net curtains and an oil stove, said to have come from the school building, were found in Weber's home. Shoes worn by Mr. and Mrs. Weber are reported to have fitted tracks found at the Hill ranch and at the schoolhouse.

BURGLARS STEAL CHILDREN'S PENNIES

FULLERTON, Oct. 4. — Evidently qualifying for the distinction of the meanest thefts of the season, burglars over the week-end looted the cradle roll collection boxes at four local churches, securing 124 pennies for their pains. They got $15 in cash at the Christian church after jimmying the door of the pastor's study and breaking open the desk of Rev. George Tinsley. The thieves also visited the Presbyterian Baptist and Methodist churches and looted the Public Library, getting $12 in fine money.

PROMISE FUND FOR LOBBYING

Imperial Supervisors to Donate to Organization in Favor of Swing Bill

EL CENTRO, Oct. 4.—Imperial County Supervisors today tentatively agreed to contribute $2300 toward the $17,500 fund being raised by the Boulder Dam Association to secure the passage of the Swing-Johnson bill at the next session of Congress.

Earl C. Pound, president of the irrigation district board of directors, appeared before the Supervisors as spokesman for a large delegation of business men and ranchers. He stated that all Southern California counties are contributing to the Boulder dam fund and that since the irrigation district had been restrained by the courts from spending money for this purpose the county was the only source from which Imperial's share could be obtained.

The money, he said, was to be used for a nation-wide letter-writing campaign to interest members of Congress in the legislation and for the purpose of sending a delegation to Washington to lobby for the bill. The Supervisors stated that they would furnish the money out of their publicity fund if the District Attorney would approve the claim.

WILL PLANT TREES

Van Nuys Woman's Club to Foster Large Beautification Program

VAN NUYS, Oct. 4.—According to the plans of women in this community all other kinds of civic improvement is going to stop until a big tree-planting program is put over. The next meeting of the Van Nuys Woman's Club will be "community service day" with Mrs. S. O. Houghton as chairman. The big objective of the club this year will be to plant trees in Van Nuys and in districts immediately adjacent, and members have invited service clubs, the Chamber of Commerce, the Realty Board and all other associations to attend the meeting and signify the part they will play in the program.

Mrs. Estelle Moehn is the new president of the Woman's Club. She has announced that Van Nuys must be made a beautiful club like Pasadena, and that the only way to accomplish this is to plant trees on every lot in the townsite. A schedule is planned in which every citizen will be urged to plant trees, and after that, committees will be appointed to see that all pledges are carried out to the letter.

NEW FACTOR TO GOVERN TRAFFIC

Angeleno Advances Theory on Congestion Control

Economic Principle Applies to City Problems

Trolley Men's Meet Startled by Novel Views

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—At a meeting of the executive committee of the American Electric Railway Association here today, George Baker Anderson, manager of transportation of the Los Angeles Railway, spoke at length on street congestion.

Mr. Anderson voiced his belief that the management of city streets on proven economic principles will result in eliminating unnecessarily wasteful and unbusinesslike traffic congestion.

"Private enterprise in America has made unparalleled advances because of the executive genius that has been applied to it," he said. "We have failed to exhibit a similar genius in the operation of the public streets and highways.

"Though we have not yet classified the operation of our public highways as business, as the term is generally defined, we are rapidly approaching the day when in the more populous cities such operation and control will stand beside the railway transportation industry as not only one of the most important lines of business in itself, but of vital concern to all other lines of business, on which of necessity, they depend.

"The widening of existing thoroughfares, separation of grades at intersections, building of subways and elevated roads will not solve the problem. The more room there is provided, the more vehicles will there be clamoring for the privilege of using them.

"That an efficient, businesslike management of the streets is necessary seems obvious. The streets are public property whose use is not now governed by sound economic consideration."

"Times" Daily Short Story

The Home Department

By Wallace Irwin

There was radiance in her devotion to easy-going, proud, incapable Sam.

JANET BROWN chose Sam Bogart because she loved him; Eve's reason. Her marriage was a record of seven lean years, not exactly a punishment for her rashness, for there was radiance in her devotion to easy-going, proud, incapable Sam, who was the poor limb of a rich family and, upon leaving college, was expected to "step in" to a good business. What he did get was $5000 a year in an insurance company, which was a fair start for a young couple with some social obligations, and a stepping-stone to advancement.

Well, Sam advanced backward to $4000 a year, and this would have been Janet's tragedy, save that she was one whose spirit dies hard. At the end of the seven lean years the Bogarts were living in two rooms and a kitchenette—no elevator, and a ladies' tailor shop below.

Two weeks after their marriage Sam, in his young pride, said, "Jan, if I can't support you, I'm going to jump off something." Well, he had kept his promise in a futile way. He wasn't the jumping kind. He merely slid back. In her good heart Janet adored him, but in her terribly honest subconscious self she realized her superiority; and because they couldn't afford children she took Sam into her arms and mothered him all the time, managing to foster in him the delusion that he was the man of the house, the breadwinner, the strong protector.

Had Janet been another sort of Janet, their home might have become grubby. As it was, she applied her taste, bringing together oddments and remainders to cover the bleakness of chairs and windows. As a visitor you would never have thought of them as poor, and the day when Elsie Ranger came in for tea she brought with her the idea of riches. "I could sit here for hours! Janet, you can make your fortune—with your taste. Cullen & Fiske's store are starting a Home Department—you remember Marvin Ferguson: your father was so fond of him—he's manager there. Why don't you go and see him?"

Janet was tempted, but she knew Sam's pride. Then when winter came and she found herself on the avenue, shivering in an old coat, she remembered that Sam's was becoming shabby, too. She had talent; Ferguson had been her father's friend. Something guided her feet to Cullen & Fiske's, where she made a scornful review of their attempt to furnish a model apartment. This gave her courage to go to Mr. Ferguson and make herself known as the little girl he had known at Shrewsbury. He was kind at first, but when she unfolded her half-formed plan he became serious and invited himself to tea at her apartment on the following day.

A little afraid of what she had done, Janet said nothing to Sam that night. Next morning he, too, was unusually reticent; then before he left for the office he delved shyly into his pocket and brought out a small aquamarine brooch. "Have you forgotten, old girl? It's our wedding anniversary. Let's blow ourselves tonight. We'll pick up the Bryants and strut over to Leon Errol's show." It was so appealing, so extravagant, she wanted to cry . . .

THAT afternoon when Mr. Ferguson arrived, promptly at 4, she had the apartment dressed like a bride for his coming. The need of money was gnawing, and she must succeed. He paced the rugs, fingered the hangings, appraised everything: kitchenette drawing-room, bedroom. On the sofa he admired two large black and white velvet pillows. "Mighty effective," he admitted, and she casually informed him that they were made from odds and ends; she didn't say that the white velvet had come from her wedding gown, which she had made over until it began falling into rags. But she told him the ridiculous little prices she had paid for this and that.

All the time he stood admiring the suave harmony of the room, and at last, planted stolidly on his vici kid shoes, he informed her that she was wasting her time as a housekeeper. The Cullen & Fiske stores needed Janet . . . their model flat was a mess . . . people with limited means were flocking in, trying to find out how to make a home . . .

At 6 o'clock he left her with a promise which sounded like nonsense until she had said it over many times. Eight thousand a year . . . eight thousand—

That night when Sam came home she was still afraid to tell him. A mysterious excitement was burning behind his eyes. It was not until they were home from the show and in bed that she began to confess, speaking caressingly into his ear. "Old man, we're not going to be so hard up—"

Her heart stopped when he asked sharply, "Who told you?"

"Told me?" She drew away.

"Janet!" There was heartbreak in his jubilant voice. "They gave me a raise today. Five thousand a year now. Think of it! After seven years of it—" And because she was silent, "I know, honey, I haven't gone far yet. But we'll be able to live a lot better . . ."

He was glowing, and she found voice to say, "It's so wonderful. And if I could help a little—"

"You help? You mean make money? You know what I've always thought. If I was one of those things that have to take money from a woman, I'd blow out my fool brains." In the darkness she brushed his cheek and felt his tears.

It was then she resolved that he should never feel that way, so next morning she wrote to Mr. Ferguson, thanking him and refusing an offer which, she said, might cause her to neglect her home. Then she relieved her nerves in her own way.

Lighting a cigarette, she burned a large hole in one of her black and white sofa cushions. She wasn't all angel.

RUMANIANS IN PRAYERS FOR QUEEN

Church Service for Safe Trip to America; Film Offer All Right, But—

BUCHAREST (Rumania) Oct. 4. (AP) At the direction of the patriarch of Rumania, special prayers were said today in every church in the country for a happy voyage for Queen Marie, who left Saturday for Paris on the first stage of her long-heralded trip to the United States.

The Queen's message to her people, which was telegraphed from the frontier, was read in the churches.

"I go," wrote the Queen, "bearing in my heart love for my country and reflecting that, traveling to far distant America, I shall everywhere represent Rumania, to which I believe my voyage will render service.

"I desire that my country shall guard for me until I return that warm trust which I carry with me, and that she will follow me in my travels with the thought that at every instant I shall seek to assist her."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Taking cognizance of stories emanating from Hollywood, the Rumanian Legation pointed out today that film producers are entirely at liberty to offer Queen Marie $25,000 or any other amount to appear in a picture while she is in this country, "but there is a long way from the making of an offer to its acceptance."

SELLER CONFIRMS SALE OF SEQUOIAS

DULUTH (Minn.) Oct. 4. (AP)—The sale of 12,000 acres of giant Sequoia trees in the Calaveras Grove, near Stockton, Cal., by Robert B. Whiteside of Duluth to the Pickering Lumber Company was announced here today by Whiteside upon his return from Oklahoma. The amount involved was not made known, although it was understood to approximate $2,000,000.

THOMPSON STARTS ON TRIP HOME

Thanks People of Islands for Aid and Tells Deep Desire for Education

MANILA, Oct. 4. (AP)—Carmi A. Thompson, personal representative of President Coolidge, began his voyage homeward today, having completed a survey of Philippine conditions. He will visit China and Japan, and expects to reach Seattle November 19. A detachment of Spanish War Veterans, of which organization Mr. Thompson is past commander, escorted him to the pier.

A statement by Mr. Thompson expressed his "sincere appreciation of the whole-hearted assistance received from Gov.-Gen. Wood, the Legislature, officials, department secretaries and others" during his three-month investigation. The statement continued:

"It is apparent that I should not discuss matters to be considered in my report until I have presented it to President Coolidge, without violating instructions. However, I can say that my trip through the Philippines convinced me that the people of all walks of life are hungry for education.

"I trust that the report I shall make to President Coolidge based on facts gathered here will promote better understanding between the Filipinos and the people of the United States."

The Philippine Senate and House, in joint session today, adopted a resolution in the form of a memorial to Mr. Thompson, expressing the desire of the Filipinos for immediate, absolute and complete independence.

ALFONSO LAYS CORNER-STONE

SAN SEBASTIAN (Spain) Oct. 4. (AP)—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria laid the corner-stone today of the Red Cross Hospital here. The ceremony was attended by numerous officials and a large crowd, which acclaimed the monarchs.

PACKERS OPEN FIRE ON RULING

Ex-Secretary Hughes Acting as "Big Five" Counsel

Decision of 1920 Attacked as Court Tyranny

Former Atty.-Gen. Palmer Scored for Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—With former Secretary Hughes appearing for the appellants and Asst. Atty.-Gen. Donovan for the government, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals heard final arguments today on the appeal of the "Big Five" meat packers for the setting aside of the celebrated "consent decree" of 1920.

In asking that the District Supreme Court be overruled and the decree permanently set aside, Mr. Hughes argued that the court had exceeded its judicial powers in entering the decree in the first place, since there had been no finding of fact or agreement that a violation of the law had, in fact, taken place.

PALMER SCORED

In addition, the former Secretary of State asserted that A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney General in the Wilson Cabinet, had abused the authority of his office in requiring the packers to enter into the decree to prevent the carrying out of Federal actions then instituted in the Federal Courts in Illinois.

"This was not a decree, but an abuse of the administration of justice," Mr. Hughes declared, adding that the whole action constituted "an abuse of the powers of the Attorney General's office, the like of which never has been seen before."

Col. Donovan argued that the court below had the authority to enter the decree despite the stipulation contained in it that it was not to be construed as an admission of any law violation by the packers.

"The defendants had a right to compel the government to prove the charges made in the bill of complaint," Mr. Donovan said, "but they elected not to do so, but to enter into the consent decree.

LAW'S END SERVED

"The purpose was to prevent violations of the antitrust laws, and as such served the real purpose of the law, which is to prevent the creation of monopolies. Once a monopoly is formed, dissolution decrees are more form than fact."

Edgar Watkins appeared as counsel for the American Wholesale Grocers' Association, which has intervened in the case, and he argued with Col. Donovan that the District Court of Appeals had no jurisdiction since under the law appeals in antitrust cases must go direct from the local court to the United States Supreme Court.

This new was combated by Conrad H. Syme, as well as by Mr. Hughes. They took the position that since the District of Columbia courts are created independently of the other Federal judiciary, appeals would have to be made to the District Court of Appeals.

Pacific-Southwest Business

Cobwebs and Pussywillow—A Factory With Sex Interest

X

WHEN I said, a little while back, that factories are not much to see, I knew there were exceptions like silk mills. For the raw material is clean, the machinery is tended by pretty girls who have time to explain things, and the product is both beautiful and marvelous. Threads as fine as three hundred thousand yards to the pound are spun in the silk mill at Hermosa Beach—Ariadne could give Theseus enough to mark eighteen miles of maze with a pound of that. This mill welcomes visitors, especially women and school children, and is the only one west of the Ohio—and one of the only four in the United States that perform all operations from spinning to finishing.

NO better example of a "promotion" could be found. Thousands of shares of stock were sold to people who have no business investing in factory enterprises. Big figures were used to dazzle people with the possibilities of profit, for billions of dollars worth of raw silk come into Pacific Coast ports, go East, and silk goods come back—millions of dollars worth of chiffon, crepe de chene, pussy-willow and hosiery for the Pacific-Southwest alone.

"Why not make it here?" said the promoters, and began raising money. They had a hard job. Stock wasn't moving very fast anywhere at that time. It began to look as though the people who had listened to the glowing prospects would lose their money.

THEN a local man, a banker, took hold. He put lots of his own money into the enterprise and interested some people with money to come in. He bought plenty of ground for the parent plant, with enough for the allied plants that would in time grow up around it. He built a truly Southern California factory for the plant, and purchased silk machinery. He got a silk man from the East, but ideas of revolutionizing silk weaving machinery crept in, and, with other difficulties piling up, the banker found he had to make a change. The old story of inexperience in silk factory management. Bankruptcy might have resulted.

Then contact was made with an experienced silk man in the Paterson silk center, a man whose family is and has been in silk manufacture for years. He took hold of the mill that had succeeded in making seventy pieces of silk cloth the first year, not a single yard of which was sold.

Fifteen thousand shares of stock were bought back from pleading people—in the eastern silk centers such stock is almost never sold to the public, because it is too profitable. Today the plant is turning out several thousand yards of fine fabrics, and a knitting mill for full-fashioned silk hosiery is soon to be added.

I WON'T tell you how silk fabrics are made—you can go and see yourself.

Can they be made here in Southern California as well as the eastern mills make them? That's the question. And the answer is, that they are being made, with better satisfaction to the people who buy silk. Manufacture is simply a question of competent management. Other mills will come in, and be welcomed by this pioneer factory, because silk is a line in which operations are facilitated when there are separate mills to do the spinning, weaving, dyeing, designing, and so forth.

Part of this mill's fabrics are sold to the "cutting up trade," or makers of silk lingerie, dresses, and other garments. Local fabrics are better for them in several ways. Style plays an important part in silk garments, as every woman knows. A new color will flash up overnight, women storm the stores for it, garment manufacturers grow frantic in wiring for the particular weave and shade, and if the silk mills are three thousand miles away, anybody can see that the handicaps are great. Even if the garment maker gets his silks, he must order in considerable quantities to be sure of having enough. And likely as not the fashion will change, and he has the old shades left on his hands, and must begin all over again, wiring East.

This mill in Southern California is on the telephone. It can dye and deliver any shade in twenty-four hours. The garment manufacturer can order small quantities if he wants to. And the mill has taken off its customers' hands eastern fabrics for which the demand had ceased, and dyed them staple black, so that they were made up and sold without any loss.

YOU hear, every so often, about strikes in the eastern silk mills. Like many strikes, these are caused by slack seasons. There are two of these seasons in the silk trade, amounting to three or four months in the year. During busy seasons the operatives squeeze employers, and during slack seasons it is turn about. But in Southern California the pioneer mill offsets the dull seasons by selling piece silks to retail merchants, and employees have a full year's work. Competition has not forced the "loading" of product, so fabrics wear well, and women come back to the stores for more.

This climate is also ideal for silk spinning and weaving. In the East, production varies with cold, heat, and humidity. It is necessary to make artificial climate with air-conditioning apparatus, and that costs money. Nature does the air-conditioning here, and climate is so constant that only a little humidifying apparatus is used for spinning the finest Ariadne threads. Mill construction costs are lower, too—a dollar-fifty the square foot builds a silk mill here against three-fifty in Paterson.

WHEN it comes to skilled workers, this mill has the best, and a waiting list of others who want jobs. From the day a real silk executive took hold, it has never been necessary to send East for a worker to perform any special operation.

Moreover, the workers are of the kind that an eastern superintendent holds as long as he can, the men and women who save money, own their homes, work steadily, and give and take intelligently when the ups and downs of the industry have to be met.

Mostly Americans, with a few Italians from the north of Italy, they have caught the pioneering spirit of the enterprise. Here is a brand new mill, in a newer, better land. Intelligent teamwork on the machines will turn the balance between success and failure. The ponderous element known as "personnel relations" in big eastern organizations is here a pleasant acquaintance between management and employees.

Why shouldn't these folks be the pick of the industry? If they had not been skilful, thrifty, and clubable, they would never have been able to pay the railroad fare to Southern California, and made a new beginning in life. They appreciate the vastly better living conditions here, and intend to see that their means of livelihood are safeguarded.

I THINK it is about time we talked over this matter of factory workers in Southern California—we'll discuss it next week.

STRUCTURAL IRON TRADE SHOWS GAIN

Awards on West Coast During Week Heaviest Since Last of August

BY DON PARTRIDGE

(Associate Editor, Western Construction News.)

Awards of structural steel shapes and plates featured the market. Movement in other lines was by no means heavy. With few exceptions, noticeably merchant and concrete bars, prices on most steel commodities are firm.

The only award of concrete bars exceeding 100 tons was secured by a San Francisco jobber and involved 400 tons for a plant at Richmond for the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company. Pending business exceeds 8000 tons, the two largest projects calling for 3300 tons for piers in San Francisco and 2250 tons for the Coolidge dam in Arizona. Prices on out-of-stock material now range from 2.30 to 2.35 cents on large lots, and from 2.40 to 2.45 cents on small lots.

Interest this week was centered around the award of 1600 tons of plates for four ferry boats for the Southern Pacific Company, Moore Drydock Company securing two of the boats, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and General Engineering and Drydock Company one each. Bids will be opened next week for two syphon projects for the Southern California Edison, calling for approximately 8000 tons. Pending business is in excess of 10,000 tons. Bids are being received on 200 tons for a pipe line at Yakima, Wash. Prices continue firm at 2.30 cents c.i.f. as a minimum.

Awards of structural steel were the heaviest in over five weeks and totaled 3000 tons. Dyer Bros. secured 725 tons for the St. Joseph's Hospital, San Francisco, Central Iron Works booked 650 tons for an office building at Pine and Sansome streets, San Francisco; the Southern Pacific Company placed 800 tons for four ferry boats with three shipbuilding companies, and McClintic Marshall Company took 275 tons for a plant at Lompoc, Cal., for the Celite Products Company. Pending business aggregates over 10,000 tons. Prices are firm at 2.38 cents c.i.f.

Grinnell Company secured the only large cast-iron pipe award of the week. This involved 287 tons for Santa Cruz. A number of projects are up for figures, the total exceeding 6000 tons. Movement of standard pipe is somewhat restricted of late. Bids were opened this week for 950 tons for La Mesa, Cal.

Apple Packers Exhaust Stocks of Small Motors

Stocks of small motors in the Pacific Northwest were entirely depleted last week, due to enforcement of government regulations requiring apple growers in Eastern Washington to wipe apples sprayed during the season with arsenic lead before packing, reports Electrical World, New York.

California jobbers report brisk business in wiring staples affected by a recent price flurry. Heavy equipment orders included electrical apparatus for two Southern Pacific ferry boats amounting to $200,000.

There was little change in the general market situation last week. The first orders for restoring the devastation wrought by the Florida hurricane are recorded in the southeastern section and are quickening an already active market. The Middle West is busy and optimistic, with active demand from the utilities, the steel industry and the mines.

Power-plant equipment and central-station supplies were the outstanding items in New England. There were good sales of motors in the New York district, but central-station buying was below normal.

The Clearinghouse

News of Spring Street

Howard N. Martin, president of Howard N. Martin & Co., left yesterday for a six weeks' business trip to New York and other eastern points. Mr. Martin will stop en route in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas points to visit properties of the Rio Grande Oil Company, in whose financing his organization has been a factor. He will also inspect properties of various eastern companies whose bonds have been distributed in Los Angeles.

Metzler in Land Deal

Metzler & Co., have been given the financial supervision of the Camarillo Land Company, which includes the control of the Pleasant Valley Mutual Water Company. The property involved is estimated to be worth more than $1,000,000.

RESERVE BANK PLANS VOTE

Nomination Blanks for Membership on Directorate Being Mailed Members in Twelfth Area

In accordance with the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act, forms for use in the nomination of candidates for the position of Class "A" and Class "B" director of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco have been distributed among the stockholding member banks of the Twelfth Reserve District. Pools for this year's election will open November 15 and will close December 6.

Of the nine directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of this district, the terms of three expire December 31, one in each of the three classes, A, B and C. This year the Class A director will be nominated and elected by member banks in Group II, or banks with a combined capital and surplus of not more than $599,000 nor less than $125,000. The Class A director is usually a banker.

The Class B director, elected by member banks of Group I, including banks with a capital and surplus of more than $599,999, must be engaged in commerce, agriculture or some other industrial pursuit. The Class C director is designated by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington and cannot be an officer, director, employee or stockholder of any bank.

J. S. Macdonnell, president of the First National Bank of Pasadena, is the retiring director of Class A; A. B. C. Dohrman, president of the Dohrmann Commercial Company of San Francisco, is the retiring director of Class B, and John Perrin, San Francisco, former chairman of the board, is the retiring member of Class C. Mr. Perrin retired from the board several months ago and Isaac B. Newton of Los Angeles was appointed to fill the vacancy, and in all probability will be reappointed for the three-year term. Mr. Macdonnell is not eligible for re-election, as he has become an officer and director of a bank in Group I.

The Los Angeles branch directors of the Twelfth Reserve District, consisting of seven, are chosen each year, four by the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, and the other three by the board in Washington. It is expected that the local directors will be reappointed.

Other directors of the Federal Reserve district and the date of term expiration are as follows: Class A—Howard Whipple, president First National Bank of Turlock, December 31, 1927; C. K. McIntosh, vice-president Bank of California, San Francisco, December 31, 1928. Class B—William T. Sesnon, Soquel, Cal., agriculturist, December 31, 1927; Elmer H. Cox, vice-president and general manager Madera Sugar Pine Company, Madera, December 31, 1928. Class C—Walton N. Moore, president Walton N. Moore Dry Goods Company, Inc., San Francisco, December 31, 1927; William Sproule, president Southern Pacific Company, San Francisco, December 31, 1928.

TRADING IN JULIAN AT NEW HIGH

Sales of Preferred and Common Shares Establish Record; Union Off

Sales of Julian Petroleum preferred and common shares on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday broke all records for a single day's trading in the history of either issue. Approximately 73,000 shares of preferred and 47,000 shares of common crossed the board with an aggregate value of approximately $1,750,000. The preferred added 7-8 of a point to a close at 22 1-8, while the common sold firm throughout the day at 4 3-8.

There was little activity in the balance of the oil list and prices were generally lower. Union Oil of California declined 1 point to 53½, and Associates closed at 55. United Oil closed ⅛ of a point lower at 76 and Standard Oil of California closed firm at 60 1-4, after adding a fraction early. Bolsa Chica lost a fraction to 7, and California Petroleum closed 3-8 of a point net lower at 31 3-8, Rio Grande held at 34 1-4.

Southern California Edison common rallied to 31½, while the preferred issues held firm. Los Angeles Investment sold off to 3.10 and closed 1 point net lower at 3.11. Bancitaly Corporation rallied 3-8 of a point to 80 5-8.

Virginia Louise advance sharply, adding 2½ points to 8 and closing at 7. Western Apex held firm at 57. Boundary Cone added ½ of a point to 8½ and Big Jim and Gold Dust each moved up that amount to 19½ and 5½, respectively.

No Change in Dividend Rate Says President

No change in the rate of dividend on Belding Heminway Company common stock is anticipated, according to a statement just issued by E. C. Young, president of the company, in reply to rumors that the dividend rate would be cut. He pointed out that the company is continuing to earn in excess of its dividend requirements during a period in which most other companies of a similar nature have lost money.

MINERAL OUTPUT OF STATE UP

Value of All Including Oil Shows Gain in Year of $59,898,874

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 4. (Exclusive) California's 1925 mineral production was valued at $434,619,660, an increase over the previous year of $59,898,871, according to a report filed with the State Board of Control today by Llyod L. Foot, State Mineralogist.

Root emphasizes the fact that everyone of the fifty-eight counties of the State contributed to the production, the feature of which was the increase in the value of the petroleum yield. It totaled 232,429,147 barrels, valued at $330,609,829 or an increase over 1924 of $55,956,955. The production was 3,558,676 barrels over 1924.

The report declares that while the gold production decreased slightly California continued to account for approximately 10 per cent of the gold output of the United States. Last year's production was valued at $13,065,330.

Lead increased from 4,984,387 pounds worth $398,751 to 7,325,422 pounds worth $639,661; zinc from 3,060,000 pounds and $192,000 to 11,546,602 pounds and $877,542; quicksilver from 7948 flasks and $543,080 to 7683 flasks and $621,831; platinum from 273 fine ounces and $36,452 to 292 fine ounces and $39,937.

Of the structural materials, cement increased from 11,655,131 barrels worth $23,225,850 to 13,206,630 barrels, valued at $25,043,335 and granite from a valuation of $1,211,946 to $1,853,859.

Arizona Banker Joins Staff of Local Broker's

Carl W. Gibson, vice-president and director of the Phoenix National Bank and Phoenix Savings Bank and Trust Company, Phoenix, Ariz., has resigned these positions to associate himself with the Los Angeles office of Blyth, Witter & Co., the latter organization announced yesterday.

Despite his long residence in Arizona, Mr. Gibson is not unknown in Los Angeles business circles, having practiced law here for two years following his graduation from the University of Southern California law school in 1913. In 1915 he became associated with the German-American Trust and Savings Bank, now the guaranty branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, which position he left in 1918 to go to the Phoenix National Bank. In 1920 he was elected secretary and treasurer of the Phoenix Savings Bank and Trust Company, and in 1923 became vice-president and director of the two affiliated institutions.

Mr. Gibson has been actively identified with the business life of Phoenix, serving as president of the Phoenix Rotary Club, as director of the Chamber of Commerce, as vice-president of the Maricopa County Bankers' Association, and as vice-president of the Phoenix Clearing House Association.

Public Service Company Plans Stock Increase

An increase in the preferred stock of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000, and an increase in the authorized number of shares of no-part-value common stock from 2,000,000 shares to 10,000,000 shares has been recommended by the board of directors.

The board of directors also recommended that each share of no-par-value common stock now outstanding be split into three shares. Under this plan the holders of the outstanding 1,192,425 shares will become holders of 3,577,275 shares, leaving 6,422,725 shares remaining available for future issue. It is not the intention of the corporation to offer at the present time for subscription by stockholders any additional common stock.

The board further recommended that dividends on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the corporation be paid monthly instead of quarterly as at present.

To become effective, the recommendations must receive a two-thirds vote of the stockholders, and the board called a meeting of stockholders to be held in Newark, on the 19th inst., for the purpose of considering its proposal.

COPPER STATUS STILL IN DOUBT

Quoted Values Reported as Being Shaded

Sales at Cut Rate Said to be Negligible

Conditions Favor Policy of Light Buying

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS,

(Editor, The Mining Journal.)

While copper is being held nominally at 14 1-4 cents, it is stated that some of the producers, as well as the custom smelters, have been willing to accept a lower price. The quantities however, being sold at less than 14 1-4 are in very small proportion, and low-price copper would undoubtedly disappear with a buying movement.

Reports from the East emphasize greatly the fact that fabricators have not covered their requirements ahead and that a buying movement must start very shortly if fall requirements are to be obtained.

This condition, however, is not necessarily true with the close balance maintaining at present between consumption and production, and it will undoubtedly continue to be possible for some time for the fabricators to maintain the hand-to-mouth buying basis.

OUTPUT MOUNTS

While the refinery production of August reached a record figure, it is not anticipated that that figure will be maintained, and the figures for September will undoubtedly show lower refinery output, for during August the refineries drew heavily upon the supply of blister copper.

There was an increase, however, in the world's copper production during August of about 4000 tons, totaling 132,500 tons as against 128,500 tons during July. None of the summer months, however, have been up to the 140,000-ton production during the early months of this year. The 4000-ton increase during August came: 12 tons from United States mines, 1100 tons from Chile and Peru 1700 tons from European mines, 500 tons from Belgian Congo, with Mexico, Japan and Australia showing somewhat less production than in July.

European conditions are reported to be improving, particularly in Germany, and the Germans are fully alive to the opportunity presenting itself to expand their foreign market for electrical equipment and brass goods. There is also a large amount of work going on in Germany in the electrification of their railways and the developments of electrical power for industrial purposes.

FEARS ALLEGED

Worry over where the future copper is coming from has been somewhat set aside by the recent report of the Federal Trade Commission on the national wealth. The copper reserves of the United States, owned by 138 companies, are placed at 1,588,000,000 tons. Of the reserves 39 per cent are in Arizona; 25 per cent in Utah, and 11 per cent in Michigan. Based on an annual production of 45,000,000 tons of copper ore, the supply will last forty years.

"As in the case of other mineral resources, estimates of reserves are increasing through discoveries of new deposits, use of ores with lower metal content through improved mining and refining processes, economies in production, or increase in price," says the commission.

The commission received reports of valuation of deposits from seventeen companies, owning 10 per cent of reserves. Only a few copper companies furnished data requested by the commission. It says that nearly half of the reserves are controlled by four companies; six control 26 per cent, six control 12 per cent, and 110 control 6 per cent.

Brokerage House Passes to Hands of M. P. Hansen

M. Philip Hansen has acquired by purchase the brokerage and investment business, which, since July, 1926, has been conducted under the name and style of R. H. Durst & Co., according to an announcement made yesterday.

Mr. Hansen, a resident of Los Angeles since 1915, has been identified with a number of local financial organizations. His acquisition of the investment business of Durst & Co., places him among the foremost of the unlisted operators of the city.

No material changes in the personnel of the organization are contemplated. It is planned to immediately enlarge the company's present quarters and to add a modern customers' room with complete board facilities.

LONDON, Oct. 4. (By Wireless)—The markets were steady here today and money was plentiful.

The Hamburg loan allotments were only about 5 per cent of applications and the price in the open market moved to a premium of 1-8. The premium Swansea Municipal loan met poor response, however, being quoted at a discount of 3-4.

Rubber shares were steady while tin stocks firmed again.

Continental exchanges were steady with sterling dull.

The Beira Railway is creating £2,000,000 of new 6 1-2 per cent debentures to repay maturing first debentures and retire the present 6 per cent income debentures at 66.

EARNINGS OF UTILITY SHOW HUGE INCREASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—Gross earnings and other income of the Associated Gas and Electric system for the year ended July 31 amounted to $27,194,325, an increase of $17,033,188 over the preceding twelve months. ROBERTS KEEPS OPTIMISTIC

National City Banker Advises Continued Vigilance as Price of Prolonging Present Prosperity

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—Need for a steady hand on the wheel and a clear eye ahead in business is seen by George E. Roberts, Wall street's best-known economist, but that necessity arises not from any signs of real danger but from the very speed at which the industrial machine is going.

At least that is about the gist of what is contained this month in the National City Bank's bulletin edited by Mr. Roberts, a vice-president of the institution, in recognizing the promises on every hand of continued prosperity for the remainder of the year. The bank believes that the best way to avoid depression is to anticipate it when times are good.

While finding grounds for satisfaction in the sound position of trade and the absence of excessive inventories, "uncertainties regarding agriculture," runs the essay, "together with the dependence of our present prosperity on the building and automobile industries, make it clear that the present is no time for relaxation of vigilance or the abandonment of those conservative policies that have proved their worth in the past." The farm problems referred to center around the drop in cotton prices to new low levels since 1921, and damage to western crops inflicted by bad weather.

Whether or not the Federal Reserve Bank authorities soon may raise the rate for rediscounts has been a lively topic since commercial loans have been expanded recently and money has become somewhat dearer. If this takes place, the move will result from developments outside of the field of commercial activities in the opinion of Mr. Roberts.

"So far as business is concerned, the situation continues free from inflation," he points out; "overbuying and other symptoms usually calling for corrective action." Credit stringency does not now appear to be threatened, but the trend of money rates plainly is away from the abnormal ease of recent years.

Some sensible views on foreign competition are expressed that should be more widely understood to reconcile the desire both to benefit from a recovery in Europe and to prevent competition here through an increased flow of foreign goods. It is about time, as the bank says, that we made up our mind one way or another. Notwithstanding the variety of opinion that is heard on the subject, the foreign trade of this country is more than holding its own in other markets. The United States cannot sell where it will not buy, and its trade as a whole should be stimulated by increased prosperity abroad, even when that is obtained by competition that affects some of our manufacturers.

SCHWARTZ RENAMED HEAD OF EXCHANGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Sidney L. Schwartz was re-elected president of the San Francisco Stock and Bond Exchange today at the regular annual meeting of the organization. Schwartz's annual report showed the volume of business transacted by the exchange for the year, measured in market value of stocks traded, was 91 per cent greater than for the fiscal year ending October 1, 1925.

National Theater Supply Liens on Market Shortly

An issue of 15,000 shares of $7 dividend preferred stock of the National Theater Supply Company is expected to be offered shortly by a banking group consisting of West & Co., W. S. Hammons & Co., and A. B. Leach & Co., Inc. The same group recently marketed a new issue of $1,500,000 five-year 6½ per cent sinking fund gold notes with stock option warrants of the same company.

In connection with the proposed financing it is stated that the National Theater Supply Company, a Delaware corporation, has acquired the assets and business of the Southern Theater Equipment Company of Atlanta; Exhibitors' Supply Company, Chicago; Howell's Cine Equipment Company, New York; Western Theater Supply Company, San Francisco; Pacific Amusement Supply Company, Los Angeles, and twenty-seven other well-established distributors of motion picture and general theater equipment throughout the United States.

The company operates a chain-store system consisting of fifty stores situated in the leading cities of twenty-three States and the District of Columbia. It is the largest distributor of theater equipment and supplies in the country.

Liens of Gulf States Utility Due Out Soon

An issue of Gulf States Utilities Company first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds is expected to be offered in this market later in the week by a banking group composed of Blair & Co., Inc., Stone & Webster, Inc., Brown Brothers & Co., and Blodget & Co.

The company is under the executive management of Stone & Webster, Inc., one of the foremost engineering concerns in this country and of international repute. It is understood that the purpose of the issue is to reimburse the treasury for properties already acquired and for additional construction work during the balance of this year and during 1927.

Gulf States Utilities Company was incorporated under the laws of Texas in August, 1925, and initially purchased the electric light and power, ice and refrigerating, and water properties in Orange, Tex., and vicinity. Recently it acquired from Eastern Texas Electric Company the electric light and power properties in Beaumont and Port Arthur and vicinity. At the same time it acquired other electric and gas properties at Lake Charles, La., and vicinity, together with other neighboring utilities.

STOCK VALUES DROP SHARPLY

Break Follows Early Period of Bullish Activity

Fresh Slump in Cotton Adds to Selling Momentum

Many 1 to 10 Point Losses on List at Market Close

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—Acute weakness developed in today's stock market after an early period of strength. In the absence of any adverse news developments, the selling was attributed to the further decline in the price of raw cotton, which is now selling at prices so low as to cause some uneasiness over a possible change in economic conditions in the South. Final quotations, which were around the lowest of the day, disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 10 points.

Despite the sharp deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing-house statement, money was in abundant supply. Call loans renewed at 5 1-2 per cent and then dropped to 5. After the market closed, the New York Federal Reserve Bank reported an increase of slightly more than $50,000,000 in brokers' loans for the week ended last Wednesday.

NEWS BULLISH

The day's business news was largely constructive in character. It included the publication of a series of favorable industrial and railroad earnings statements, an increase of 50 cents a ton in pig iron prices in the Pittsburgh district, and an increase in the Miami Copper dividend. Directors of the American Smelting Company meet for dividend action tomorrow and are expected to place the stock on an $8 annual basis.

United States Steel common and General Motors, two of the leaders selected by operators for the rise last week, were among the hardest hit. Steel broke from 153 1-4 to 147 5-8 and then rallied to 148 1-4 for a net loss of 4 7-8 points on the day, while General Motors showed net decline of 4 1-8 points at 165 7-8 after having touched 172. Among the many other issues to fall back 3 points or more, were Allied Chemical, American Express, Consolidated Gas, Coca Cola, Dupont, Foundation Company, General Asphalt, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Pullman, South Porto Rican Sugar, Westinghouse Air Brake and Woolworth.

Continental Baking A broke nearly 6 points to a new 1926 low at 66 3-4. Pan American Western B and Maracaibo oils also sank to a new low levels, selling of the oils being accentuated by reports that other companies would follow the lead of Marland in stock financing this fall and winter.

RAIL LINE HIT

Atlantic Coast Line broke 10 points to 207 on selling inspired by the belief that the road would be the hardest hit as a result of the sharp drop in cotton. Southern Railway yielded over 2 points on unconfirmed rumors that an additional issue of common stock would be authorized at the next meeting of directors. Early gains in the Van Sweringen issues failed to hold and they all closed lower on the day.

There were a few strong spots scattered throughout the list. May Department Stores was bid up nearly 5

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—The return flow of funds from the 1st inst. dividend and interest disbursements was attracted toward the bond market today, enabling prices to hold their ground while other securities and commodities markets turned weak. Confidence was strengthened by the easier trend of money rates in the face of the deficit in reserves shown in last week's clearinghouse statement.

Foreign obligations resumed their forward movement under the leadership of the German issues, several of which sold around the year's highest levels. The government 7s and the city of Berlin 6½s were especially favored. Holland-America Line 6s mounted to a new top price for the year at 89. French issues were higher in the initial dealings, but failed to maintain their gains.

Heaviness of most of the railroad stocks discouraged accumulation of carrier bonds, save for several semi-speculative issues. Delaware and Hudson convertible 5s, Chicago and Northwestern general 4s, El Paso and Southwestern 5s, and New York, Susquehanna and Western second 4½s worked higher, while fractional declines took place in Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and other standard liens. Local transit issues were under pressure because of uncertainty over the city's transportation program.

Price movements in other sections of the list were irregular, with active bidding developing for a few miscellaneous issues. Dold Packing 6s shot up 5 points to a new high price at 86 and American Writing Paper certificates and Rochester Gas and Electric 7s were conspicuously strong.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars,) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, close is omitted when same as low, and both low and close when same as high.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

EVERY problem sooner or later resolves itself into one of education.

The prime cause of poverty is ignorance.

The basic cause of sickness is ignorance.

And finally, when we get down to the roots of the perennial conflict between capital and labor, we find that most misunderstandings are also due to ignorance, and that all hope of a more peaceful future rests on a broad program of education.

Both money and labor, the two branches of capital, must be educated to an understanding of each other's points of view, and finally, both must be led to realize that the community has a stake in their activities.

This program of education, by which we will all come to see ourselves in our true relations to others, cannot be reduced to a formula and injected into the brains of men as we inject vaccine into their veins.

It may, and probably will, take a generation to bring even the first rays of light into the darkness through which we are now groping our way.

But if we will just remember that seventy-five years ago the average man could not even read and write, we need not be discouraged.

GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

The following information has been summarized by A. V. Wainright, Vice-President of the Company, from his letter to us:

Business and Territory: The Commonwealth Light & Power Company, through its subsidiary companies, furnishes a diversified Public Utility Service to 245 prosperous and growing communities located in successful agriculturial sections of the States of Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Texas, serving a combined population of approximately 226,000.

The territory served by the subsidiary operating companies shows a steady growth with resultant increased light and power demand from both industrial and domestic sources. Recently completed transmission line extensions permit unified central station operating with consequent economies in both production and distribution cost, not yet fully reflected in the earnings. Definite plans are now under way whereby, through extension and inter-connection of other transmission lines, it will enable certain subsidiary operating companies to further consolidate their operations and also serve electric current over a larger area.

Valuation and Equity: Appraisals by Messrs. Hagenah & Erickson, Engineers, Chicago, in 1926, compiled as a result of a personal examination of the properties, plus subsequent capital expenditures and acquisitions since the date of the appraisals, give Commonwealth Light & Power Company subsidiaries a total value of $20,240,003 including working capital. Deducting from this amount, $9,965,800 funded debt and $1,065,500 preferred stock of subsidiary operating companies outstanding in the hands of the public, also deducting $2,941,600 Commonwealth Light & Power Company First Lien 6% Bonds owned by the public, it leaves an equity of over $6,000 000 applicable to the securities deposited as collateral to this issue of One-Year 6% Secured Gold Notes. This is exclusive of about $500,000 cash which this financing provides for capital expenditures, thus further increasing the equity by that amount.

Collateral Security: These One-Year Notes will be secured by deposit with the Trustee of $1,550,000 Commonwealth Light & Power Company First Lien 6% Bonds and $542,000 Notes of subsidiary operating companies. In addition, there will be deposited such securities of subsidiary companies as will be received by the Company for approximately $500,000 cash, provided through the sale of these One-Year Notes, which money will be advanced to subsidiaries for capital expenditures. There can be no substitution of collateral under the Agreement securing the Notes without the written approval of the Bankers.

Consolidated Earnings
(Including properties now in process of acquisition)

	Year ended July 31, 1926
Gross Earnings	$3,293,309.91
Net Earnings applicable for interest charges of Commonwealth Light & Power Company after deducting operating expenses including maintenance and taxes other than Federal Income Taxes and after deducting annual interest and dividend requirements of subsidiary companies on securities held by the public	593,319.79
Annual Interest Requirements on Commonwealth Light & Power First Lien 6% Gold Bonds held by the public	175,496.00
Balance	$ 418,823.79
Annual Interest Requirements on $2,000,000 One-Year 6% Secured Gold Notes (this issue)	120,000.00

The foregoing net earnings are over two times the combined annual interest requirements on Commonwealth Light & Power Company First Lien and Refunding 6% Gold Bonds and on this issue of One-Year 6% Secured Gold Notes. The collateral deposited to secure this issue of notes consists of Commonwealth Light & Power Company's First Lien 6% Gold Bonds and notes of subsidiaries, and hence the interest requirements on this issue are treated as on a parity with the position of the deposited collateral.

Management: The management of The Commonwealth Light & Power Company and its subsidiaries is in the hands of able and experienced men, successful in the conduct of public utilities and under the supervision of the General Engineering and Management Corporation.

Legal matters will be passed upon by Messrs. Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaeckel & Brown, New York. Appraisals by Messrs. Hagenah & Erickson, Engineers, Chicago. Audits by Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Company.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—The line of least resistance in today's curb market was on the down side. While bear traders attacked a few supposedly vulnerable issues for special reasons, most of the selling was in sympathy with the reaction of the "big board," where the further decline in cotton prices was blamed for the liquidation of securities. A decrease in call money rates was offset as a credit factor by the increase in brokers' loans last week.

Rumors that several oil companies will follow the lead of Marland in raising funds by the issue of new stock caused special pressure on the oil group. Galena Signal broke nearly 4 points to a new low at 9 7-8, and Humble, Ohio, Prairie, Vacuum and Pennock yielded a point or more.

Industrials presented several points of strength. Freshman Radio, General Baking A, St. Regis Paper and United Shoe Machinery rallied 1 to 2 points and Seeman Brothers and United States Lighting and Heating were elevated to new 1926 high records. Dupont (new stock) yielded 3½ points, and Ford Motors of Canada dropped another 20 points to 432 on odd-lot transactions, bringing the price 223 points below the year's high.

Public Utilities lost ground, such popular issues as American Gas and Electric, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Bond and Share and Middle West Utilities closing a point or so lower. Earnings of the principal operating and holding companies, however continue to show progressive increases.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

WILL THE BANKER WHO NEVER BOUGHT MINING STOCKS PLEASE STAND UP

Despite the fact that bankers rarely, if ever, recommend the venturing of money in mining shares, the stockholders lists of many of the successful mining companies show a considerable sprinkling of bankers.

More and more, the business world is realizing that mining by modern scientific methods, under the supervision of competent University trained mining engineers, is about as safe as, and considerably more profitable than, most other lines of business.

The mining market is booming.

Sensational advances in mining shares are of frequent occurrence.

Wheat Futures Off Sharply in Final Trading

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—A withdrawal of the eastern support in wheat, which has been such a factor in keeping values on the upgrade, combined with pronounced weakness in Winnipeg, carried wheat prices off 2¼@2½c from the early high point. December touched 1.38⅝ on the break and the finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 1⅝@1⅞c, with December 1.38⅝@1.39 and May 1.43⅜@1.43⅜. Corn acted heavy after making a higher start, December touching 82⅝, but broke to 80⅝ later and the close was ⅝c lower, with December 80⅝@80⅝ and May 87⅝@87⅝. Oats lost ⅛@¼c, with December 44⅛ and May 48¼, while rye was ⅝@1c lower, with December 99½ and May 1.05¼.

There was buying by houses with Winnipeg and northwestern connections in wheat at the start, rains in the Winnipeg district being a factor, but the buying quickly ran its course, and the market turned downward, with the East on the selling side. Prices held within narrow limits for a time, but toward the last Winnipeg started to break badly, and there was a general rush to sell here, which found support lacking and sellers of bids had to protect themselves on the way down. Winnipeg closed at the bottom, with net losses of 1⅝@2¼c, with October leading.

The forecast indicated a period of settled weather would follow the present storm, while the Canadian forecast was for better weather. There was increased pressure on cash wheat at Winnipeg, with a lack of export demand, and country deliveries were larger. Many local operators, who took the buying side of wheat late last week on the belief that the East would continue to buy, were forced to sell out during the day, and at the last sentiment was generally bearish.

Export demand continues slow, with sales in all positions estimated at 250,000 bushels, with premiums showing little change. Liverpool closed ⅝@¾d lower, with a slow demand for the cash grain, with Russia reported as offering again, although the diversion of boats from the grain to the coal trade tends to restrict clearances. The domestic visible supply increased 894,000 bushels for the week, and is 75,067,000 bushels, against 49,371,000 bushels last year. Italian wheat crop estimates have been raised 14,000,000 bushels, to a total of 220,000,000 bushels, compared with 241,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Local bulls were fair buyers of corn early on reports of flood damage in many sections of the Central West and the Southwest, but the late weakness in wheat led to selling and a decline, the market showing a heavy undertone at the last. There was no evidence of eastern buying. Country offerings to arrive were light, with 60,000 bushels estimated booked to arrive. Visible supply increased 92,000 bushels for the week and is 17,361,000 bushels, against 5,470,000 bushels last year. A private report suggested that farm reserves of old corn were at least 10 per cent of last year's crop, taking the country as a whole, about the largest on record.

Interest in oats and rye was light, and trade largely of a local character. Houses with Winnipeg and northwestern connections sold oats on the minor bulges, which more than offset buying on unfavorable reports regarding condition of shocked grain in Illinois and Iowa. Action of wheat was the main factor in rye.

Lard prices declined 47½@50c and closed at the bottom, making a new low level for the season. Heavy selling by longs, coupled with that by bear interests, packers and cottonseed oil operators, met poor support, except from profit-taking shorts. Short ribs were neglected and closed unchanged, and bellis were 45c lower.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—The market was weak again today, with prices going into further new low records since 1921. There was a maximum decline of but 12 to 15 points in the early trading from Saturday's closing due to the steadiness the Liverpool markets displayed, and there was also some heavy covering of shorts here with considerable new buying coming from local trade and Wall street commission houses. The theory was that a good rally in prices was due after the heavy decline of the past month. On this rally October contracts went up to 13.60; December, 13.42; January, 13.50; March, 13.70, and May above 13.90 cents.

The better weather and crop news generally over the week-end coupled with the sharply lower southern spot markets of Saturday, and continued pressure of southern liquidation and hedge selling here, however, discouraged bullish activity for anything more than this rally. When new trade or outside speculative buying failed to develop to any extent and the market began to sag again during the early afternoon, prices slumped under the pressure of reselling by early buyers.

This decline continued until after 2 o'clock when December sold below 12.99 cents; January, 13.05 cents; March, 13.29 cents; May, 13.49 cents, or off between 40 and 45 points from the early high level of the morning and 20 to 30 from Saturday's closing. These prices compare with 22 to 23 cents at this time last year and 25 cents two years ago.

Liverpool cotton futures closed weak near their low of the day at 24 to 29 of their points net decline from Saturday's closing, against 20 to 24, to have met our closing break of Saturday. Spot markets in the South are now ranging between 12 and 13 cents for middling cotton.

SAFETY ZONES FOR DOLLARS

Practical Ways of Investing in Home Ownership, Savings Accounts, Life Insurance and Dependable Investment Securities

8—THE FIRST AND MOST PRACTICAL INVESTMENT

For every man, woman and child the most practical and readily available investment is the savings account. Although its yield is low, only 3 per cent in most towns and cities and 4 per cent in others, the element of safety is very high. Money deposited in a savings account, in a sound, well-managed bank is thoroughly safe. Moreover, this form of investment is simple and very easy to understand. It requires no watching; its interest yield is componded automatically; it does not fluctuate in value, and it can be drawn upon immediately in case of emergency.

No matter how large or how diversified an individual's investment account may grow to be ultimately, the savings account should be maintained and fed regularly. Since it can be quickly converted into cash, this investment offers the best protection against those ordinary emergencies, such as sickness, unemployment or demands for ready cash. Further, the savings account keeps money at work safely and regularly while the individual is taking time to seek out and investigate those other available investments which, in matter of yield, may be more profitable. And because the savings account is so flexible it makes saving easy and all other forms of investment possible.

One of the best incentives for regular saving is the fact that money accumulated in a savings account can be turned without loss into other investments, such as farm or town mortgages, home ownership, and bonds or stocks of sound, established, profitable business. If an individual deposits $50 a month in a savings bank for a period of thirty years and redeposits the interest earned, he will have at the end of that time about $29,114. At 3 per cent his money will have earned $11,113.52 in the savings account. If, however, he combines systematic saving with careful investing and reinvesting at 6 per cent, that $50 a month will grow in thirty years to nearly $50,000. Thus the man who makes proper use of the savings account to accumulate funds for the purchase of other investments can make saving really profitable and attractive.

No other investment meets the first needs of the prospective investor so well as the savings account. No other investment fits him so completely to take advantage of the miraculous accumulating power of money—the one force that has made most people financially independent.

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

Market Reflects Widely Diverse Opinion of Opposing Forces

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (Exclusive)—The opening of the new week found Wall-street opinion considerably mixed and this condition found ready reflection in the movement of stock prices. There was no indication of an extension of last week's upward movement. On the contrary, the list revealed a heavy undertone following momentary strength at the opening. Further weakness in cotton, which dropped below the 13-cent level, renewed nervousness over the money outlook despite the easing of demand rates, and failure of recent activity to induce fresh public participation, were the principal factors in the situation.

M. K. and T. Protest Off

The Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad will make no protest against the proposed acquisition of the San Antonio Southern Railroad by the Missouri Pacific Railroad and will proceed with its own survey for construction of a new line in South Texas, according to C. N. Whitehead, president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

"I stated recently that the Missouri, Kansas and Texas management would ask the Interstate Commerce Commission not to approve the Missouri Pacific application to purchase the San Antonio Southern," said Mr. Whitehead in a statement issued from Austin, Tex.

"After conference with our directors, however, I found them unwilling to depart in this instance from the policy which the Missouri, Kansas and Texas has heretofore maintained of not opposing extensions or acquisitions proposed by neighboring lines in our territory."

Steel and Motors Erratic

Steel common and General Motors fared little better than the general run of stocks during the day. These powerful leaders appeared to have been weakened technically as an outcome of their spectacular performances late last week. Doubtless a good deal of covering had been forced during the closing session and the short interest correspondingly reduced. With buying power from that source curtailed radically during the day, early strength being followed by substantial reactions as profit taking and renewed selling for short account developed. Despite the check to operations for the advance, which was looked upon as a temporary halt, traders generally were bullish on the future of those stocks and buying on the setbacks was reported of good character.

Call Money Relaxes

During the forenoon the widespread irregularity was put down to nervousness over the money situation resulting from the large deficit shown in the weekly statement of clearing-house banks. The theory was that banks would find it necessary to call some loans to correct that condition. But calling of loans was only nominal, and in the early afternoon the rate for fresh demand was lowered to 5 per cent from the 5 1-2 per cent renewal figure. Notwithstanding that development and contrary to expectations, this easing of the rate failed to stimulate any impressive recovery. On the contrary, selling pressure was maintained in most directions.

Marland Heavy on Financing

Traders used the news of the proposed sale of additional stock by Marland Oil as a basis for heavy selling of that company's shares. The plan upon which shareholders will vote on November 1, next, would involve the issuance and sale of about 385,135 shares of no par stock to present holders in the ratio of one new share for each five shares now held at $50 a share. At the low prices of the day subscription rights accruing to stockholders under the plan would have a market value of something less than $1 the right. Other oils were heavy despite the rather favorable statistics which appeared late last week.

Stock-Market Averages

Many times in the recent past the relation of the various averages compiled to the stock market has been a topic of heated discussion. Today one observer who has little faith in the barometer at present, called attention to existing conditions. He pointed out that the index compiled by Prof. Fisher this week established a new record peak and that the various averages published by newspapers were very close to the peak levels. Upon taking the stock list in its usual alphabetical order, however, he ran down making comparison between existing prices and the high prices of the year, and upon actual count found that some fifty issues out of the first 150 in the list were selling anywhere from 12 to 15 points under the best.

Smelters Meeting Tomorrow

Directors of the American Smelting and Refining Company are scheduled to meet tomorrow for dividend action. From all indications Wall street is not so confident on the outcome of that gathering as it professed to be some weeks ago when the stock was selling much above present levels. At any rate the recent selling has been ascribed in large measure to interests who were exceedingly bullish at that time. Consensus today was that prospects were for an extra dividend of $1 a share, or possibly an increase of that amount in the regular rate, but fanciful predictions no longer were heard. The semiannual earning statement put out over the week-end was mainly a question of discretion of directors net for the period amounting to $1.65 a share on the common stock.

HEAVY PROGRAM AHEAD OF FLEET

Employment Docket for Six Months Announced

To Cruise 13,000 Miles in Mimic War Practice

Details of Plan Given Out Aboard Flagship

The employment schedule of the battle fleet from January 1 to June 30, 1927, announced yesterday aboard the flagship California, will prove the busiest six months in the fleet's history—with approximately 13,000 miles of cruising and tactics scheduled.

High lights of the employment plan are the departure, on February 19 of the battle fleet from Los Angeles Harbor for New York; arrival at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for joint maneuvers with the scouting fleet, on March 15; arrival at New York on April 30; tactical exercises of the combined United States Fleet in the North Atlantic and off Narragansett Bay, in the climax of which the army will defend New York and Boston from the attacking fleets, May 16 to 21; departure, New York for Los Angeles May 28; and arrival, Los Angeles, June 30. Force practice, in which all ships of the battle fleet are simultaneously engaged, will be fired off the California coast on January 21.

HUGE ARMADA

Approximately seventy surface craft and as many more aircraft will depart for Panama on February 19 under Admiral Richard H. Jackson, commander-in-chief. Transiting the Canal, March 5 to 10, the battle fleet will, between March 10 and 15, execute a battle problem in the Caribbean against the scouting fleet, from the Atlantic. Following its completion the two fleets will combine and proceed to Guantanamo under the flag of Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet. There will be 150 surface ships, battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, tenders and auxiliaries, in the combined fleets in addition to 150 airplanes.

Ten of the battle fleet dreadnaughts will depart on February 19, although all twelve will ultimately reach the east coast. The U.S.S. Nevada and U.S.S. Oklahoma on the fleet's departure will go to the Puget Sound navy yard for annual overhaul but both will join the fleet at New York about May 27. These two ships will fire annual long-range battle practice off this coast on January 27, while all other ships will fire the important exercise at Guantanamo Bay, March 21 to 26.

SCHEDULE GIVEN

The official schedule of employment follows for the battleship division:

May 28-June 30—Battle Fleet en route to and arriving Los Angeles Harbor. Fleet tactics en route.

TUG WITH CRIPPLED STEAMER WEATHERS GALE

The full strength of the hurricane which devastated Guaymas, Mex., was encountered in the Gulf of Lower California September 24 to 26 by the Red Stack ocean tug Sea Ranger, towing the disabled steamer Point Fermin, Capt. Max Jahn of the Sea Ranger reported upon arrival here yesterday.

Capt. Jahn expressed the belief that the freak storm was an outgrowth of the West Indian hurricane which struck the Gulf Coast a fortnight ago, explaining that the atmospheric change moved completely across Mexico to make up the west coast storm.

The Sea Ranger made a 2800-mile trip from San Francisco to Salina Cruz to pick up the Point Fermin at Salina Cruz with her engines completely crippled. The powerful tug towed the 7000-ton steamer, carrying a full steel cargo from gulf ports, the 2400 miles to Los Angeles in fifteen days despite bad weather encountered. The Point Fermin, recently purchased by Swayne & Hoyt for Gulf-Pacific trade, last night completed discharge of her cargo and after temporary repairs proceeded to San Francisco. She is under command of Capt. John Jacobsen, veteran of the Swayne & Hoyt fleet.

The steamer El Capitan, which Swayne & Hoyt have chartered from the E. K. Wood Lumber Company to take the place of the Point Fermin for this voyage, was in and out of port yesterday en route to Mobile.

Heaviest lumber receipts during any seven-day period this year are reported by the Marine Exchange for the week just closed, when 33,305,000 board feet came into Los Angeles Harbor, the nearest mark being 35,443,253 feet established by the week ending September 4.

Outbound oil shipments also were pretentious with 2,785,965 barrels departing, the second biggest weekly total for the year, being excelled by the week ended August 21 with 2,860,680 barrels.

One hundred and forty vessels arrived, the third largest week in 1926. They consisted of twenty-seven passenger and freight carriers, thirty-three cargo vessels, forty-six oil tankers and thirty-four lumber carriers. Of these 122 were American ships, ten British, three Japanese, two Swedish, one French and one International Alliance.

Seventy-nine thousand cases of canned goods, one of the largest such shipments for an intercoastal ship and all from Los Angeles, will leave this port tomorrow when the American Hawaiian freighter Mexican sails for New York and Boston. She will arrive from the north today, and also will take on 500 tons of Arizona copper, fifty tons of concentrates, 1582 bundles of hides, 672 bags of citrate of lime and 100 tons of oil-well machinery. In all 2774 tons will be loaded from the Wilmington docks. Tomorrow the Pennsylvanian of the same line will arrive from the North Atlantic to drop 2088 tons here, ranging from 100 cases of ginger ale to 336 cases of radio parts and 1953 packages of soap.

O. C. Lair, workman at the Pan-American loading dock has the distinction of being one of the few men to be caressed by a 10,000-ton ship and live to tell about it. Lair was attending the loading of the Eagle oil tanker San Nazario yesterday forenoon when he lost his balance and fell off the dock. He landed twenty-five feet below on a fender log. Workmen seeing Lair was stunned leaped to his rescue, but the ship closed in on one of his feet dangling over the edge of the log, crushing it. It is feared the member may have to be amputated.

Will F. Thompson, in charge of investigations for the American-Canadian international halibut commission, arrived from Seattle yesterday for a week's conference with N. B. Scofield, head of Commercial Fisheries for the California Fish and Game Commission and resident American member of the American-Mexican international fisheries commission. Methods which Thompson found successful in the northern waters are expected to be adapted to studies off this coast by the American-Mexican commission. Mr. Scofield will arrive from San Francisco tomorrow. Thompson yesterday visited the State's laboratories over which he had charge at Terminal Island before being drafted for the halibut mission. He is one of half a dozen California Fish and Game Commission men to be called to head important scientific fisheries work in various parts of the continent.

Another shipment of looms arrived from Boston on the Dollar globe-circler President Harrison yesterday for the Golden State Silk Mills at Hermosa. Three previous Dollar ships have brought several carloads of looms each and several consignments are yet to come to the mills, which are making big enlargements. Andrew Wilson, general agent here for the line, yesterday announced that passengers on the world-tour ship ar permitted to take along their automobiles with no cost except that of dock handling to and from the different world ports where the traveler wants to take his flivver ashore for a spin.

The United States Fisheries patrol motorship Brant, which put into Astoria several days ago on losing a blade of her propeller en route here, will leave that port in ten days. She will proceed to the Union Diesel plant at Oakland for repairs and is due here about the 20th inst., according to Miss Geraldine Conner, secretary of the International Fisheries Commission. The craft will carry a party of scientists into lower California for a winter's study of fisheries for the commission.

On James H. Collins, the financial and industrial writer's return from Hawaii three days ago, his first comment was of the island's infested fruit and the vigil maintained by California authorities to keep the dread Mediterranean fruit fly and other pests out of this State. On the same ship as that on which he returned, another passenger became much incensed when A. P. Messenger, supervising quarantine officer for the State, apprehended her with island avocados and fresh coffee berries which invariably carry live larvae of the fly. Should the pest ever get a foothold here, experts say, practically every kind of fruit eventually would be filled with maggots and the orchards and vines of California cut down and the ground revert to grain and such cheap crops.

Dock scenes in "Beware of Widows" are being taken while the Dollar globe-circling liner President Harrison is in port. The comedy shortly will be released by Universal under another name. Millard Webb is directing the picture, featuring Laura LaPlant, Tom Moore, Jocelyn Lee and Bryant Washburn.

Filling as she was being towed in the main channel, the derrick lighter maintained by the Bethlehem shipyards here was returned to the company's wharf, only to sink and capsize alongside shortly before noon today. Efforts to empty her with a salvage siphon pump and to moor her fast to the wharf and a barge alongside were unsuccessful.

Salvage operations were started immediately. The barge was over on her side, but will be pumped out and righted by tomorrow, it was expected by Bethlehem officials.

GOOPS!

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

BY GELETT BURGESS

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PLAYING WITH FIRE.

Don't play with fire! A little flame
Is bright and pretty—all the same,
It soon grows furious and defiant,
And roars and rages like a giant!
And Goops, who play with fires, are really
Quite often burned, and burned severely.

Actress Shares Sex's Privilege Court Decrees

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4. (AP)—The cost of a woman's change of mind must be borne by her employer.

This was the decision of the District Court of Appeal here today in ruling that Alice James, Los Angeles cinema actress, was not obligated to continue in a film she started for Charles J. Hall, who asked $7092 damages for refilming many of the scenes with a substitute.

The court held the complaint did not state sufficient cause of action, affirming the decision of a Los Angeles county Superior Court.

STATE CAR VALUES JUMP

Gain of $11,000,000 in Autos Shown by Report, With Los Angeles County Leading List

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 4. (AP)—An increase of more than $11,000,000 in the assessed valuation of California automobiles, exclusive of tax-exempt cars, is shown in a report issued today by the State Board of Equalization. As compared with last year, when 934,504 automobiles were assessed at $209,063,712, the assessed valuation of 1,061,272 cars this year was $220,210,286.

Los Angeles county, with 421,017 cars, assessed at $91,963,215, leads the State in assessable automobile wealth. Alameda is second in the number of cars with 95,000, but the assessed value of these, $10,000,000, runs behind the $20,975,410 at which San Francisco county assessed its 72,325 cars.

The value of the average automobile shows a decided fluctuation among the various counties. In Monterey county, for instance, 10,035 cars have an assessed value of $1,505,250; but in Napa county, 6600 cars were assessed at $1,650,000.

Inventor's Wife Shifts Divorce Action to East

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Long Reese Twombly today withdrew in Superior Court her separate maintenance suit against her estranged husband, William I. Twombly, wealthy inventor, saying she had instituted action in New York. She also released claim to $7000 temporary alimony held in abeyance by the court when she took her daughter, Gloria, to New York contrary to the court's order.

On complaint of Twombly, filed several months ago, Judge H. A. Lewis ruled that he need pay no more alimony until the child, who is 7 years old, is returned to Illinois. Mrs. Twombly told the court today that she would not bring the child to Chicago, fearing her husband would get an injunction preventing her from taking the child back to New York.

In February Mrs. Twombly, then Miss Long, married Francis W. Reese of Los Angeles and one hour after the ceremony fled across the continent with Twombly. She divorced Reese and married Twombly six months later.

OPERA SEASON OPENS IN TRIUMPH AND SPLENDOR

Singers Enthrall in Saint-Saens Masterpiece

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The new grand opera season is here!

The first-night audience attested the fact beyond peradventure of a doubt last night at Shrine Auditorium.

The presentation of "Samson and Delilah" was without question one of the most pretentious in the musical history of Los Angeles, and it drew a throng that for brilliance and magnitude has never before been equaled.

Sheer magnitude alone caused the performance to set a mark that could hardly be equaled anywhere. What with a stage of mammoth proportions, a chorus that could well and fittingly be described as a multitude, and an orchestra of symphonic size, it was more than evident that the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association has sacrificed nothing to add new glamours to operatic history, and to bring to a public that enjoyment which is to be derived only from the combining of story, music and dramatic action.

STELLAR VICTORIES

Pre-eminently, however, the opening performance shone forth in stellar victories. The opera, "Samson and Delilah," is not, strictly speaking, one of encompassing musical or dramatic brilliance, but Charles Marshall and Louise Homer, as the two chief characters, gained an increasing [illegible] for the advantage that they made of the majority of its opportunities. Particularly was this the case in the second act, which is the most melodious in the work, with the familiar "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" as its climax.

The second act was easily the outstanding in the impression that it made on the audience, and both Marshall and Miss Homer were accorded a notable ovation. The singers were also recalled a number of times after the first act and the two [illegible] in the third act, and Richard Hageman as conductor shared in the warmth of the reception.

Georges Baklanoff and Edouard Cotreuil were applauded for their singing of the two other principal roles—namely the High Priest and the Old Hebrew.

The ballet staged by Theodore Kosloff proved an alluring, if late, event in the opera. This depicted the revel of the Philistines, and interest in the final act was divided between the ballet and the singing of Marshall in the Mill Scene. The chorus, which [illegible] a remarkably large volume of tone, was vocally very successful in the opening scene.

"Samson and Delilah," which is the most important contribution of the composer Saint-Saens, to repertoire, has been presented here on only two or three previous occasions. In certain respects it has an oratorio-like quality, which does not make it as dramatically effective as the majority of more popular works.

The fact that this was doubtless felt by some members of the audience might have dictated the choice of a more dazzling work for the opening. However, this circumstance did not materially detract from the [illegible] attendant on the opening of the season.

One of the highlights of the evening was the speech made by Otto H. Kahn, in which he brought a greeting from the East to the West, and [illegible] to the Metropolitan as a "sister opera company," and praised the enterprise that has made the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association possible, as well as its endeavors to foster new talent.

MUCH TO ANTICIPATE

The words of Mr. Kahn gave an added significance to the premiere [illegible], and considering the [illegible] who will take part in subse-

Colorful Scene Is Unrivaled on Opening Night

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Shrine Auditorium was the scene of a most brilliant gathering last night with the opening of the Los Angeles grand opera season, the setting proving one of the loveliest ever presented here. For hours before the opening, the streets were crowded by motor cars and an eager, interested throng, which, however, is always a feature of the first night.

Inside, a magnificent pageant was given. The immense and spacious lobby and foyer were massed with brilliant hued fall blossoms and ferns in tall baskets and jardineres, presenting a gorgeous setting for the beautifully gowned women, with wraps of fur, velvet and satin adding an artistic touch to the picture

I doubt if even the Grand Operahouse in Paris or the Metropolitan in New York ever presented a more beautiful picture than that of last night, and I am sure the auditorium equaled if it did not rival the Diamond Horeshoe of the Metropolitan Operahouse, which is famous in history.

BEAUTIFUL GOWNS

Among the beautifully gowned society leaders were noticed:

Mrs. Ella Brooks Solano in black velvet and rhinestones with wrap of black velvet and sables, while with her, was Miss Elizabeth Wolters in green with a silver brocaded wrap.

Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow wore blue and silver chiffon with a black and blue velvet wrap, and Mrs. Edmund Burke Holliday wore an embroidered chiffon with gold lamme opera wrap

Mrs. Daniel Murphy who with her daughter, Miss Bernardine Murphy, and sister, Miss Sue Sinnott has just returned from their summer home at Pebble Beach, was most charming in a gown of green brocad and silver with wrap of metal cloth in gold and green and a gold-colored fox fur shawl collar.

Miss Sinnott wore a gown of Burgundy lace. Her wrap was of velvet with fox fur collar while Miss Bernardine Murphy was in white and silver with a green and gold opera wrap.

Mrs. Eugene O. McLaughlin was in rose color with green sequins, a white ermine and white fox opera wrap completing her costume.

Mrs. Richard Tracy St. John wore a white frock beaded in pearls and an exquisite Spanish shawl, while her sister, Miss Hortense McLaughlin, wore a fuchsia-colored gown with blue velvet wrap brimmed with fox fur.

With them were Mr. McLaughlin, Mr. St. John, Edward H. McLaughlin and Howard Cunningham.

Mrs. Ernest Albert Bryant wore a pale blue and silver gown with black opera coat trimmed with white fox, while her daughter, Miss Susanna Bryant, was in red with white opera coat.

Mrs. Joseph Francis Sartori wore a gown of silver lace, with black and silver wrap with chinchilla shawl collar.

Mrs. Hugh Livingstone Macneil wore a Chanel red Worth evening gown, with wrap of metal brocade, fur and pearls.

Mrs. James Rathwell Page wore a cream-colored chiffon and lace gown with wrap of black velvet and ermine.

With Mr. and Mrs. Page were Miss Marjorie C. Welch in a mauve chiffon beaded gown and wrap of green brocade with chinchilla fur collar, and Herman Henneberger, Jr.

Mrs. George Leslie Smith wore a green embroidered Jenny model with green and gold brocaded wrap trimmed with black fox fur.

Mrs. Roland Porter Bishop wore an orchid chiffon gown and an ermine wrap.

Incoming and Outgoing Presidents Greet Each Other

BANKERS' GROUPS SPLIT OVER QUESTION OF BRANCH AGENCIES

State and National Divisions Voice Opposition to Practice but Leave Meetings Unable to Agree on Methods to Halt Practice

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Starting out prosaically, as bankers should, to discuss matters relating to the banking business, the meetings yesterday of the State and national divisions of the American Bankers' Association, in annual convention here, were transformed without warning into excited, argumentative political conventions. The delegates, at least some of them, forgot the habitual dignity that clothes a banker during business hours and wrangled long and heatedly over the question of the best method to check branch banking. And when the meetings were over, each body walked out of its convention hall with exactly opposite resolutions to present to the general convention.

Two political parties could not have done better. First came the State bank division in the morning, ostensibly gathering to discuss technical affairs peculiar to the banking business. In the middle of the session, Grant McPherrin of Des Moines, president of the division, called upon J. H. Puelicher of Milwaukee, a former president of the American Bankers' Association, to present the report of the resolutions committee Mr. Puelicher offered a resolution indorsing the McFadden banking bill without the Hull amendments. After protracted argument, some of it loud and angry, the resolution was defeated and one substituted in its place, indorsing the bill with the Hull amendments included. This resolution was passed when only a corporal's guard was left in the hall.

Leading the fight for the approval of the Hull amendments was Representative Otis Wingo of Arkansas, member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency. Hardly had Mr. Puelicher finished the reading of his resolution when Representative Wingo made a dramatic appearance on the platform, determined to throw the resolution back in the teeth of its makers. After winning the right to speak, the Congressman from Arkansas was compelled to ask the indulgence of the delegates while he sat down to deliver his remarks. He complained of illness, and after leaving the hall after concluding his remarks, word came back that he was very ill, but later was reported greatly improved.

ORATORY TOSSED AROUND.

Just as much oratory was tossed around in the afternoon session of the national banking division, and it was of the same tenor as the expressions in the State bank meeting. The only difference was that the national bankers will go before the general convention of the American Bankers' Association with a resolution diametrically opposed to the will of the State bank division. They will ask that the association indorse the McFadden banking bill without the Hull amendments.

In all of the arguments in both meetings, the speakers without exception expressed themselves as unalterably opposed to branch banking. If the Californians resented these expressions they failed to object audibly, although there is some ground for the belief that the case for branch banking will come before the convention before it is over.

The argument over the inclusion or exclusion of the Hull amendments in the McFadden bill amounts to this:

The State division decided that the Hull amendments will effectually check the spread of branches. The national bankers contended that the Hull amendments actually will en-

RYAN, ON STAND, DECLARES KIDNAPING TALE FALSE

Deputy Is Center of Word Storm as He Explains What Convinced Him McPherson Story Not True

The District Attorney's office became convinced Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson's amazing story of her kidnaping and escape was a fake when the Carmel investigation established to the satisfaction of the prosecution forces that Mrs. McPherson was the woman with Kenneth G, Ormiston in the Benedict cottage, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan testified yesterday just before the closing of the day's session in Municipal Judge Blake's court.

This statement from the prosecution's witness and its chief investigator of the sensational McPherson case from the date when the woman evangelist appeared in Douglas, Ariz., with a remarkable story of her captivity in the Mexican desert, was preceded and followed by an outburst of legal objections, arguments and verbal fireworks that came to an end only when Judge Blake adjourned court until 10 o'clock this morning.

It was followed by charges of "unholy interest" on the part of Deputy Ryan, made against him by Defense Attorney W. I. Gilbert in his cross-examination that began yesterday afternoon and bids fair to continue for several hours today.

Gilbert, in his remarks to the court during the closing moments of the session, charged that Ryan, as the State's investigator, was showing unusual interest.

"I am asking this witness not a single question on cross-examination for any living purpose on earth except to show the unholy interest that he has taken in this prosecution and the venom he has displayed in it," Attorney Gilbert shouted through the barrage of objections offered by Deputies Dennison and Murray when Gilbert attempted to ask Ryan if he tried to persuade a witness to identify a photograph of Mrs. McPherson.

WITNESS UNSCATHED

The legal aid which his associates tried to give Ryan appeared unnecessary. Calm, precise and collected, the youthful deputy district attorney, who conducted the McPherson investigation from the beginning met every attack by the defense with an ever-ready answer that often left the attacker temporarily halted.

The verbal clashes brought little reaction from Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. The famous woman evangelist sat practically motionless during the testimony of Mr. Ryan. It was only during the cross-examination that she displayed any activity. Then, on rare occasion, she would lift her head from the palm of her hand and whisper something into the ear of Roland Rich Woolley, her personal attorney, or occasionally lean forward and say something to Gilbert.

Mrs. McPherson's expression changed visibly when the clothing worn by her in her asserted trek across the twenty miles of the Mexican desert to Douglas, Ariz., was introduced. As Ryan identified piece by piece, she shifted in the chair and passed remarks to Mrs. Kennedy, at her side.

The sudden change in the weather made the court-room oppressively hot and stuffy. Outside the pneumatic hammers on the steel construction of the new City Hall were pounding all day. Mrs. McPherson looked tired and more haggard than any day since the trial opened.

MADE UP HIS MIND

"I want you to tell the court when you made up your mind that Aimee Semple McPherson's story of her kidnaping was false," Attorney Gilbert thundered at the collected Mr. Ryan in the witness stand.

Mrs. McPherson leaned forward, her eyes darting and dancing.

There was a storm of objection. Finally, the judge ruled and Ryan said:

"I made up my mind when I saw that Kenneth G. Ormiston was up there at Carmel, and when I examined those grocery slips and compared the handwriting with the 'Light and Darkness' sermon, written by Mrs. McPherson, and when I had an opportunity to trace down Ormiston's movements step by step."

These steps, the District Attorney's office says, will be retraced in court today when Ormiston's sojourn at the Clark Hotel May 15, 16, 17 and 18, will be related by witness in court. Two witnesses are known to be ready to give their testimony and lay the foundation for introduction of documents proving that Ormiston, under the name of George McIntire, was at the Clark Hotel up to a few hours before Mrs. McPherson disappeared.

"AIMEE SAFE" WIRE

The so-called "Aimee safe" telegram and testimony concerning it were got into the record by the State. It developed that on May 21, a few days after Mrs. McPherson disappeared, Mrs. Kennedy, her mother, received a telegram from Oakland in which it was stated that her daughter was O.K., that she should not worry, and that details were in the mail. The text of the message went into the record. It was signed "Dr. Murton."

Ryan testified that he went to Oakland for the purpose of locating Dr. Murton and that he could find no evidence of any such person, and that the address given by the Dr. Murton was fictitious and that the handwriting on the original blank was the handwriting of Kenneth G. Ormiston, now wanted by the authorities for trial along with the women. Gilbert kept up a running fire of objections but was unable to keep back the disclosures. One objection drew from Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison the remark that subterfuge and deceit is the thing investigated in this case.

Gilbert attacked Ryan's investigation as insufficient to prove that there really was no Dr. Murton, and attacked Ryan's opinion also that the handwriting on the telegram blank is the handwriting of Ormiston, but did not carry the objection to a conclusion.

The next sensation came when Ryan told of finding handwriting on grocery slips located at the Carmel-by-the-Sea cottage occupied by Ormiston and a woman who, the State is contending, was Mrs. McPherson. He said that when he went before the grand jury with the slips and placed them alongside of Mrs. McPherson's handwriting he told the jurors: "Look, it's obvious."

Ryan testified that the grocery slips disappeared in the grand jury room. He said the last he saw of them they were going around among the jurors and that Mrs. E. A. Holmes, a juror, received them, then got up, and when she came back the slips were gone.

WOMAN NAMED

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison declared in an argument with Gilbert that the slips were destroyed in the grand jury room "by a sympathizer." Ryan said the slips were traced "to a party" in the jury room, but could not be found, and when pressed for an answer by Gilbert, he said the "party" and the "she" referred to by him is Mrs. Holmes. Ryan said he searched Mrs. Holmes's pocketbook, but did not find the slips. Gilbert brought out that men jurors turned their pockets wrongside out and that the other woman juror's pocketbook also was searched. Ryan, however, cen-

BIG PINE, California.

This Owens River Valley is changing its skin . . . .

Going through a very interesting transition. Changing crops from apples and alfalfa to tourists.

In the end—in spite of the roars about Los Angeles draining the valley dry of water—I think it will prove to be a blessing in disguise.

—o—

TROUT BAIT

Until the Los Angeles Aqueduct was built, this was essentially a farming community. The little towns in the valley sold dresses to farmers' wives and mowing machines to the old man.

The wholesale purchase of farm lands by Los Angeles for the water rights has changed most of this.

The merchants who sold mowing machines are now selling fishing tackle to tourists. The store windows are filled with sheepskin hunters' coats, trout bait, guns and wood axes. It has become a great outfitting depot.

—o—

THEATER SCENERY MOUNTAIN:

It will not be very long until this will be one of the great tourist resorts of the world.

The High Sierras which fringe this valley are absolutely gorgeous. Travelers who have tramped through Switzerland say that these mountains are more interesting and more beautiful.

Right above this town, for instance, set like a square marble slab into the side of one of the highest peaks, is a glacier which was old, no doubt, before there were men upon the earth.

There is a curious sense of unreality about the sawtooth line of peaks which gave the Sierras their name. They look like painted "back drops" in the theater.

You half expect to see them taken down at night, numbered and packed away in a scene loft.

—o—

WILD GAME

Although the summer vacation people are pouring in here every summer—armed like desert bandits—there is still a great deal of game within climbing distance of these valley towns.

Coming down the trail from Glacier Lodge, this morning, we saw eight deer in a herd in the roadway. Most of them were young bucks. The old, wise ones have gone fack farther into the hills.

There are twenty-three mountain lakes in this particular section of the mountains. All except a few (which are too highly impregnated with minerals) are wriggling with trout. The trout will never be fewer. Something like 2,000,000 baby fish were put in from the State hatcheries this summer.

—o—

OUR OWN LAND

The city of Los Angeles owns hundred of acres of land in the valley—bought for the water rights.

This will, no doubt, be utilized in some interesting way. Not, perhaps, for agriculture, but for tourists. Maybe for little summer places—like the little farms rented by Copenhagen and Berlin and other foreign cities to the townspeople.

—o—

THE LURE OF SNOW

I say "summer." In fact, I am not sure that it will not be the winter that has the greatest lure. At present most of the little mountain hotels shut down the last of September.

One of these days they will begin the season at that point—instead of ending it.

Before this can really be an intimate playground for Los Angeles, however, it will be necessary to have better roads between Mojave and the lower end of the valley.

PLAZA DEPOT SAVING OVER "L" PLAN CITED IN BRIEF

Argument Filed by City Attorney Asks Reaffirmation of Order for Station by Commission

Declaring that public necessity requires the construction of a union railroad passenger station in the Plaza-Civic-Center area, as previously approved by the California Railroad Commission, the Federal Interstate Commerce Commission, and ratified by the people at the April 30 election this year, City Attorney Stephens has filed with the Railroad Commission the city's brief. This argument of 236 pages, prepared by the City Attorney, Deputy City Attorney Bryan and Special Counsel Thelen, is the most thorough and comprehensive history of the Los Angeles union depot problem so far filed in the case, which had its inception in petitions filed in 1916 and 1917 with the Railroad Commission, asking for grade-crossing elimination and adequate union-railroad passenger facilities.

City Attorney Stephens in the brief calls the commission's attention to the commission's $70,000 detailed, unbiased investigation into railroad grade crossing terminal conditions in Los Angeles, toward which the city contributed $20,000. This investigation resulted in the commission's Plaza union depot order of 1921 and the approving decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission of July 6, 1925, referring the matter back to the California commission for a reneway of its hearings and such orders as it desired to make. The hearings were then held by the commission in Los Angeles in November, December, January, March, May and August. At the conclusion of the hearings, the commission directed the railroads and the city to file briefs for consideration by the commission before the decision was made. Both sides have filed the briefs required.

REAFFIRMATION ASKED

The commission is asked by the city in its brief, to reaffirm its Plaza union depot decision of 1921 and to reissue its union depot order, with the possible change that the commission might enlarge the Plaza Civic Center district area, in which the commission directed the railroads entering Los Angeles to prepare and present plans for a union railroad passenger depot. This order of 1921 was never complied with by the railroads, but they appealed to the Supreme Court and battled before the Interstate Commerce Commission against obeying the commission's order and lost, and also lost in their appeal to the people of Los Angeles at the April 30 election this year. The way was thus cleared, the City Attorney pointed out in his brief, for a final order by the California Railroad Commission directing the railroads to prepare and present plans for a union railroad passenger depot in the Plaza area. The City Attorney called attention in his brief to the fact that the part of the commission's order of 1921 requiring grade separations in the industrial district by means of new viaducts across the railroad tracks and the Los Angeles River was not contested by the railroads and to the fact that these viaducts are now either completed or are being planned and will be built.

EARLY DECISION EXPECTED

To those who attended the Railroad Commission's hearings held after the stinging rebuke given the railroads by the people at the April 30 election it was apparent that the heart had been taken out of the railroads' representatives by the election result. On the campaign the railroads had spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in a vain effort to obtain a vote against the Plaza area union depot, as previously ordered by the commission and approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The railroads at these hearings put up a half-hearted perfunctory opposition to the Plaza area union depot, and were even forced to admit that railroad engineers had started to work on plans for a union depot in this area. So in view of these facts, City Attorney Stephens is hopeful of an early decision by the commission reaffirming its former finding for a Plaza district union passenger depot.

"L" PLAN RIDDLED

With humor and sarcasm City Attorney Stephens in his brief riddled the railroad's chain of elevated "L" structures offered by them as a substitute for the Plaza district union depot, and described the long walks and street-car rides and transfers necessary for steam-road passengers if this plan were ever put into effect.

As to the cost to the railroads of an adequate union passenger depot in the Plaza area, the City Attorney, from the testimony given at the commission's recent hearings, set forth in the brief that the new money cost to the railroads for a Plaza district union depot would be but $3,616,277, with a total investment there of $9,325,603, as compared with a new money cost for the carriers' "L" plan of $5,512,598, and a total investment of $11,326,948. The City Attorney called attention to the fact that the railroads now own two-thirds of the land in the Plaza area required for a union passenger depot, and that there will be large salvage from the present railroad lands released for sale after the union depot is built.

NO REASON TO CHANGE

In his brief, City Attorney Stephens said:

"After a careful review of all the evidence in these proceedings, we respectfully submit that there is no good reason why this commission should alter the conclusion heretofore reached by it—a conclusion which has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and accepted by the city of Los Angeles.

"It is a conclusion which was not merely proper and necessary in the light of the record originally made in these proceedings, but which has been abundantly confirmed by the more recent testimony herein.

"It is a conclusion supported by all the engineers and other experts who have at any time testified as witnesses for the public authorities.

"It is a conclusion which finds strong support in the testimony of George A. Damon, one of the principal witnesses testifying in behalf of the carriers.

"J. G. Mott testified that in speaking of the Plaza area, he has in mind a territory somewhat larger than that specified in this commission's former order. It occurs to us that the commission may perhaps desire to enlarge somewhat the area specified in its former order so as to give to the carriers a wider choice between meritorious sites in the Plaza area.

"In other respects, we believe that the commission should adhere to the conclusion heretofore reached by it."

ADVANTAGES SHOWN

Of the advantages of the Plaza depot site, the City Attorney said:

"The site is near the point where the three steam railroads now entering the city are so close together that they are all spanned by a single bridge across the river.

"The site is at the converging point of many streets and is near the end of the principal business streets of Los Angeles.

"The site is near the present Pacific Electric lines to the east.

"The site is near a point which will probably be the northerly end of the first subway to be built in Los Angeles. This subway would be the best means of serving commuters as it would distribute passengers through the business district instead of unloading them at one depot from which they would be obliged to walk or take a street car.

"This station site would automatically do away with all passenger operation on Alameda street.

"Less train mileage is required.

"The site would distribute the maximum number of passengers without a transfer.

"The site is convenient to coach yards and shop yards.

"The entire project is on the ground.

"An open door for future roads entering Los Angeles is provided.

"The elimination of grade crossings may be economically effected.

"It is convenient to establish locomotive service and repair facilities.

"It would tend to stabilize values in the downtown district.

"The Plaza plan has already secured the approval of all the public authorities. As we have shown, the carriers already own more than two-thirds of all the land. The carriers would be assured of the hearty cooperation of the city in carrying out the orders and permissions of this commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission."

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOLS GAINS

Teachers Report Increase of 24,146 Over Same Period Last Year

Principals of schools are reporting an increase of 24,146 students at the close of the first twelve school days over that same period for last year. The total enrollment on the 1st inst. was 223,534, as against 199,388 for 1925.

Last year the number of students in the schools at this period was but 12,204 more than 1924, which was the lowest figure in the past half-dozen years.

Los Angeles experienced an increase in school attendance of 100 per cent from 1920 to 1923, and during those years from 30,000 to 40,000 additional students were added each year.

COUNTY WILL BUILD ROADS

More Than 218 Miles of Construction Scheduled Under Provisions of Mattoon Act

The county will construct more than 218 miles of new road during the coming year under the provisions of the Mattoon Improvement Act, recently affirmed by the Supreme Court, it was announced yesterday by Supervisor Cogswell, who is in charge of road work.

The value of the work will be somewhere near $20,000,000, but inasmuch as a large proportion of the rights of way will be granted without charge by owners of benefited property, the cost will be $9,753,793, Supervisor Cogswell explained.

"I have recommended and the full board has sustained my recommendation that the county finance about 40 per cent of the cost of this work, and the affected property be assessed for the balance," he said.

The projects, on which funds will be spent as listed in a report prepared by Road Commissioner Jones and transmittd to the Board of Supervisor Cogswell, are as follows:

Palm street, Washington Place, Shorb avenue, Mines avenue, Holabird avenue, First street, Flower avenue, Main street, Sepulveda Boulevard, Hickory street, Evelyn avenue, Hooper avenue, Manchester avenue, Eastern avenue, Southwest Parks and Boulevards, Stewart and Gray Road Old River School Road, Market street, Pomona Boulevard, Central avenue, Rosemead avenue, Anaheim-Telegraph Road, Slauson avenue, Downey and Rivera Road, Acadia street, Washington Place, Prospect avenue, Record street, Tweedy Road, Alondra Park Jefferson Drive, Broadway, Figueroa street, Hollydale Tract, Normandie avenue, Coal Canyon Road, South Park avenue, Compton avenue, Manor Place, Encinitas avenue, Garvey avenue, Brea Canyon cut-off, Las Tunas Drive, (Arrow Highway,) Vermont avenue, Century Boulevard, Citrus street, streets south of Miller avenue, Bonita and Walnut avenues, Sierra Vista avenue, Central and Root avenues. New Ruling May be Invoked for Boy's Sentence

Sentencing of John J. Doran, 20 years of age, for impersonating an officer of the United States internal revenue service was postponed yesterday by United States Judge McCormick to permit a scrutiny of a recent Supreme Court ruling authorizing Federal judges to hold minor offenders to places of correction until they have attained their majority.

It was disclosed by Department of Justice operatives investigating the youth's age that a felony warrant for issuing spurious checks is held by the San Francisco police department and that the Bty City officers will prosecute Doran once he is released by Federal custody.

The youth's mother, when questioned at her home in New York by government investigators said, according to their report yesterday, that her son is incorrigible and needs correction. He will be sentenced today.

VIADUCT REQUESTED

That the new First-street viaduct be the next of the bridges to be built across the Los Angeles River was the request made to the City Council yesterday by the Belvedere Township Chamber of Commerce. The Macy and Ninth-streets viaducts have been completed and are in use, and the others to be built will bea at Aliso, First, Fourth and Seventh streets.

The machine will carry orators and oratory as well as drama and opera from the metropolis to the most retired hamlet. Somebody says it will be "hard on the musicians' union, but it is going to be mighty nice for the amusement-loving public."

THE FIRE AND THE FLAME

What is it that is at once man's useful friend and dangerous foe; feeble at birth, fast in growth and fierce at maturity; wisdom's slave and folly's tyrant; the joy and comfort of hearth and home, the scourge and torment of forest and city; pleasant in approach and painful in contact; docile on the leash and unmanageable in the open; a force in its fury capable of annihilating the most durable works of man and a power without which our modern civilization could never have matured?

This is no riddle, propounded by a Delphic oracle, to muddle the infant wits of Athenian helots. It is a question dealing with one of the most intense problems that in our modern age calls for instruction by the initiated and the education of the careless—the problem of preventing wild-cat fires and fighting outlaw flames.

So much that is vital to the interests of the whole human race depends on our use or misuse of this most precious and dangerous gift that the nation has decreed a week for the special study of the mighty element—fire. Naturally our trained fire departments will take the leading part in driving home to the public conscience the necessity for co-operation in confining this most rebellious of human servants to its legitimate bounds.

Churches, schools, newspapers, the movies, public officials, heads of families, business houses and individual citizens, it is hoped, will all work together during this special week to make it a starting point for a better general understanding of the peril of the small flame and a fuller realization of the awful destruction that lurks behind a momentary act of carelessness.

Fire in its proper environment is so common and so universal a sight that the easy-going acquiescence of mankind in whatever man is used to often makes him forget the terrific strength of the jinni that answers so readily the rubbing of the lamp. A careless handling of the jinni, because it does not always lead to disastrous consequences, breeds in a certain type of mentality a sense of immunity, a blossoming from the valor of ignorance. And then comes the one time too often and some precious life is lost, some valuable property goes up in smoke, a family is left desolate among the ashes of despair and another big item of unnecessary human suffering is added to the already too long list of miseries that never need have been.

The hot coals in the well-designed open fireplace, the glowing mass of white-hot material in the scientific factory furnace, the carefully tended burning fagots of the jovial mountain campers, the terrific heat of the oil burners in the steel entrails of the ocean liner or under the locomotive boiler are samples of man's proper use and enjoyment of the gift brought to earth by Prometheus for the service of man.

But the tiny flame of the neglected match, the flicked-hot ash from the cigarette, the still-burning embers left behind in the deserted mountain camp, the secret and hidden combustion in the damp and wrongly stored ship's cargo, the insufficiently insulated electric wire in the roof of the home or factory, these are the implements of revenge employed by the gods of Olympus for the stealing of their celestial fire by the presumptuous Prometheus.

Yet the actual agents through which fire and flame are diverted from their true service and turned against the intelligence that conquered them are not divine or semi-divine spirits or imaginary pagan deities. They are always human, thoughtlessly, foolishly or ignorantly human; men, women and children, some who think but know no better and some who know better but do not think.

The task of Fire Prevention Week is to instruct the ignorant, who are generally the little children and can be reached through the schools; to stabilize the mental laziness that fails to distinguish between the safe fire and the perilous flame; to force conviction on the indifferent that to play fast and loose with a dangerous element is an act of criminal carelessness; and establish a precedent that shall keep the fear of fire before the eyes of the people throughout the coming twelvemonth.

Except in the case of the lightning stroke—and even against this there is a scientific safeguard—every fire that will get beyond human control during the next year will be the handiwork of some man, woman or child. Now if every individual in the nation would determine to learn the lesson preached in Fire Prevention Week, think what a vast sum could be added to the health, wealth and happiness of the whole American people. And the lesson is so simple and so easy to apply.

UNLUCKY CHILE

Chile is out of luck. Overshadowing the Tacna-Arica dispute in public interest there at present are the acute financial difficulties that have arisen since the demand for her nitrates has so greatly fallen off. A few years ago Chile was producing and exporting over 95 per cent of the world's nitrate supply. The nitrate mines of Antofagasta and Tarapaca, in the arid northern region of the republic, employed many thousands of men and brought great prosperity to the country, a part of which came from export duties on nitrates, amounting in some years to over $30,000,000. Now about 10,000 of the miners are out of employment as the result of mine after mine shutting down.

Synthetic nitrates, now manufactured to sell in Europe and the United States at prices far lower than is commanded by the natural Chilean product, have caused all the trouble. Chile produced 2,606,571 tons of nitrate in 1920, but her production has fallen to less than 1,200,000 tons and is still further threatened. It is estimated that there will be no demand whatever for Chilean nitrate by the end of the present decade.

With falling fortunes family rows are always likely to ensue, and this has been the case with Chile, formerly one of the most prosperous of the lower republics. Senor Ibanez, Minister of War, has been engaged in a hot press battle with Senor Somarriva, Minister of Finance, whom he accuses of ruinous extravagance. An income tax is now in effect estimated to yield $60,000,000 annually, but this is not an acceptable measure to a nation that has been living off other countries and exacting high tribute for its leading product.

High taxes worked the political ruin of President Alessandri, who attempted to increase the state revenues by laying a heavy burden upon the aristocratic element. Alessandri lost favor and was forced to vacate his office, which is now held temporarily by President Figueroa. Since Chilean nitrates cannot hold their place in the world market unless the price is reduced, the Chilean Chamber of Deputies is now considering a new tariff law which may embody a reduction in the export tax, thus enabling the mining companies to meet the prices at which nitrates are sold by foreign concerns which are employing the new process of obtaining nitrate out of the air.

But Chile need not despair, nor is she likely to do so. Her copper mines are of enormous value and she has been producing nearly $50,000,000 worth of that metal annually. There seems to be no great agricultural progress in that country. It is almost twice the size of California and has 95,000,000 acres of arable land, but comparatively little of it is under cultivation. If more attention were paid to agriculture and less to other industries, in which foreign capital is employed to the extent of 80 per cent, there would not be so many men out of work and the country might return to the prosperity it enjoyed five years ago. More than 1000 men marched from the mines to Santiago recently to demand that the government furnish work for unemployed miners. The President called a Cabinet meeting to discuss the problem, but no decision was reached. A suggestion that a farm be given to each unemployed man did not meet with favor. Most of the land is held by the aristocracy in large estates, and its owners have no thought of relinquishing it.

A further appeal to foreign capitalists would be of no avail, it is said, because they have done all they can for Chile—and incidentally for themselves. Chile will have to work out her own problems in her own way.

LAUGHTER

"Man is the laughing animal. A dog can be taught to grin; but he cannot be taught the cause of his grinning. A parrot will imitate the sound of laughter, but not the sense of it. The eye of neither beast nor bird shows the slightest trace of humor. Man, and man only, laughs," writes Edmund Vance Cooke in the Shrine Magazine.

The horse has brains; but its laugh is not held in the highest esteem. It shows affection; but wears a face long enough to eat oats out of gas pipe. The pelican has a bill like the chin of a Pharisee and it is as pompous and as pious.

When Deity evolved an animal to the point where He was ready to involve a soul He rolled in a hearty laugh. The peal of laughter is the distinctive characteristic of man.

For ages the long-faced have fooled us into thinking they thought. Cassius's countenance has been proverbial for culture. The lean dyspeptics have written too much of our theology. There is a suspicion that Mussolini dictates by his long immobile chin.

The cacklings of cynics, the raucous roars of devils and the gibbering gibes of idiots have jeered us out of our heritage. They curdle the blood and freeze the soul and we shiver.

But laughter drives the ghosts from haunted houses, sweeps the witches from the sky, flings error into irretrievable retreat and puts hoax and passion to the poniard.

A cadaver is ever dignified; fraud is always solemn; infidelity is usually cynical; sham is consistently propped up by spurious piety.

But the tinkling, rippling laughter of innocence and the open hearty laughter of wholesome manhood fill the world with sunshine. The best fighting face is a grin.

"De Lesseps built the Suez, Goethals engineered the Panama, but God made the alimentary." A cheery alimentary canal has done more for universal peace than all others strung together.

UNIVERSITY AT SEA

The floating university, heralded for two years as about to sail and twice postponed, is a final fact. The good ship Ryndam, with President Charles Thwing of Western Reserve University pacing the bridge, a full complement of faculty shanghaied in the hold and a cargo of 450 students draped about the rigging, swung off from the Hoboken pier recently. Henry J. Allen, one-time Governor of Kansas, will conduct the college paper. Of course, the university will heave to in the Los Angeles Harbor. It will be a liberal education to put into this port.

PUNCH IN IT

It is reported on good authority that Punch, the London comic, which has been receiving $500,000 a year from liquor advertisements, will discontinue them as fast as the contracts expire. Evidently England is putting punch into her prohibition ambitions.

THIRST

"The average boy goes to college with a thirst for knowledge and comes out with nothing but the thirst," says some one. However, that was in the good old days. The college presidents are quite unanimous that times have changed.

A RISKY CURE
By James J. Montague

To fill a great and long-felt need,
  A scientist affirms,
That soon there will be reared a breed
  Of germ-destroying germs
Which, once set free in man's inside
  Will decimate and kill
The evil germs, which there abide
  And often make him ill.

When fever makes us pine and fret
  And we feel like the deuce,
Then we shall simply need to let
  These savage creatures loose.
To battle they will promptly go,
  Their souls athirst for gore,
And in perhaps a day or so
  We'll feel all right once more.

We know, of course, that they will win,
  But oftentime we doubt
If, when we once have let them in,
  That we can get them out.
Will not they make of us their prey
  When they are snugly hid
In our anatomy, the way
  Their predecessors did?

Before these predatory mites
  Consolidate the gains
That they have made in valiant fights
  Conducted in our veins,
Although they've rid us of disease,
  It would be rather wise
To make them furnish guarantees
  That they'll demobilize!

TRAVELING TOO FAST

If we all lived within our means it is possible it would not be necessary to call for any kind of "relief." There is something wrong with a condition whereby people buy luxuries with a lavish hand and refuse or neglect to pay their debts. We are traveling at too rapid a pace and should come down to earth.—[Iroquois (S. D.) Chief.

Man of Imagination

ASHBURNHAM (Mass.) Sept. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It has been said that the man of imagination giving to a beggar gives to himself—that is to say, puts himself in the beggar's place, feels his hopelessness, his degradation, realizes his wasted life. Only the man of imagination can be fair-minded, for only he can see the other's side.

Let us for a moment, in imagination, change places with France, with England; look at this war debt matter from their point of view. It will enable us to see ourselves as they see us.

Suppose that in August, 1914, Germany had descended upon America as she descended upon France and reduced to ruins the great cities of our Atlantic seaboard and in the course of more than four years of merciless warfare had killed 1,500,000 Americans, wounded 3,000,000 and impoverished the nation—which is what she did to France.

And suppose that, during the first two years and a half of her life-and-death struggle, America received no word of sympathy from France, which for that length of time remained "neutral even in thought," and grew enormously rich furnishing America supplies at exorbitant rates.

And suppose that, after the war had progressed for upward of two and a half years, France, for reasons of her own, decided to take a hand in the contest; but, owing to complete unpreparedness, was unable, during the first fifteen months of her participancy, to take upon herself any share of the actual fighting, it being done for her by America and her other allies at the cost to America alone of more than 100,000 men. Being unable to furnish men, it is supposed that France furnished money in their place and stead; "loaned" to America $3,500,000,000, by the law of France, expressly declared to be for the security and defense of France (as every dollar "loaned" by us to France, and England as well, was by our law expressly declared to be for our security and defense) to enable us to do her fighting and die while doing duty for her.

And suppose that we, with our associates, finally prevailed, at a cost to us of 1,500,000 killed and 3,000,000 wounded (which was the cost to France) of many billions of property destroyed and a colossal debt; while France lost but 50,000 killed and had 200,000 wounded; that the end of the struggle which impoverished us, left France richer than ever before.

Now then suppose the day of settlement, some years after the war, arrives and France, the richest nation in the history of the world, demands of all but bankrupt America, with an income tax rate twenty-two times as great as that of France (which is France's tax as compared with ours) the repayment of every dollar advanced to us for her own security and defense, amounting to $3,500,000,000, and, because America cannot put her hand on the money and pay spot cash, another $3,500,000,000 for time.

In the imagined circumstances (which are the actual circumstances reversed) what would America think of France? Would she not denounce France as a heartless Shylock demanding her pound of flesh? Would she not remember her 1,500,000 dead and France's 50,000, her own distressful condition and the unprecedented prosperity of France, and would she not loathe France with all the passion of her soul? Would America not say to France, "How about the 100,000 Americans who died in trenches where Frenchmen should have been? Have we asked you to return to us our dead? Have we demanded their equivalent in money? Can it be possible that you expect us to have carried on for you for fifteen months of your war period at our own cost in money as well as in men?"

And when France replies: "I do not see anything about these things in the bond; I swear there is no power in the tongue of man to alter me. I stay here on my bond," would not a feeling of contempt for France spread over the whole earth?

In the imagined circumstances America would feel and act precisely as France feels and acts, and she would be wholly justified. What American will deny it? What Senator would favor a Mellon-Berenger agreement and vote to burden the United States with such a debt, under such circumstances?

The same imagined change of place with England would explain and justify England, as it explains and justifies France.

FREDERICK W. PEABODY.

THE LADY'S REPLY

He was an up-to-date, well-dressed collegian and this was his first day at the flying field. Near the Canuck, the small airplane, he noticed a crowd of men all gathered about what seemed to be the pilot. The crowd was singularly, overwhelmingly composed of members of the male sex. Our hero wondered at the deep interest shown by the men in a pilot of an airplane and he thus casually strolled over to partake of the general curiosity. The center of all eyes, he at once noticed, was an aviatrix. With a superior swagger he brushed through the crowd and asked the intrepid female, "Aren't you often mistaken for a man?"

"No," she answered, are you?"—[New York Medley.

THERMOMETER AT 90 DEGREES

Yesterday Warmest October Sun in Years, Says Weather Bureau

Los Angeles yesterday experienced the warmest October sun in several years when a maximum temperature of 90 deg. was recorded shortly after noon on official United States Weather Bureau instruments. It was also the hottest day recorded since August, according to the Weather Bureau.

The maximum temperature was 14 deg. warmer than mean temperature for October, it was stated, and the average mean temperature was 7 deg. warmer than normal.

A minimum temperature of 59 deg. was recorded at 6:30 a.m., while the temperature at 5 p.m. was 85 deg. The Weather Bureau reported the warm spell may extend over today and tomorrow.

The official forecast is fair and warm today, with lower humidity; moderate to fresh northeasterly wind.

AGED MAN SUCCUMBS SUDDENLY

Spencer L. Toll, Brother of Banker, Dies While Latter is Absent in East

Spencer L. Toll, 84 years of age, died yesterday at the home of his younger brother, Charles H. Toll, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, 415 Kenneth Road, Glendale.

Mr. Toll, who had been a resident of Los Angeles and vicinity between thirty and forty years, had been in ill health for about three years, it was reported, and underwent an operation about three months ago. At breakfast Sunday he complained of feeling ill and dizzy and disappeared about 9 o'clock that night.

Mr. Toll, a widower, for years had been employed in the railway mail service, retiring from active duty about fifteen years ago. During his residence in California he had acquired a little property. His previous home was in Clinton, Iowa.

Charles H. Toll, the brother, and his family are in the East on a visit. The elder man had been occupying the home during the absence of his brother's family.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

LONG LIST OF THEFTS ADMITTED

Suspect Tells Police He Eluded Capture for Period of Seven Years

Rex Renard, 26 years of age, yesterday faced four charges of robbery after, according to his asserted admissions to Detective Lieutenants Eubanks, Button and Bailey, he had successfully eluded capture for seven years.

In a statement to the officers, they said, he admitted that for seven years he has traveled from city to city throughout the United States, robbing with impunity. He was charged in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Thomas with robbery of the operators of three Standard Oil Company and one Julian service stations.

The young man is said to have told the officers that he only stayed in a city about three months and then moved on. He never committed any robberies in New York or Chicago, he is reported saying, because he spent his vacations there. He said he had used mostly a cigarette gun, which resembles an automatic pistol. He was arraigned in Municipal Court and placed in the County Jail.

"Tuffy" Reed's Brother Sent to Penitentiary

William Reed, brother of Clarence (Tuffy) Reed, who was hanged for the murder, four years ago, of Charles Weingarten, yesterday was sentenced together with two other youths to San Quentin penitentiary on three counts of robbery growing out of the hold-up June 1, last, of the Spanish Speaking Club at Los Angeles Harbor.

Those sentenced with Reed were Jackie Kane and William Rouder, while William P. Barry, who also was convicted on the robbery charges, filed a motion for a new trial. Hearing on this motion was set for Thursday.

The quartet was said to have held up and robbed several guests at the Spanish Speaking Club, lining up their victims against the wall at the point of guns.

SINGED WIFE SUES

Declares She Was Burned Foiling Mate's Asphyxiation Plot

If, as Mrs. Cora Elizabeth Dye asserts in her complaint for divorce, it was the plan of William Luke Dye to asphyxiate her, he was foiled but in the foiling Mrs. Dye was caused a lot of trouble, she declares.

Dye, she said, had turned on the gas in her room. She expressed the opinion that he hoped for fatal results—fatal to her.

But, she continued, not knowing of this little plan, she struck a match, and burned all the gas up before it could asphyxiate her. Her eyebrows, eyelashes and hair were singed off and she was painfully burned, Mrs. Dye complained. This happened August 10, 1925, the complaint recited, and the couple separated the same day.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robey Simons, who recently returned from an extensive trip abroad, Mr and Mrs. Richard Hageman and all the stars of the grand opera. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Modini Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Verbeck are entertaining with a dinner-dance at the Westport Beach Club, the 15th inst. About 150 guests have been bidden and the affair promises to be one of the most delightful of the season's events.

To Winter Here

Among the recent arrivals in Los Angeles who is being heartily welcomed by her many friends is Mrs. Clara Carpenter-Nave, daughter of Mrs. C. C. Carpenter of the Talmage, who is planning to enjoy the winter with her mother. Mrs. Carpenter-Nave, who has been in Paris for several years, arrived several weeks ago.

Home From Vacations

Returning to Los Angeles after a delightful summer's vacation is a group of prominent Angelenos who every year go down to their cottages at Alamitos Bay, including Mr and Mrs. Frank Gillelen and their family, including Marjory, Frank, Jr., and Dick, who for fourteen years have passed their summers at their delightful summer home there.

The Roy Pinkhams with their four children have gone there for at least ten summers, while Dr. and Mrs A. Bartlett Ross, who returned to their home in Plymouth Boulevard with their three boys, Jack, Dickinson and Bartlett, Jr., have been sojourners at Alamitos Bay for more than seven years.

The Fulton Lanes and three children, the Lawrence Bakers with their two children, the Fred Bakers and the Guy Boyntons with their two children and the Jack Vallelys with their two children all have been summer residents for many years at the charming watering place.

Mr and Mrs. Robert Swigart, who returned from a six months' trip around the world, went down immediately after their coming home, and have had a house there for more than four years.

One of the delightful features at this resort is the annual regatta that the children put on each year with swimming and diving; all summer the youngsters work toward this result, those just learning having their teachers and the others help each other, the great day being in September, when the judge is some one who does not know the children, invited down to judge and give the trophies and badges. A spirit of good sportsmanship is shown by the children, who always congratulate the winner with much more unselfishness than is often shown in grown-ups.

Then there are the sailboat races and trophy cups awarded and there is also a Red Cross teacher who goes down to give the life-saving course.

This little coterie of friends forms a most delightful colony during the summer, and the friendship and bon camaraderie is kept up through the winter months after they return to town in the fall.

Initiation and Installation

Members of Kappa Psi Zeta, local of the University of California, Southern Branch, were formally initiated into Kappa Delta national social sorority Saturday afternoon, the ceremonies taking place at the Philanthropy and Civics clubhouse, 1419 South Wilton Place. Kappa Phi Zeta will become Alpha Iota chapter in Zeta province of Kappa Delta, and marks a new westward expansion, due to the progress and greatness of our western universities. Beta Kappa, local of the Oregon Agricultural College, will become Alpha Kappa chapter within two weeks, and Tau Nu, local of University of Oregon, will become Alpha Lambda, to be installed the last week of the month.

Kappa Delta holds its eighteenth biennial national convention in California next summer. Kappa Delta was founded in Virginia in 1897, and now has forty-six alumnae associations, owning and maintaining the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va., being the national philathropic work of the sorority.

This evening a formal installation banquet of Kappa Psi Zeta will be given at Vista del Arroyo in Pasadena, the Spanish motif being employed in all of the appointments and decorations; toasts being made by Helen Morgan, president of Theta Sigma chapter at University of Southern California; Mrs. Ada McDonald Smith, national chapterian, Miss Catherine Wright, president of Los Angeles Alumnae Association of Pappa Delta, and Miss Adelaide Green, president of Kappa Psi Zeta.

Theft of Sax to End Nightly Din Winked At

"Justifiable burglary" took its place in the county courts yesterday when Judge Keetch granted probation of two years to Earl Wilcox and James Frame, young men who had previously pleaded guilty to burglary.

In asking for probation, the two young men pleaded they had climbed along a window sill from their room in a downtown hotel, entered another room and returned with a saxophone, the owner of which had nightly regaled them while they attempted to sleep.

"It was impossible to sleep," the defendants told the court.

It was shown the defendants had no desire to play the saxophone and made no attempt to sell it. Other tenants in the hotel joined in the request for probation.

BREADED TONGUE

Cut cold boiled corned tongue in slices a third of an inch thick. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in egg and crumbs, and sauter in butter. Remove to hot plates; reheat and pour over it a tomato sauce which has been previously prepared.

Tomato sauce: Cook a sliced onion with a cupful of tomatoes, rub through a strainer and add two tablespoonfuls of butter, two of flour and seasoning.

GROTTO SALAD

Place in a salad bowl one-half of a lemon, cut in tiny chunks and on this put the hearts of the lettuce, separating the leaves but not breaking apart, and in these leaves cut chunks of peeled tomatoes and cucumbers which are icy cold. Over all sprinkle green onion cut so fine it is not distinguishable, and if liked two or three tarragon leaves cut fine. Serve with French dressing.

FRENCH PANCAKE

Beat two eggs, whites and yolks separately; add one cupful of milk to the beaten yolks, and one teaspoonful of sugar, salt and one-half of a cupful of flour. Beat until smooth, then put in one-half of a tablespoonful of olive oil and the beaten whites. Grease the cutlet pan with a little oil, heat and pour in enough of the mixture to cover the bottom; when brown, turn and brown the other side. Spread each cake with butter and jelly. Roll and serve at once.

CHICKEN PAPRIKA

Dress, clean and cut two chickens in pieces for serving; then sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook four and one-half tablespoonfuls butter with one-half onion finely chopped, fifteen minutes, stirring almost constantly to prevent burning. Add chicken, sprinkle with four and one-half tablespoonfuls flour, mixed and sifted with one teaspoonful paprika, and pour over one and one-half cupfuls chicken stock. Bring to the boiling point and let simmer twenty minutes, adding more chicken stock if necessary. Remove to casserole dish, cover and cook until chicken is tender.

STUFFED TOMATOES

Wipe and remove stem end from six small tomatoes. Take out seeds and most of pulp, sprinkle inside of tomatoes, with salt, invert, and let stand twenty minutes. Cook three tablespoonfuls butter with six tablespoonfuls chopped green pepper five minutes. Add three-fourths cupful soft stale bread crumbs, one-half cupful removed tomato pulp, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, and a few drops onion juice. Fill tomatoes with mixture put in buttered pan and bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Baker's Bread

If you use the baker's bread that comes wrapped in glazed paper, open the paper carefully and after you have cut all the bread you need, replace the loaf in the paper and fold over the edges. The bread will keep splendidly in this manner.

An Even Flooring

Be sure that the floor is even and the boards secure before the new linoleum is laid in the kitchen. If the foundation is not even and secure the linoleum cannot help but wear out over the defects.

Plenty of Room

Allow plenty of room for the pillows and bolsters when you buy muslin slips. If the pillows have to be stuffed into the cases, the cases will soon wear out.

Clean Tea Towels

On days of canning or preserving, it is wise to hunt out the oldest tea towels and put the best linen ones away. Then you cannot possibly have fruit stains on your best towels when in a careless moment you wipe your hands on one.

To Hold Paraffin

I have a small aluminum sauce pan, purchased at the 5-and-10-cent store, in which I keep paraffin, both new and the tops that have been used before. Then when I have jelly to cover, I just put the pan on the stove and melt what I need. It pours easily and none of it goes to waste.

CROSSING LANES REQUESTED

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce requested the City Council yesterday to provide school-crossing lanes on Avalon Boulevard at One Hundred and Ninth Place and at One Hundred and Tenth street.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair with a Home-Made Mixture

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Any one can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—[Advertisement.

THEATER CONTRACT MADE

Mission Play Corporation Completes Plans for Permanent Presentation of Pageant

Construction of the new Mission Playhouse at San Gabriel to house California's great historic drama and assure its perpetuation for generations to come will begin immediately, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement was forthcoming at the conclusion of a conference yesterday afternoon of the officers and board of directors of the Mission Playhouse Corporation, sponsored by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The work will be done by the William Simpson Construction Company, it was stated, by W. I. Hollingsworth, president of the corporation. The construction company's bid was accepted at the conference yesterday and the necessary papers signed to assure immediate commencement of the work on the new home for the Mission Play written by John Steven McGroarty and presented at San Gabriel for many years.

It was also announced that $250,000 of the $300,000 necessary to erect the playhouse had already been subscribed through the sale of 7 per cent preferred stock. The remaining $50,000, it was stated, will probably be in the hands of the directors in a short time.

The plans for the unique new playhouse to serve as the setting for the historic pageant of California were drawn by Dood & Richards, architects.

Mr. McGroarty, on his way to Pennsylvania to visit relatives, was informed by wire yesterday of the corporation's action. Enthusiastic assurance was given by the officers and members of the board that the plans to perpetuate the play are now in their first stage of realization and that subsequently the proceeds of the play will be used to reclaim and repair California's Spanish missions in accordance with the wishes of Mr. McGroarty.

In no country in the world is there such an organized system to promote better homes as in Canada, where women's institutions are to be found in every community with well worked-out courses in home economy.

KICK IN NIGHT HELD CAUSE FOR DIVORCE

To be kicked out of bed not only hurts a person and breaks into her sleep, but it humiliates, Mrs. Anna Dunham pointed out to Judge Hollzer yesterday. "He kicked me out of my bed. It hurt. It spoiled my night's rest, and it made me feel humiliated," she testified. The topic of the conversation was the conduct of Harold Dunham, from whom Mrs. Dunham wanted a divorce. Judge Hollzer agreed that she was entitled to one. "Here we have, flowing from one act, both the physical suffering and the extreme mental anguish contemplated by the law as sufficient cause for a divorce. Decree granted," the court ruled.

CLEANNESS
removes causes of tooth decay

The snow-white foam of this modern dentifrice gives your teeth and mouth perfect cleanness

HEALTHY cleanness is the safe preventive of dental diseases. In a fresh, clean mouth no germs can lurk—by cleanness the causes of tooth decay are removed.

Here is a modern dentifrice that works on a cleansing, washing principle. As you brush, Colgate's expands into a full, bubbling foam. This foam washes the teeth, cleans between close-set teeth, and then flushes over to cleanse and purify gums, tongue, inner mouth.

Physicians and dentists do not give drugs to well people. They frown on self-medication. "Complete cleanliness," says science, "and no dental dangers—real or fancied—are likely to attack you."

Colgate's offers nothing for mental dental dangers. It cleans. What more can be promised to normal, healthy persons with normal healthy mouths.

STUDIO BROOMS PUSH OUT RICE

KHJ Silent Except for Busy Cleaning Squad

Uncle John and Bride Will be Back Tonight

Visiting Bankers to Speak During Week

BY MAE PRYCE BROOKS

The usual Monday silence at KHJ was broken only by the noon program and the swish of the brooms trying to get the rice out of the studio. It seemed as if China's supply must have been exhausted to furnish the quantity which was showered on Uncle John and his bride.

Telegrams have been pouring in—messages from shut-ins, from old and young. Telephones have been kept ringing until the operators have almost "thrown up the sponge."

No one knows where the bride and groom have been in hiding, but Uncle John will be back to take care of his children's hour tonight. The fairies make their weekly visit this evening and it is whispered that their message will be woven around our studio romance.

The program at noontime yesterday presented the Piggly Wiggly Girls in a very lovely group of numbers. Among their selections was a "Mazourka," by Los Angeles' own Anna Priscilla Risher, which was beautiful. The "Minuet" from the Military Symphony by Handel, "Reverie," by MacDowell, "Valse Lente," by Gruger and "Egyptian Nights," by Siragosa, completed their program.

REQUEST NUMBERS GIVEN

James Neill Northe, tenor, came in from his Ontario studio for his weekly visit. His numbers included three Lieurance compositions—"By the Waters of the Minnetonka," "Love Song" and "Where the Sad Waters Flow." His rendition of "Life," by Oley Speaks was one of the best things he has done. Several request numbers were also given. Mr. Northe has a beautiful radio voice—his high notes are never too loud, as is the case so often with tenor voices, and there is a smoothness that broadcasts so well.

The beautiful voice of Helen Guest was heard in popular ballads, which took on a new meaning as she sang them. Playing her own accompaniments, she sang "Bring Back Those Rockabye Baby Days," "Cherie, I Love You" and "Broken Doll." It will be a pleasure to have Miss Guest with us again.

BANJOIST DELIGHTS

There is no one who plays the steel guitar quite as does Anton Chris. As he plays his full chords it seems impossible that only one instrument is being played—it sounds as if there must be two or three. On his program were "Listen to the Mocking Bird," "Most of All I Want Your Love" and "Hello, Aloha, How Are You?"

Freeman Lang was guest announcer on the program.

Several of the visiting bankers are to come up to the tower studio to speak during the week. Tonight you will have the privilege of hearing Craig Hazelwood, vice-president of the Union Trust Company of Chicago. He will speak on "The Los Angeles Convention."

You are also to hear that charming singer, Maude Darling Weaver, this evening.

Uncle Remus came in yesterday to bid us a fond adieu. He said he came down from Sacramento to see Uncle John married, and that he had to go back and finish his trip. He came bringing a perfectly nice mop for the bride.

Due to the excitement of the past week we forgot to mention the opening of the new studio of Kieruff and Ravenscroft at Ocean Park, KNRC. We regret that it was overlooked and wish to extend to our sister station our hearty good wishes for its success.

INHERITS FROM WIFE HE SLEW

Husband Who Turned Gun on Himself Passes Money to Kin

Relatives of the husband of the late Miriam Wells, known because of the perfection of her figure as the "Venus de Milo of Venice," will share in her estate, despite the fact that she met her death at his hands. This must be so because it is the law, Judge Reeve, in Probate Court, ruled yesterday.

The husband, Robert E. Wells, shot himself and his wife last June 10. Both died the same day, but Mrs. Wells died first, by a brief interval, and during that interval Wells was the heir of half her estate.

There was a will, which was offered for probate, whereby the entire estate was devised to Mrs. Wells's son by a former marriage, but this will was dated a few days prior to the day she married Wells, and did not mention him; therefore it was invalid, Judge Reeves ruled.

The will was contested by Gladys Roycroft, daughter of Wells by a former marriage.

As the situation stands now, the heirs of Mrs. Wells are her husband and her son, and the husband's share will go to his heirs. The estate is valued at $8700.

VICTIM SENT AID ON SHIP LANDED

Mrs. Ernest Torrance's Aunt in Critical Condition

Brought to Local Port After Attack While at Sea

Naval Doctors in 500-Mile Dash Keep Life in Her

> Amputation of a seaman's finger by radio was reported yesterday by Dr. W. G. Pitts, ship's surgeon of the Dollar liner President Harrison. September 28, Capt. Charles Porta received a radiogram from the British tank steamer Delaware, asking medical advice in the treatment of a seaman's crushed finger. Dr. Pitts filed a 200-word message to the British skipper, telling him in detail how to amputate the finger. An hour later the Delware reported:
> "Operation highly successful. Thanks."

Mrs. Elizabeth Earle of Leicestershire, Eng., to whose aid two naval surgeons and the U.S.S. Decatur were rushed 500 miles south of this port, was landed in a critical condition at daylight yesterday from the Dollar liner President Harrison.

At St. Vincent's Hospital last night, it was reported that Mrs. Earle, suffering from strangulated hernia, had but a small chance for recovery. She was met on arrival of the President Harrison by her daughter, Mrs. Henry De Kruif of 2322 Miramar street, and by her niece, Mrs. Ernest Torrance of 7942 Hollywood Boulevard. Owing to Mrs. Earle's advanced age, 75 years, surgeons deemed it inadvisable to perform the major operation required.

DESTROYER SENT

The destroyer Decatur, dispatched by Admiral Richard H. Jackson in response to calls on September 30, last, for aid from Capt. Charles Porta, commanding the President Harrison, met the liner off Asuncion Bay, 500 miles south of this port, at noon on the 2nd inst., and the two naval surgeons, Lieutenant-Commanders Carleton L. Andrus and D. G. Sutton, were transferred aboard the steamer in ten minutes. Following a consultation with the ship's surgeon, Dr. W. G. Pitts, and with two physician passengers, Dr. E. B. Urbanowicz and Dr Howard Herrington, Drs. Andrus and Sutton decided to concentrate their efforts on keeping the patient alive until port was reached.

The President Harrison, pathfinder of the Dollar globe-circling fleet, yesterday completed her tenth successive trip around the world, negotiating approximately 270,000 miles without once being off schedule or in trouble.

PROMINENT PASSENGERS

Prominent among her passengers yesterday was A. T. Waterfall, vice-president of the Dodge Brothers Motor Company; Baroness de Graffenreid, accompanied by her son Schuyler Hamilton; Paul H. Helms, president of the General Baking Company of New York, and his family; F. N. Thompson, former director of the United States Mint at Philadelphia, and Mrs. Thompson, and two honeymoon couples, Dr and Mrs. E. G. Urbanowicz of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rosenberg of New York. W. H. Seward, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Habearle and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lucey, all of New York, also arrived on the President Harrison to attend the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ARE THEY STARVING?

A short time ago, twenty-four out of twenty-nine prisoners in a county jail in one of our States, signed a petition to the county court asking for more food and alleging that they were being starved to death. The jailer gave the newspaper reporter a sample menu for the day, stating that it was varied somewhat from day to day and that the complaint of the men was just a case of "orneriness." He is allowed 60 cents a day for food for each man. The following is the menu:

Breakfast: Dish of oatmeal, cup of coffee, without cream or sugar; two slices of bread, molasses. Dinner: Soupbeans, potatoes, two slices of bread, plenty of water. Supper. Soupbeans, apple sauce, two slices of bread, plenty of water. It is stated that beef is boiled with the potatoes three or four times a week, that being the only meat served.

I was asked by the editor of the local paper to give my opinion, and this is what I wrote:

The prisoners are certainly justified in complaining of such a bill of fare as it is stated they get, for living on such rations for any length of time is conducive to the known deficiency diseases, pellagra and scurvy, and to the degenerative disorders such as kidney and blood vessel diseases, and to the condition of acidosis, which will lower the resistance to infections.

The menu is too low in complete protein, even with the beef allowance three or four times a week. It is almost devoid of the antiscurvy vitamin, for there is no record of fresh fruit and vegetables; in fact, it is very low in all of the vitamins and mineral elements so necessary for health.

It would be impossible to compute the number of calories the menu contains without knowing the size of the portions of beans or if fat is used in the cooking, but, granted a good-sized portion is served, I believe it totals considerably less than 2200 calories, which is approximately the maintenance diet for the average man who is not doing physical work. If he were doing physical work the number would have to be considerably higher. I will say that even though the food allowed did total the complete number of calories (food units) that each man would need for energy the diet would be a starvation diet in that so many of the vital elements are lacking. It would give the feeling of insufficiency and, as I have stated before, would ultimately lead to the deficiency and degenerative diseases.

If a pint of whole milk, one pound of raw fresh fruit, one-half pound of raw fresh green vegetables in the form of salads, one ounce of butter and either cheese, fish or eggs for the biologically complete protein (on the days when beef is not given,) were added, these deficiencies would largely be covered. If a little more butter were allowed, then skim or buttermilk would be used instead of the whole milk.

Not knowing the wholesale prices of food in your district, I cannot say whether the additions I have outlined would make the allowance exceed 60 cents a day, but judging from New York retail prices, I believe such additions can be made without loss to the jailer.

According to the menu, it seems that the only thing they give plenty of is water! While water, and plenty of it, is highly essential, it is not a food in the sense that it will give energy or supply material for repair of the body, so in computing the value of a menu, it cannot be counted.

It seems that as our modern idea of confinement for offenses is not one for the protection of the public but for the reformation of the offenders, giving them a balanced diet would be one of the vital requisites. Doubtless prisoners as a class have no conception of the importance of a correct diet and probably they had had an incorrect diet up to the time of imprisonment. How much the impairment of the physical health has had to do with the impairment of the mental health and character, is a conjecture, but no doubt there is a connection. At least, it should be the duty of the State to see that all methods for physical as well as for mental health should be put into practice in their institutions.

Tomorrow: Wasn't It?

My dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to include a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

AUTHOR ON SCREEN

Elinor Glyn to Play in Own Picture; Fleming F. B. O. Director; Storey of Pathe Has Raymond Hatton Departs

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

That amazingly versatile lady, Elinor Glyn, feels that she has been off the screen long enough. Yes, I mean in person. It has been long, indeed, since the hectic Mrs. Glyn showed us what she could do as an actress once the notion seized her. Indeed, not since she appeared in one of Gloria Swanson's pictures for Paramount, several years ago, as far as I know, has she played in pictures. Excepting, of course, that she did somewhat keep her hand in, as you might say, by appearing quite often in the news reels.

ELINOR GLYN

Now, to make a long story short, Mrs. Glyn is going to play a role in her own story, "It," Clara Bow's initial starring production for Paramount. Not, to be sure, in the title role, but merely in a descriptive part in her own home, where she is shown writing the foreword for the story, in the introduction and prologue to the screen play.

Mr. Schulberg made the announcement yesterday, adding that work on the picture will be commenced late this week, following the completion of the final screen version of Mme. Glyn's novel written by Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton.

So far, the members of the cast who have been selected are Antonio Moreno, in the leading male role, and William Auston, who will doubtless supply some comedy.

Assistant Director Wins Spurs

Right on the heels of an announcement made a few days since by Edwin King, vice-president of F.B.O., to the effect that Ralph Ince had been signed as a director, comes a second announcement to the effect that Caryl S. Fleming has affixed his signature on the dotted line, and will be an F.B.O. director from now on.

CARYL S. FLEMING

Fleming has won his directorial spurs from his long apprenticeship as an assistant director. He has been associated with Sidney Olcott for a number of years and is best remembered for his work on "Little Old New York," "Monsieur Beaucaire" and other pictures.

In announcing the signing of Fleming, Mr. King said:

"During my several years at Paramount's Long Island studio, I had occasion to note the work of Mr. Fleming at close range. No young man could be associated with that delightful gentleman and marvelous director, Sidney Olcott, without absorbing to a great degree that definite artistry and keen directorial knowledge which Olcott has so consistently shown in his every production."

And after so delivering himself, what was there for Mr. King to do but make Mr. Fleming a full-fledged director?

Raymond Hatton Leaves

Raymond Hatton is making a hurried trip to St. Louis this week to take a look at one or two of the world series games which will be played there.

The actor goes east not merely on pleasure bent, and if you should see him wrinkling his brow in earnest thought while somebody is making a home run, just realize it is his art that is absorbing Mr Hatton. He will be merely trying to think up some new gags for "Casey at the Bat," his next Paramount picture.

NEW YORK PLAY NEXT AT MOROSCO

"The Family Upstairs" to be Seen for First Time in West

One of the most successful of recent Gotham productions, "The Family Upstairs," will be given its first presentation outside of New York at the Morosco Theater, Sunday.

"The Family Upstairs" was recently picturized by Fox Films.

Alma Tell and John Litel will portray the two leading roles in this comedy-drama.

"Not Herbert," which is hailed as one of the best crook plays since "Raffles," is in its final week at the Morosco. In this play a bashful, poetic boy is suddenly revealed to the audience as one of the most daring criminals in the United States—and this selfsame critic had been regarded as being afraid of the dark. John Litel plays this anomalous character.

'Mare Nostrum' Near Close at Forum Theater

Rex Ingram's production of Blasco Ibanez's tale "Mare Nostrum" which has been entertaining the audiences at the Forum Theater for the past five weeks is now in its last few days and will end its long run on Sunday night. Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno are the stars of this romance of the Mediterranean Sea, and Ingram filmed it entirely in France, Spain and Italy.

Following this the Forum will be closed from Monday till Thursday night, during which time elaborate preparations are to be made for the world premiere of Henry King's production of the Harold Bell Wright story "The Winning of Barbara Worth" starring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky.

HENRY OBJECTS TO RIGHTS OF WEALTHY

The Thayer family in "White Collars," which is now approaching its one hundred and thirtieth week at the Egan Theater, are found lamenting the fate which keeps them down. They represent the hard lot of the white-collar class not qualified to ride and not happy because they see what others have.

A large part of the humor of the piece centers in Cousin Henry, a young member of the family who is constantly exploiting the injustice of their situation in soap-box terms and with soap-box volubility. The audience is quick to recognize and laugh at the ludicrous quality of his arguments and his lack of a remedy for the conditions he raves against.

"White Collars" is acted by J. Anthony Smythe, Gladys Heaney, Blanche Douglas, Zellah Covington, Ross Forrester, Frances Sheehan, Gordon White, and Allan Elder.

NASH APPEARS IN HURDY GURDY GIRL

Jack Carrol Nash, who has recovered from an accident while on a trip with Charlie Chaplin, will play the leading role in "Hurdy Gurdy Girl," now being presented under the auspices of the Los Angeles Opera and Fine Arts Club at the Masonic Temple in Hollywood.

Jack Nash is a dyed in the wool actor and comes to the Pacific Coast after having appeared both on New York and Paris stages, playing opposite Fanny Brice, Gaby Deslys, Sheldon Lewis and many others.

Jack Nash and Sheldon Lewis and others are appearing with the Diligenti Players of Hollywood, a group of stage and screen artists who have formed a club for the purpose of producing plays in Hollywood at stated intervals.

EL PATIO WILL HAVE PAUL WHITEMAN BALL

The enthusiasm with which announcement that Paul Whiteman, monarch of jazz will give his first grand ball at the El Patio, Wednesday evening, the 13th inst., has been received, is best testified to by the fact that not only will Eddie Peabody, leader of the Metropolitan Theater be present, but practically every favorite musical leader in town is making arrangements to be present.

Hundreds who have made application to Whiteman during his engagement at the Million Dollar Theater for the opportunity to dance to his music, have already made ticket reservations which indicate that the affair is being looked forward to with keen interest. Many of Hollywood's screen stars will act as hosts and hostesses.

REED'S FIRST AIRMAN

"The High Flyer" appearing at the Hippodrome this week, in which Reed Howes portrays a daring ex-ace, is the first picture in which Reed appears as a birdman. The young player has been noted heretofore for his achievements as an athlete and motor racer. However, Reed was well prepared for his first effort in an airplane before the cameras, as flying has been his hobby for some time and he had practiced the new sport diligently before making "The High Flyer." Reed is now starring in another H. J. Brown production, "The Kentucky Handicap."

APPEARS IN PERSON

Jane Winton, who portrays one of the featured roles in "Across the Pacific," now having its world premiere at the West Coast Uptown Theater, will make a personal appearance at that theater tonight.

Michael Curtiz, Warner Bros. director, now making "The Third Degree," in which Dolores Costello is starred, supported by Louise Dresser, has been hailed along Hollywood Boulevard as Lubitsch's successor at Warner Bros. Those who have seen the rushes of his first production have been so enthusiastic that he has been entrusted with the making of "Noah's Ark," which will be made on a lavish scale with the Vitaphone accompaniment.

David Kirkland, motion-picture director, who is supervising the editing and cutting of Fred Thomson's production, "A Regular Scout," wants it distinctly understood that Irene Canahan, film cutter, is doing a large share of the work. Several years ago Kirkland employed Miss Canahan as on a series of pictures featuring Constance Talmadge. The present production is the first time the pair have been thrown together since Talmadge pictures were made.

"Shanghai Gesture" For El Capitan
Meller Again — Clift's War Play

by HERBERT MOULTON

HOLLYWOOD will be the third city in the world to see that much-discussed and lurid-languaged play, "The Shanghai Gesture," according to Edward D. Smith, who returned here yesterday after two weeks in New York.

Simultaneously, Smith disclosed that as a result of his recent arrangement with A. H. Woods, producer of the play, Florence Reed would appear here in the stellar role.

EDWARD D. SMITH.

Smith has secured a thirty weeks' run on the Coast, most of which time will be spent between Hollywood and San Francisco. The play will come to the El Capitan following its run in Chicago.

At present Smith is devoting his energies to the musical production, "Castles in the Air," which will open at the Hollywood Theater will open at the Hollywood theater early in November.

He saw both the New York and Chicago productions of this show and found it nearing the end of a year's run in the latter city and making an auspicious beginning in Gotham.

He has engaged Mme. Thalie, the Parisian designer, to come to Hollywood to create and execute the costumes for the production.

"We are going to give Hollywood and the Pacific Coast a wonderful musical show," he said yesterday. "'Castles in the Air' impresses me as having about everything."

Raquel Meller will again visit Los Angeles.

Having come and sung and conquered, the Spanish diseuse will return to these parts January 1, for an engagement at the Biltmore Theater.

RAQUEL MELLER

Such was the announcement yesterday from Ray Goetz, her manager, who is at present in New York formulating plans for a transcontinental tour to start in the eastern city on the 18th inst.

The senorita's tour, according to Goetz, will be billed under the somewhat high-hat name of "The Raquel Meller Social Calendar." Her appearance will be in the nature of a recital and revue, with the senorita's repertoire of Spanish shawls very much in evidence.

Appearances will be made in virtually every major city of the country and gala events are planned in Havana and Mexico City. Most of the visits will be one-night stands and for this reason the senorita will make her home in a specially leased Pullman.

Here's a chap who has every reason to be proud of himself.

He is Denison Clift, the scenario writer, but he can add to that title the coveted one of "playwright."

Denison Clift

"A Woman Disputed," Clift's first spoken drama, opened in New York City last week to the tune of a lot of enthusiastic adjectives from the critics. It is a war play and is being produced by A. H. Woods, who, by the way, plans to bring it to the El Capitan in Hollywood early next year.

The New York cast is headed by Lowell Sherman and Ann Harding, both of whom are said to have scored personal triumphs with their performances the opening night.

Clift is due to arrive in Los Angeles in a few days. He will start direction of a picture for Cecil B. De Mill, to whom he is under contract, and will devote his unoccupied moments to the writing of a play of Washington diplomatic life.

Applause from the other side of the footlights seems to mean just as much to Bert Lytell as a flock of letters from fond fans.

BERT LYTELL

And so to keep these two types of response evenly balanced, he is going to do a turn at the Orpheum next week in a one-act play called "The Valiant."

This piece, which is said to be one of those gripping and spell-binding dramas, was first presented by Lytell at the gambol of the Lamb's Club in New York. It was written by Robert Middlemas and Holworthy Hall.

Lytell's last stage appearance here was in "Silence," at the Mason. Since then he has done a number of pictures, but since starting his tour of the Orpheum circuit, it looks as if he is gradually turning his back on the Kleigs and facing his first-love, the footlights.

Frank Newman, general manager of the Publix Theaters in Los Angeles, has made up his mind to have a unique and startling prologue for "The Temptress," which comes to the Million Dollar following the run of "Gigolo."

Accordingly, he has secured the services of Alexander Oumansky, former ballet master of the Capitol Theater in New York and prologue chief of the U.P.A. theaters in Germany.

METROPOLITAN RECORDS FALL

All records for incoming gross receipts at the Metropolitan Theater were broken Sunday, according to a statement yesterday by Frank L. Newman, managing director of the Los Angeles Publix Theaters. The previous record for one day at the Metropolitan was held by Gilda Grey, who appeared at the Metropolitan a year and a half ago.

Mr. Newman said that the gross receipts at the Metropolitan Sunday were $9139.45, which is $600 above the Gilda Grey record. In addition to this, all records at the Metropolitan except that established by Gilda Grey, were broken.

Adolphe Menjou in "The Ace of Cads" is the current attraction.

DAINTY MARIE GIVES MATINEE FOR LADIES

Dainty Marie, "Venus of the Air," in her new offering "Health Hints" now at Pantages Theater will conduct a special morning matinee for ladies only Thursday at 11 o'clock.

Only ladies will be admitted at this matinee and will be given the privlege of staying for the regular show.

Dainty Marie is a living example of what proper exercise and care for the body can do for any woman regardless of her physical condition or age. Claiming her age as 45 and proudly displaying her robust son of 23 years of age she goes through many skillful and hazardous stunts in mid-air with all the dexterity of a youthful athlete.

SISTERS ARE LINGUISTS

Tula and Ebba Mona Angelus, who are providing much of the feminine attraction of Olsen and Johnson's "Monkey Business" show at the Majestic are expert linguists. In addition to their native and adopted tongues, Norwegian and English, the tiny dancers converse fluently in French, German and Spanish.

DAINTY MARIE IS BRIGHT LUMINARY

Lissome Star Still Sings Songs Upside Down on Rope in Mid Air

Dainty Marie, who is the particularly bright luminary at the Pantages this week, is a vaudeville institution. She has been climbing ropes, and singing songs upside down in midair for more years than it would be kind to mention.

However, her form is just as shapely and lissome as the first day she poured herself into tights and shinnied up a rope.

Exercise does it, says Marie, and she gives some pretty lively samples of her remedy. Most women, though, will prefer to stick to the Hollywood menu of lamb chops and pineapples in preference to becoming contortionists.

The act of dainty Marie is more pretentious than ever before. This time she works with two "plants"—a fat lady and a thin one. The humor is obvious but it gets the house in a good humor.

A motion picture of the star provides a diverting introduction of what is to follow.

Charley Althoff is another vaudevillian who must know by now all the railway porters along the line. He stopped the show yesterday with his eccentric fiddling and rube talk. Hick Joshuas, who get their feet and hands tangled with the chair, are usually pretty sad after the umpty-umpth trip over the circuit. The audiences always seem to like them, nevertheless, so like the well-known brook the rube will undoubtedly go on forever.

Emmett O'Mara, recent featured soloist with the U.S.S. Leviathan orchestra, goes on a pleasant excursion down melody lane. He has a pleasing tenor voice especially in the ballads. Pagliacci was his most ambitious effort.

O'Mara in figure and voice rather reminds one of Morton Downey who also sang on the Leviathan.

"Just a Bit Different" with Ted Leslie, is all that its name implies. A very blond young lady transforms herself into a very brunette minstrel person right on the stage.

Dancing Franks open the show with a clever variety of steps, which they perform back of a scrim drop. Felovis, the European juggler, plays catch most nonchalantly with everything the stage hands leave within reach.

"The Lost Battalion," a worth-while picturization of one of the most stirring episodes in the World War, is the feature attraction on the screen for a second week. It is being presented under the auspices of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Monte Seen as Two-Fisted Man in Uptown Film

In Warner Brothers' production of "Across the Pacific, now having its premier showing at the Uptown Theater, Western Avenue at Tenth street, Monte Blue plays a big two-fisted heman role.

The whole picture is said to reflect his enthusiasm.

Its theme is one of national interest and historical importance. Adapted from the Charles D. Blaney story by Darryl Zanuck it tells with emphasis the story of a Southern boy divested of his estate and sweetheart, who enlists for the Spanish-American war.

The greater part of the action occurs in the tropical setting of the Philippine Islands where the boy is instrumental in ending the heroic insurrection of Aguinaldo. Scenes of camp and campaign life alternate with his fight against the climate and the advances of a native girl to whom for strategic reasons he must finally make love in the face of his late betrothed.

Stolberg and the Uptown Music Masters continue to attract attention.

Laughter is Long and Loud at Playhouse

Swinging into its second week at the Playhouse last night Louis O. Macloon's production of the "Cradle Snatchers," looks as though the slogan in the advertising "Elbow your way in—laugh your way out" has plenty of truth in it. The crowds are coming and the laughter is long and loud.

That the reputation of the farce has preceded it is evident from the large number of reservations made this week by out-of-town bankers who are here for the convention. Incidentally, Mr. Macloon's other laugh provoking production, "The Butter and Egg Man," with Johnny Arthur at the Mason, is going to entertain a lot of visiting bankers.

This is the last week of the "Butter and Egg Man."

Primrose Path Companions Are to be Pictured

"Wine, Women and Song," the gay trio of the ages, is to be brought to the screen at last. According to an announcement made yesterday by Edward Small of the firm of Asher & Small, a picture of that name will be screened by their organization.

This theme, which has been the subject of many a jurist's lecture to the wayward, is to be produced on a lavish scale, according to Small.

It is their intention, he asserted, to film the story with the same strong moral, the salient and human lesson that the world has always attached to the meaning of these three subjects.

This combined triumvirate, which has brought shame and disgrace to man since the inception of the world, provides an interminable latitude for a tense drama, the producer declared, and no expense will be spared to film it on a feature scale.

DOROTHY AT WORK

Dorothy Yost is now busily engaged in whipping into shape for production her most recent story, "Uneasy Payments" which will be made at the F.B.O. studios. This story deals with the well-known installment plan method of furnishing a home from garret to cellar and affords the opportunity for many a humorous situation.

HUSBAND'S KNOWLEDGE CAUSES GRIEVANCE

Lee Alexander Buffington knew too much, in the opinion of his wife, Lesta Davidson Buffington, as expressed in a suit for divorce she filed yesterday. There was a woman, Mrs. Buffington related, who was vaccinated on her thigh. She remarked to this woman, she said, that it was a peculiar place to be vaccinated. The woman replied that Mr. Buffington had said so, too. This, Mrs. Buffington pointed out, caused her great and grievous mental anguish.

RULES GIVEN TO AVOID SKIDDING

Delicate Feminine Touch on Wet Pavements Urged by Officer

Automobiles in the approaching wet season should be driven "with the soft, gentle caress of the feminine touch, not with abrupt masculine force," Sergt. E. L. Johnson of the police bureau of safety told listeners-in over KHJ yesterday.

"Keeping the rear wheels turning at the same rate at which they would run if the roads were dry is one of the chief secrets of how to drive safely over slippery pavements," the traffic officer declared. "This gives the tires a chance to bite into the roadway, and tends to keep the motor car or truck under control.

"But as soon as the wheels are locked by the brakes, cars drift helplessly in any direction. To check skidding caused by locking the wheels, release the brakes and turn the front wheels in the direction in which the rear wheels are skidding. This is an effective remedy for almost any skid of the rear end."

PLAY PROVOKES DISCUSSION

Audience Engages in Debate Over 'Bride of the Lamb' After Opening Last Night at El Capitan Theater

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Six hundred members and friends of the Hollywood Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star witnessed a performance of "The Bride of the Lamb" at El Capitan Theater last evening and participated in an argument afterward as to whether the play was "blasphemous and sacrilegious" or whether it was a "strong play merely exposing counterfeit religion."

Between the acts Frank Reicher, director of the play, announced that as there had been so much controversary about the play discussion would be encouraged after the performance. To that end he introduced A. Moresby White, British lawyer and psychologist, to open the discussion.

Mr. White did not get very far before he was interrupted by a woman's voice. He had just said that "any form of religious frenzy —whether in a tent or a temple, under the guise of two square or four-square gospel . . ."

"Is it necessary to drag Mrs. McPherson into this?" came the irate question.

"There is no better time or place than right here in Los Angeles to produce this play at this time," continued Mr. White, "and with a case in every man and woman's mind . . ."

"Is this play any better than an evangelistic meeting?" shouted another voice—which was however drowned in what seemed to be applause for Mr White.

AMATEUR SAVIORS

Mr. White then made reference to "amateur saviors who came with a Bible in one hand and a sword in the other and say 'I will save you or kill you . . .' "Such persons are a menace to any community."

"Not necessarily. A play like this, and this author, can be just as harmful . . ." shouted a male voice.

"Sit down, sit down," cried someone else—and the audience applauded, but again it was doubtful for whom the applause was intended.

Mr. White proceeded to talk about suppressed souls and inhibitions, explaining the effect frenzied evangelism had upon them, when a woman's voice asked:

"Aren't you making a plea for evangelism now—some way to express emotionalism, get rid of inhibitions?"

Mr. White said he wasn't, and proceeded to satirize religious advertising, and to declare that Patton and Norwalk were filled with religions-cum-sex maniacs . . .

Whereupon a visiting banker arose, wearing his convention ribbon, and pleaded for a fairer trial of the case. The woman in the play was a moron . . . An intelligent woman would not have had the same reaction . . .

DIAGNOSES MORON

"That's it, an intelligent woman would not have been so influenced," called a woman's voice. Whereupon Mr. White diagnosed a moron as the type that represented 90 per cent of the population . . . [Cries of "No, No."] He considered the author of the play a missionary . . . and then came perilously near the McPherson case again, so that a few scattered sympathizers with the Angelus Temple pastor protested, but were applauded down.

"I had heard the play was sacrilegious," said a woman's voice, "but since I have seen it I think it is only a strong protest against emotional religious frenzy." [Loud applause.]

Dr. Frank Dyer was in the house and voices called upon him to speak, but he declined.

Mrs. Berthold Baruch was in the house and considered that "Religion is in a chaotic state and fraud and charlatanism should be exposed. Mob rule is another expression of congregational coercion. Sensation mongers and circus pastors are a menace to Americanism."

Mrs. Laura Whitney, head of the Hollywood branch of the Eastern Star, expressed herself as approving the message of the play.

HOME-RULE PLEA MADE FOR INDIA

Dr. Annie Besant Asserts Nation Will Break Yoke England Now Holds

Home rule for India is inevitable. Dr. Annie Besant, international president of the Theosophical Society said in the second of a series of six public lectures delivered last night to a good-sized audience at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

Her topic, "Shall India Live or Die?" was answered emphatically and unequivocally: India must live and prosper.

"India is not willing to starve quietly, to die slowly. India demands the right of freedom and democracy for which cause it fought so valiantly," Dr. Besant maintained. "The great United States, more than a century ago, broke the yoke of England. India shall follow in its footsteps."

The speaker said India is an intellectual country, hungry for more than food.

"It once ranked high in education. It will again," Dr. Besant concluded.

Tomorrow night at the Philharmonic Auditorium Dr. Besant will deliver the third of the lectures on "What is the Use of Reincarnation?"

ENTHRALLED BY MASTERPIECE

quent performances as well as the works to be offered during the series which will stretch over a period of two weeks, there is much to anticipate of the lavish style in which the engagement is being given.

The opening production was perhaps not the fullest criterion of what may be expected, but the steady improvement in the production promised more than auspiciously for what is to come. The need for unifying and co-ordinating the various elements is perhaps the primary requisite, and with due allowance for the difficulties of the undertaking it may be said that "Samson and Delilah" marked a distinct accomplishment.

Miss Homer was particularly satisfying in her singing of Delilah. She used her voice with great art and abundant taste practically throughout the opera.

Marshall's voice evinced a decided betterment in the later scenes. It was also exceptionally fine in the love music, and blended exquisitely with that of Miss Homer on the final phrases of "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

Cotrueil's splendid bass voice was notably excellent. He sings with superb finish. Baklanoff also was highly successful, and gave a touch of the dramatic to the scenes in which he appeared. Desire Defrere sang the role of Abimelech.

Mr. Hageman's reading of the score tended luminously to treat many of its orchestral's beauties, and he evidenced an increasing command over the resources of the huge ensemble.

Contract for School Desks Brings Protest

A difference of $6000 between the Southern School Desk Company and the Peabody Desk Company on school desk bids brought a number of manufacturers' representatives to the meeting of the Board of Education last night.

The Peabody company, represented by William L. Deist, was awarded the contract on a bid for $52,000. The Southern Desk Company, with C. T. G. Smith as its representative, had bid $46,000. Members of the board seemed to have been more favorably impressed with the appearance of the higher-priced desk and made their decision after examining all the samples.

Smith said he reserved the right to file a formal protest this morning.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 4.—A cloth soaked in chloroform was flung over the face of Dorothy Scrivner, 11 years of age, as she lay asleep on a couch in the home of C. E. Robertson, 1874 Pacific avenue, tonight, according to police.

The child was revived immediately and will suffer no ill-effects, it was said. She lives at 1891 Cedar avenue.

Hancock Case Report Mailed to Washington

As requested by Atty.-Gen. Sargent, a full report on the G. Allen Hancock $50,000 extortion plot case was forwarded by air mail to Washington last night by Asst. U. S. Atty. Layng.

The Attorney-General requested the report after Postmaster-General New asked him to secure the report before the matter went to a trial here. Court action was held up locally on the receipt of orders from Washington for the report. Mr. Layng expects to hear from Washington on the matter by the latter part of this week or the beginning of next.

The government charges that a letter demanding $50,000 was sent to Hancock last June. Claude E. Conlin, known as Alexander the Great, and C. C. Magenheimer, wealthy oil operator, are charged with using the mails to defraud.

GERMAN PROTESTS ADDED LIABILITIES

COLOGNE (Germany) Oct. 4. (AP)—Speaking at the convention of the German people's party, Dr. Curtius, minister of economics, insisted that discussions of the question of Franco-German conciliation from an economic standpoint must be confined to mobilization of from 1,000,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 in railway debentures. He warned against combining the question with a general solution of the reparations question and the inter-Allied debt settlement. "Despite our most passionate endeavors to liberate the Rhineland," he asserted, "there are two unchangeable and incontrovertible principles—no additional liabilities and no interference with a final solution of the reparations question."

Boy Wanderer Gets Probation in Auto Theft

Lawrence W. Bell, 18-year-old adventurer who ran away from his Oklahoma home and reached the end of his trail here in Superior Court on charges of joy riding in a stolen automobile, was placed on three years' probation yesterday by Superior Judge Hahn.

Under the terms on which the probation was granted, Bell is to return to his parents' home in Oklahoma. His parents, according to information filed with County Probation Supervisor Carl May, are prominent and wealthy residents of Slick, Okla.

Bell, according to testimony at his hearing, left his home to see the West following an altercation with his father. Arriving here he worked as a waiter and a painter and was about to embark on the career of a motion-picture extra, when he was arrested for stealing the expensive sedan of Victor Fleming, a motion-picture director.

Fleming refused to prosecute the boy, it is said. His father already has sent funds to provide for his return home.

Q.: I don't know what she you are talking about?

A.: Mrs. Holmes.

Q.: What time was that?

A.: About 4:15.

Q.: There was a lady got up and went out and when she came back the grocery slips were gone?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: What other search did you make that afternoon besides just concluding that Mrs. Holmes did it?

A.: I examined every place, I examined her pocket book, and I asked her about it, and she answered me.

Q.: She told you she didn't know where they were?

A.: Yes.

Q.: All right, what else did you do toward examining her?

A.: I asked her some more questions, and she answered them.

Q.: Besides conversation what did you do about it?

A.: I looked through her pocket book and I looked through her drawer, she showed it to me.

Q.: You mean her drawers in the desk?

A.: Yes, she had a small trunk that she carried.

Q.: Anything else?

A.: In the grand jury room?

Q.: Yes.

A.: I looked everywhere.

Q.: What else did you examine in her clothing?

A.: No, sir, I didn't search her person. I didn't think it was necessary to search the grand juror in her clothing.

Q.: Now, what did you do with the other grand jurors?

A.: I had every one turn out his pockets. They looked diligently.

Q.: Well, there was another lady there, wasn't there?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: What pockets did she turn out?

A.: No particular pockets. She turned out her pocketbook.

Q.: It never occur. I to you she might have had it—had the slips in her stocking?

A.: No, it wouldn't occur to me.

A.: No.

Q.: What did you do with the men?

DILIGENT SEARCH

They turned out everything they had, looked completely through the drawers and everywhere, and searched everywhere diligently.

Q.: I am talking about you.

A.: I am telling you what I did. I had that done.

Q.: Did you have anything else done besides that?

A.: And I directed the foreman at that time to take the matter up with the grand jury in solemn session, secret, as it were, and he did that and got a report back.

Q.: Were you there when they did it? You told him to do it?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: You don't know what happened, then?

A.: I am not saying what happened. I say I got a report back from him.

Q.: What else did you have done?

A.: That is all I had done in the grand jury.

Q.: That is the extent of the search you made for the slips?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: Has they been marked as an exhibit at that time?

A.: No, they had not been marked.

Q.: You are positive of that?

A.: Yes sir, I am positi of it.

Q.: What makes you so certain they were being passed around there? They had not been identified.

A.: Because this is the reason: I had them in my exclusive possession from the time that I discovered them in Carmel—

Q.: From the time your wife discovered—

A.: I am telling you—and I kept them in my pocket and I also had the handwriting of Mrs McPherson, and I was testifying before the grand jury, and I extracted them from my pocket and I put them on a paper next and alongside of Mrs. McPherson's handwriting I said, "Look them over, it is obvious." That is the occurrence.

Q.: Were you a handwriting ex-

A.: No. You don't need to be a handwriting expert, Mr Gilbert, in that case.

Q.: Did you do anything else to locate the slips?

A.: No, that was all for that day.

Q.: Any other day?

A.: Yes. I kept after the grand jury and I kept after the foreman, and Judge Keetch was assisting in locating—wanted to know where they were.

Q.: I say that is the only place you have looked?

A.: Yes, sir.

Mr. Dennison: Well, he couldn't look where she put them.

A.: I never went to El Segundo.

The Court: I think it is sufficient.

Mr. Murray: We renew our offer, Your Honor.

The Court: Be marked for identification.

Mr. Murray: We will offer them in evidence, Your Honor.

Mr. Gilbert: Certainly haven't laid the foundation for this, and I object upon the ground incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial and no foundation laid.

Mr. Dennison: Wherein is the foundation insufficient?

Mr. Gilbert: I don't think the court needs to answer that.

Mr. Dennison: I am not asking the court; I am asking you.

Mr. Gilbert: I wouldn't tell you anything you wouldn't understand.

Mr. Dennison: I didn't hear you.

Mr. Gilbert: I don't want to tell you anything you wouldn't understand.

Mr. Dennison: I wouldn't understand anything——

The Court: Just a minute, gentlemen. Go ahead.

NEW HOTEL WITNESS ON "McINTYRE"

Maid at Clark Expected to Furnish Sensation in McPherson Case Today

Sensational testimony that will substantiate documentary evidence that Kenneth G. Ormiston was a guest at the Clark Hotel in Los Angeles on May 15, last, the day Mrs. McPherson disappeared, will be offered by the prosecution today in Judge Blake's courtroom, where the preliminary hearing of the McPherson case is being conducted, it was learned from authentic sources last night.

After submitting hotel and garage records to prove the whereabouts of Ormiston at the time in question, Dist.-Atty. Keyes will place on the witness stand Fannie Northropp, a maid at the Clark Hotel. Mrs. Northropp, it was learned, had charge of Room 938 at the hotel on May 15, 16, 17 and 18. It was during this time Ormiston under the name of George McIntyre, is asserted to have occupied it, as exclusively related in yesterday's Times.

Mrs. Northropp, whose importance in the case was discovered by Investigators Reimer and Darley of the District Attorney's office, it was learned, was questioned personally by Keyes yesterday, and is said to have made a complete statement to the prosecutor.

While unwilling to reveal the text of her statement, Keyes admitted last night that Mrs. Northropp remembered carrying on a conversation with the supposed Ormiston, noticed that the man in question limped and recalled seeing a radio set in the room. Mrs. Northropp's testimony is expected to cause a sensation at the preliminary hearing today.

The hotel clerk that registered the man who gave his name as McIntyre, the bell boy and porter that carried his baggage and the cashier are expected to be other witnesses that will be called by the prosecution. The nature of their testimony could not be learned.

"A conservative first-class hotel, particularly noted for the high character of its clientele and carefulness of management, the Clark Hotel would naturally be selected by Ormiston as an ideal place in which to hide while in Los Angeles," declared Dist.-Atty. Keyes. Keyes pointed out that the well kept records of the hotel will aid the prosecution materially in presenting the evidence.

GAS SERVICE AGENTS ARE IN REVOLT

Demand Margin of Four Cents on All Products Handled by Them

A bitter struggle between the more than 2000 members of the Independent Service Station Association of California and so-called gasoline bootleggers loomed today as a result of the determination of association members, expressed last night at a meeting in Eagle Hall, to hold out for a four-cent margin on all gasoline sales, regardless of the product handled.

Nearly 200 Southern California dealers were present at the meeting.

"We are not boycotting any company's product nor striking against any organization," declared N. M. Kirkpatrick, manager of the association. "We must have a four-cent margin of profit in order to earn a living wage, and we will push the product of the company that gives us that living margin. The setting of the price of gasoline is up to the prducers. In that we are not interested."

According to leaders the association has been receiving four, five, six and sometimes seven-cent margins on each gallon sold prior to the recent price war. Losses, resulting from the cut made by the companies during the last few days, they have had to bear, the independent operators say.

Dealers who handle the product of the following companies were present at the meeting: California Petroleum, Gilmore, Hancock, Marine, Pan-American, Richfield, Shell, Vernon, Western Refining and Wilshire.

RYAN CENTER OF FRAY IN M'PHERSON REVELATIONS

tered his references mostly on Mrs. Holmes.

Gilbert gave Ryan a long grilling about how he came into the case, and made many references to Herman A. Cline, chief of city detectives at the time. Gilbert brought out that Cline is Ryan's father-in-law, and that it was Cline and Ryan who went to Douglas, Ariz., to question Mrs. McPherson when she arrived there after her asserted escape from kidnapers. Gilbert did not pursue many of his questions to definite conclusions, but it was evident that he was trying to ascertain whether Cline had got Ryan into the case. Ryan declared he was regularly assigned to the case by the District Attorney's office, where he is trial deputy.

When Gilbert asked Ryan what he and Cline went to Douglas for, Ryan replied that they went to look for the kidnapers, and he and many in the courtroom laughed. Ryan testified that he was of an open mind on the question of whether the woman was kidnaped, as she says, when he got on the train for Douglas.

He said that when he saw Mrs. McPherson and noted her appearance and actions at Douglas he disbelieved her story of walking twenty miles through the desert as she said she did when she made her reported escape. Gilbert accused Ryan of not believing Mrs. McPherson's desert wandering story because there were no blisters on her head and Ryan added that there were no blisters on her feet, either.

SHARP EXCHANGES

Gilbert admonished Ryan to stick strictly to the answering of questions put to him and told Ryan he could make a speech afterward. In a moment of ridivule Gilbert asked Ryan whether he remembered stopping the automobile containing the party searching for the shack in which Mrs. McPherson was held prisoner to get out and have his picture taken with a bull. Ryan said he remembered a yak but that the yak ran away.

Ryan told Gilbert that anyone could tell at once on seeing Mrs. McPherson that she had not made the desert trip she said she made. Gilbert brought out that Ryan never had seen anybody just after making such a walk and Ryan laughed. Ryan insisted all through the cross-examination on the subject that Mrs. McPherson's physical condition at Douglas did not indicate she had wandered twenty miles through the desert, as she said.

Gilbert's questioning on what Ryan was trying to find out at one point drew a retort from Ryan that he was looking for the truth and that it stood up like a monument. He said that when he left for Douglas he went for the people of the State of California and Mrs McPherson as one such. His replies on one occasion drew the remark from Gilbert, "You dislike yourself."

Gilbert introduced many newspaper photographs of Ryan in connection with the case and in answer to one remark Ryan said sarcastically that he was in a contest with Mrs. McPherson to see who got into the papers most. Seriously, he said he posed for the photographs to accommodate newspaper men. Dennison could not see what "in God's name" some of Gilbert's newspaper evidence had to do with the case.

Ryan said he made the comparison of grocery-slip handwriting with Mrs McPherson's handwriting in a manuscript that she left on the beach when she left there. It was notes on a "Light and Darkness" sermon. Gilbert drew from Ryan an admission that Mrs. McPherson never told him that the sermon notes were hers.

The grocery slips, Gilbert brought out, were found two days after interest intensively was focused on the Carmel cottage and after many persons presumably had been around the place. Ryan said the slips were found just beside the back steps, that they were seen by him, picked up by his wife and that Dist.-Atty. Campbell of Monterey county was a witness to the discovery.

Ryan said he went to Carmel on information that he got from Ormiston's communications here and on information disclosing that Ormiston had been in Carmel. Ryan said he was told by Ralph Swanson, a grocery delivery boy, that the grocery slips had been thrown down on the ground when he made deliveries to the cottage while Ormiston and the woman were there. Ryan said they were searching for the slips at the time they were found and that the find occurred about 3 p.m.

It was not disclosed just what had happened to the grocery slips when they disappeared from the grand jury room, except that they disappeared when Mrs. Holmes left the jury room for a moment or two. Where she went was not disclosed, but Dennison explained that Ryan couldn't go to that place and look for them at the time the search for them was on. It is understood that the woman juror went to a room reserved for exclusive use of women.

Ryan made many comments in answering questions put to him by Gilbert and got many of them into the record in spite of Gilbert's strategy.

RYAN TAKES STAND

The call by the State for Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan to take the witness stand agitated the crowd in the courtroom. It came within half an hour after the opening of the session for the day and was preceded by the completion of the State's Attorneys' reading into the record from the testimony of Mrs. Kennedy before the grand jury.

Ryan stepped into the witness box briskly and the serious look on his face changed into one more pleasant and to a smile. Mrs. McPherson wore a smile. A few moments later she rested her chin in her hand, her fingers toyed around her mouth and she appeared occasionally to bite her nails. The dark little Irishman in the witness box appeared perfectly poised.

Ryan told the court of having been assigned to the case when Mrs. McPherson appeared at Douglas in June and there told her story of being kidnaped. He said he went on the same train that took Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. McPherson's two children to Douglas. Mrs. Kennedy did not converse much with him on the train, he testified.

One conversation that the witness recalled having with Mrs. Kennedy was about collections at Angelus Temple. He related that Mrs. Kennedy said it was too bad Mrs. McPherson had not turned up a few days earlier before the memorial service for her was conducted in the temple when it was believed by the woman's followers that she had been drowned. Mrs. Kennedy said, according to the testimony, that she did not know what to do with the memorial collection taken up at the meeting. She did not indicate how much money had been received, Ryan said.

OBJECTION VOICED

Mrs. McPherson's appearance when Ryan first saw her in the hospital at Douglas immediately after her return was that of an ordinary person, he testified. Attorne yGilbert objected to such questioning about his client and the course was changed.

On the trip to Douglas, Mrs. Kennedy identified a lock of hair in a letter purporting to come from Mrs. McPherson's kidnapers as the hair of her daughter, Ryan said. The questioning turned again to the hospital room, and Ryan described an affectionate greeting exchanged by the evangelist, her children and her mother. Ryan said Mrs. McPherson and her mother held a conversation for about two minutes that he was unable to hear, although he said he did his best to do so. He then told of arranging to take a statement from Mrs. McPherson.

An effort on the part of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Murray, who was questioning Ryan, to have Ryan refresh his memory of the statement from the stenographic copy made at the time drew objections from Gilbert, who insisted that the witness should not have this aid. Judge Blake sustained the objection.

From memory, Ryan told the court what Mrs. McPherson said in her statement. Substantially, his testimony began as follows:

Mrs. McPherson had been working hard at the temple. She needed rest. She went with her secretary, Miss Emma Schaffer, to Ocean Park for diversion. She went bathing, and at a time when Miss Schaffer had left her alone she heard someone calling her.

TAKEN TO SHACK

A man represented to her that he wished her to go with him to a nearby automobile, where a child was dying and that he wished her to lay her hands on it to help it. She went with the man and when she got to the automobile she was pushed into the machine, covered with a blanket and drugged into unconsciousness. The next she knew was when she came to in a room at an unknown place. She told of being moved from there to a shack on the Mexican desert and of her escape by cutting her bonds and jumping through the window.

Ryan said he asked her why she did not go through the door and she said she did not think of it. Ryan at this point in the story said Mrs. McPherson told him of being weak, that she could hardly stand and about her ankles turning under her and then he said she told him of escaping by jumping through the window and of how she ran and ran and ran in making her escape across the desert under a burning sun during many hours. Ryan related the remainder of the evangelist's oft-told tale of how she made her way to someone's home, falling unconscious and of coming to in the Douglas hospital.

Mrs. McPherson showed Ryan where a lock of hair had been cut off her head by the kidnapers, he said. The State's Attorney asked Ryan what followed after the telling of Mrs. McPherson's story to him and Ryan said she went out and had some more pictures taken and on a question from Gilbert he added that "all of us" went out for pictures. He had told of pictures being taken when the party arrived at her bedside.

CLOTHING SHOWN

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Murray exhibited the clothing worn by Mrs. McPherson on her arrival after her asserted imprisonment, escape and desert wandering. It precipitated a stir in the courtroom, filled mostly with women. Gilbert attempted to have the articles excluded from use as proposed by the State's Attorney, but was unsuccessful.

The articles included a coarse, grayish-blue dress with a clean white collar, a white underslip in a slightly soiled condition, a pink corset, a pair of cheap new slippers slightly scuffed and a few other articles. While this was in progress of display for purposes of being identified, Gilbert, apparently facetiously, called to Murray to stand over because a newspaper photographer was obstructed in his work. Later Ryan exhibited a hairnet in question.

Ryan told of going with a party of American and Mexican officials into the desert, described by Mrs. McPherson as the scene of her latest imprisonment and escape, in search of the shack in which she said she was held. He said the party went about forty miles below the border.

"We couldn't find any shack," he said.

The party did find footprints and an automobile's tracks just out of Agua Prieta, Ryan testified. He described how the footprints were made by shoes exactly like those worn by Mrs. McPherson and that they were followed from a place where they appeared first, near a slaughter-house, to a place in the fork of a road where an automobile from the direction of Douglas had turned around and headed back toward Douglas.

INFERENCE PLAIN

He said the automobile apparently had come out from Agua Prieta, the Mexican town near Douglas which is on the American side of the line, had been driven into the desert about three and one-half miles and then turned around and gone back to Agua Prieta.

The witness did not say so but the evident inference from his testimony about footprints and automobile tracks was that an automobile from Agua Prieta had borne a passenger a little way into the desert to a fork in the road, the passenger had got out there, the automobile returned and the passenger walked back.

Gilbert interposed many objections to Ryan testifying concerning the tracks and the likeness between the foot tracks and Mrs McPherson's slippers. Gilbert declared Ryan's qualifications as a lawyer did not at all qualify the witness as a desert tracker. Gilbert tried, also unsuccessfully, to prevent Ryan from referring to a map showing the tracks and route. When he had concluded his testimony Gilbert moved that all of it be stricken from the record. The court did not grant the motion.

Ryan related that he had gone back to the hotel to which Mrs. McPherson went from the hospital and told her they could find no shack. He testified that she said they should all go out and hunt and this was done later. He said he requested her to point out everything that she remembered along the route she said she followed into the town.

Mrs. McPherson, according to the witness's testimony, recalled everything as far as the tracks had gone and to the fork in the road but could identify nothing beyond that point.

ANOTHER ROUTE

Ryan said she suggested that they try another route but that she soon declared that this positively was not the one she had followed. She was sure, the witness testified, that the shack was there some place.

Just before the party left Douglas for Los Angeles, Ryan said, Mrs. McPherson saw him in the Gadson Hotel and told him the shack had been found and showed pictures of it. He said she could not describe much about the new-found shack and surrounding country but that she said, "God bless them if they have found it."

Another wrangle over Mrs. McPherson's appearance in the hospital when Ryan first saw her followed. Ryan was testifying that Mrs. McPherson's appearance when he saw her was entirely normal, as to her face, skin complexion, vivacity, lips and hair. Gilbert objected to the testimony on the ground that Ryan had never seen her before. Ryan shifted his description to a comparison with Mrs. McPherson's present appearance with the same result.

Ryan said he saw nothing out of the ordinary on Mrs. McPherson's tongue when she exhibited it to him and this brought another attack from Gilbert. Dep Dist.-Atty. Dennison explained that Mrs. McPherson said she had been fed for a month on canned food and exhibited her tongue in support of her capture story.

Ryan, said Mrs. McPherson, was able to talk "thirty-five pages" and that he said very little. Dennison facetiously remarked that Ryan did not have a radio to talk over.

RUSE CHARGED

On the return trip from Douglas, when she first appeared before crowds after her escape, Mrs. McPherson appeared with dark spots under her eyes and the spots were placed there by artificial means, according to Ryan's testimony.

Shortly after Ryan began his testimony about going with Mrs. McPherson to Ocean Park to look over the scene of the asserted kidnaping, Judge Blake adjourned the session for the noon recess.

Judge Carlos Hardy's name entered the case again early yesterday as a counselor to Mrs. McPherson. It came out in the reading of the grand jury transcript of what Mrs. Kennedy had testified: That on advice of Judge Hardy they had brought Mrs. McPherson's boy home from the ranch where he ordinarily stays—because the newspaper men were bothering him. The testimony showed R. D. Hollenbeck had been sent for the boy. Hollenbeck's name has appeared variously in connection with the case.

PUBLISHER ADMITS FRAUDULENT SCHEME

Joel E. Smith, promoter of a magazine called The Conqueror, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge James in United States District Court to using the mails to defraud. He will be sentenced November 1. Smith offered a number of subscription prizes and did not live up to his offer, according to the charges. Several years ago he was convicted on a similar charge and served two years in a Federal prison.

WITNESSES THREATEN SUITS

Melville and Lambert Accuse Mrs. McPherson and Her Mother of Slanderous Remarks

Declaring that they had been held up to unjust censure and ridicule by Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, because of testimony they gave at the preliminary hearing of the McPherson case in Municipal Judge Blake's court, two prosecution witnesses issued statements yesterday sharply criticising the two women and indicating they may file suit for slander against the Angelus Temple leaders.

The witnesses issuing the statements were Thomas Scott Melville, doorman at the Clark Hotel, and Walter B. Lambert, proprietor of the Lambert Shirt Shop at 458 South Hill street. Melville several days ago testified that he saw Mrs. McPherson enter the Clark Hotel on the morning of May 18, last, the day on which she asserts she was kidnaped.

"TOOL" CHARGE

Lambert testified that he also saw Mrs McPherson enter the hotel closely, followed by a man whose description fitted that of Kenneth G. Ormiston. The statements of both witnesses, the District Attorney's office contends, is substantiated by evidence unearthed by investigators that Ormiston at the time was registered at the Clark Hotel under the name of George McIntyre.

Melville declared in his statement that Mrs. Kennedy, in a published article, referred to him as a "tool in a gigantic plot" to wreck Angelus Temple and that Melville "was sent into the church to prepare for testimony he gave at the preliminary hearing."

"My reply is that I defy any man, woman or child who will speak the truth to come forward and state that they have ever heard me say anything detrimental about Sister McPherson or Angelus Temple," declared Melville. "My stand has always been that a person is innocent until proven guilty, and that, had I testified otherwise at the preliminary hearing, it would have been against the dictates of my own conscience, and I then would have been a liar in the sight of God.

"The 'gigantic plot' referred to, to me is a gigantic joke and not worthy of further comment. I do not think that the attack is justifiable on one who worships the same God and Christ as Mrs. Kennedy. I am not a member of Angelus Temple, but was baptized there, and have attended services regularly, having been converted when a boy of 14 years of age."

SUIT THREATENED

Lambert's statement, in part, reads:

"It has been brought to my attention that Aimee Semple McPherson made some sarcastic and insinuating remarks about myself, my wife and children to her audiences and over the radio, also that Mrs. Kennedy gave a statement to the press that witnesses who testified they saw her daughter enter the Clark Hotel on May 18 were part of a plot to wreck the temple.

"I hereby serve notice through the press on Aimee Semple McPherson, Minnie L. Kennedy and her staff of attorneys that if any more slanderous attacks are made by them through statements to the press, to their audiences or over the radio, on my integrity or my truthfulness as a witness, they will lay themselves liable to a suit.

"I expect a public apology over the radio from Mrs. McPherson for the sarcastic and insinuating manner in which she ridiculed my wife and children over the radio last Thursday night."

My Best
White Cake

Mrs. L. A. Atherton, 3rd prize winner in the recent Crisco Coast Recipe Contest has found the way to make a really white white cake. "It is due principally to the whiteness and purity of Crisco," she says. Here is her recipe.

½ cup Crisco
3 egg whites
1 cup cold water
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups pastry flour

Beat Crisco and sugar to light soft cream. Reserve half cup flour. Sift remainder with salt. Add alternately with water to creamed mixture. Sift baking powder with half cup flour, add to mixture. Last fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. For loaf cake, bake in well Criscoed angel cake pan 350° F. 45 minutes or two deep layers at 375° F. 20 minutes. Spread marshmallow icing between and on top of layers.

Marshmallow icing: Boil 1½ cups sugar with ½ cup water until it spins a thread. Pour slowly over two stiffly beaten egg whites, beating steadily. Add 8 marshmallows cut in pieces and beat until thick enough to spread. A pinch of soda prevents filling becoming hard.

Bankers Split Over Institutional Question

BRANCH BANKS BRING DISPUTE

Divisions of Convention Argue Question

McFadden Bill Resolutions to be Offered

Rail Consolidation Meets Favor of Group

courage branch banking, and asserted that restriction can be applied efficaciously by the McFadden bill without the amendments.

RESOLUTIONS UP TODAY

Both of these platforms will be submitted to the electorate of the American Bankers' Association in its second general session tomorrow. At that time the report of the resolutions committee will be submitted. There is a possibility, of course, that some of the enthusiasts will attempt to introduce the topic in today's meeting.

Several notable figures in the banking world were on the floor at different times during the day. Gov. W. J. Bailey of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, Mo., exchanged verbal shots with his friend, Peter W. Goebel, chairman, Commercial National Bank of Kansas City, and a former president of the American Bankers' Association. Representative Wingo of Arkansas acquitted himself creditably despite an attack of vertigo. More color was lent to the occasion when W. C. Wilkinson of Charlotte, N. C., president of the national division, was forced to decline the privileges of the floor to an obstreperous State banker from Wisconsin.

All the arguments against the inclusion of the Hull amendments emphasized the contention that their adoption will threaten the existence of the Federal reserve system. One of these amendments provides that in States that enact branch-bank laws following the passage of the McFadden bill the State banks that establish branches will be denied the privileges of the Federal reserve. The other amendment provides that national banks cannot establish branches even if such State laws are enacted. Twenty-six States are affected by the two amendments.

DISCRIMINATION FEARED

R. H. McKee, president, National Capital Bank, Washington, D. C., who presented the resolution to the national bankers favoring the bill without the amendments, argued that the State bankers in the twenty-six States now prohibiting branch banking will have the incentive to work for branch-bank legislation if the Hull amendments should pass. Withdrawal from the Federal reserve, he said, would naturally follow, but the advantages over the national banks unable to withdraw, will undoubtedly influence them to take this action. Clearly, Mr. McKee said, the national bankers are unwilling to allow the State banks to possess this advantage.

R. S. Hawes of St. Louis argued along the same line of thought. As a national banker, he said, he opposes any legislation that will give to State banks the possible right to branches when the national banks will not have the same right. Particularly so in Missouri, he declared, where there are 1700 State banks and 160 national banks.

From the independent bankers, whom the proponents of the Tull amendments said their measure protected, came a vigorous disavowal of appreciation. J. S. Macdonnell, president of the First National Bank of Pasadena, and an active worker in the California League of Independent Bankers, took the floor to say he firmly believes that the McFadden bill without the Hull provisions is the best method to check branch banking. After Mr. Macdonnell's utterance, it was evident that some of the enthusiasm of the Hull group was dampened.

Another speaker who announced opposition to branch banking, but declined to accept the Hull method of restriction, was Max B. Nahm, vice-president, Citizens' National Bank of Bowling Green, Ky. His plea to the Hull group was:

"Get out and leave us alone; you've had your day and now it's ours."

WILL OPEN GATES

On the other side of the fence, E. N. Baty, who is secretary of the mysterious Committee of One Hundred, self-styled supporters of the Hull amendments, protested that the bill without the Hull amendments will open the gates to State-wide branch banking, and utterly wipe out the independent bankers. He did not proceed very far with his remarks before Mr. Wilkinson, president of the division, questioned his right to talk before the meeting. After giving his credentials, Mr. Baty retired, and his argument was taken up by O. F. Reicht of Dawson, Ill. Mr. Reicht expressed the fear that the small bankers were doomed unless the Hull amendments were adopted.

Otherwise the meetings of the State and national divisions went along in harmonious fashion. New officers were elected for the ensuing year and several important addresses on technical subjects were delivered. Today the State and national bankers will file into the first general session of the convention, as President Oscar Wells raps his gavel for order. Yesterday it was reported that President Wells was slightly indisposed from a bad cold, but it is expected that he would be able to assume his duties today.

Advance predictions of attendance were fully verified late yesterday. More than 6000 delegates had registered, and executive officers prophesied that the 7000 mark will be passed today. On this basis the Los Angeles convention is the second largest in the history of the association.

Today's session will be featured by the address of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, and a former president of the American Bankers' Association.

REPORT FAVORS RAIL CONSOLIDATIONS

A report favoring railroad consolidation throughout the country was submitted to the executive council of the American Bankers' Association, a special committee of the association's Commerce and Marine Commission.

The report was regarded as being important from a national viewpoint, as it places the thousands of bankers of the United States behind the policy of President Coolidge, who has announced himself as favoring a grouping of the railroads of the nation into fewer and stronger systems.

CONSOLIDATION FROWNED ON

Compulsory consolidation was frowned upon in the report, which declared that the railroads themselves, under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, could best meet the endless problems arising from making over the huge rail systems of the nation.

The Economy Policy Commission will meet today, yesterday's scheduled session having been postponed. A report of vast interest on the deferred payment plan, is expected to be filed by this commission. So much discussion has arisen among economists as to the extent to which the installment plan of selling has expanded that the association last year appointed a special committee to study the problem and report its findings at this convention. Upon the report of the committee the policy of banks throughout the country the deferred payment plan, in all probability, will be based

New enabling legislation should be adopted by Congress to replace certain defects in the Transportation Act of 1920, the railroad report stated, and also an extension of the law to confer corporate power upon consolidation.

The opinion was advanced that compulsory consolidation should be abandoned and that the railroads should be permitted to effect mergers in their own way, without interference.

CAPITAL BAIT NEEDED

The report opened with the statement that in order to maintain the pace of the present age, railroads must be placed in better shape to attract capital. The committee approached the problem from an economic, rather than a political standpoint, because the ownership of railroads, to a great extent, is in the hands of savings banks and insurance companies, who, in turn, represent many millions of depositors and policy holders.

"Consolidation should be considered from the standpoint of the natural flow of traffic," the report stated, "because no single railroad system can prosper on the traffic which both originates and ends on the rails of that system. Any railroad gerrymandering would interfere decidedly with our common prosperity."

Consolidation must be effected in a manner beneficial, and not detrimental, to the communities involved, it was stated.

Nothing should be done, the report stated, to impair the present greatly improved credit of the railroads, and if the railroads do not succeed in attracting capital on the permitted—but not guaranteed—return of 5.75 per cent the government should make adjustments on the average of five-year instead of one-year periods.

GOVERNMENT RELIED ON

"Railroad executives and the Interstate Commerce Commission may be relied upon to protect the growing confidence of the investing public by not increasing the ratio of debt to equity by sanctioning any unwise combination of ill-assorted elements," the report stated.

The issuance of new securities for the stocks and some of the bonds of

TEXAS COTTON PLANTERS QUIT

Lands Will be Devoted to Tobacco, Bankers Hear

Stabilization of Prices Object of Action

Legislature May Adopt Act to Curtail Crop

Texas will store more than 1,000,000 bales of its 1926 cotton crop and take to planting tobacco, raising cattle and dairying in a concerted effort to stabilize the present market, according to a telegram from representative bankers and cotton planters in Texas read late yesterday before the national bank division of the American Bankers' Association convention here by W. W. Woodson, president of the First National Bank of Waco and one of the principal speakers at the afternoon session.

The message from Texas added, Mr. Woodson declared, that a special session of the Texas Legislature will be asked at once to enact legislation to curtail planting of next year's cotton.

This drastic step to bring the cotton market back to normalcy, Mr. Woodson said, involves a reduction of acreage of from 25 to 35 per cent.

"Texas bankers have agreed," he asserted, "to recommend to farmers of the Lone Star State to turn to planting tobacco, raising cattle, dairying and other pursuits while they are storing more than 1,000,000 bales of cotton off the present market."

DECISION STUDIED

The decision of Texas bankers and cotton growers was discussed freely yesterday by delegates to the convention who attended both the national and State division sessions.

Just before the national bank division adjourned its meeting for the day, C. W. Carey, president of the First National Bank, Wichita, Kan., was elected president of the national bank division for the coming year. Mr. Carey had been serving as vice-president. The new vice-president is E. A. Onthank, president of the Safety Fund National Bank, Fitchburg, Mass. E. H. Sensenich, president of the West Coast National Bank, Portland, Or., was chosen as chairman of the executive committee. Members of the executive committee were named as follows: First Federal Reserve District, F. B. Washburn, president of the Mechanics National Bank Worchester, Mass.; eighth district, R. F. McNally, vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce, St. Louis; ninth district, J. W. Barton, vice-president of the Metropolitan National Bank, Minneapolis; eleventh district, R. E. Harding, vice-president of the Fort Worth National Bank, Fort Worth, Tex.

We flaked Post Toasties
Double-Thick
And made corn flakes Double-Crisp and Double-Good!

In the great Post Health Kitchens at Battle Creek we have perfected corn flakes. By a special toasting process we have discovered how to make corn flakes Double-Crisp and Double-Good.

We call our corn flakes Post Toasties. They are made from the hearts of carefully selected white corn. These corn hearts we flake Double-Thick, then toast them in great ovens until they are golden-crisp.

As soon as they leave the oven we shower Post Toasties into the red and yellow package. And three wrappings insure the delivery of oven-fresh, oven-crisp corn flakes at your table.

The Milk or Cream Test will reveal what we mean when we say that Post Toasties are Double-Crisp and Double-Good. Make this test yourself and enjoy that wonderful flavor.

How to make the Milk or Cream Test:

Get some Post Toasties, Double-Thick Corn Flakes, at your grocer's or send for a free test package. Open the red and yellow, wax-wrapped package and shower some of the oven-fresh corn flakes into a bowl. Now add milk or cream and eat the delicious flakes slowly, critically.

Did you ever taste such flavor? Note how even the last few flakes at the bottom of the bowl still remain crisp and delicious. This test has drawn thousands to the steadily growing list of Post Toasties users. Post Toasties are Double-Crisp and Double-Good because they're Double-Thick!

Three Wrappings guard their crispness

Women Bankers Attending Convention All Their Own Show How Thrift and Frills of Style May be Safely Provided for Clients

BY ALMA WHITAKER

The women bankers, you understand, are part of the American bankers' national convention in the regular way, but they are also holding a separate, distinct Association of Women Bankers' convention of their very own.

And Grace Stoermer of the woman's department of the Bank of Italy, titian-headed, capable, serene and gracefully garbed in becoming raiment of brown, is a sort of superhostess of the occasion. She is wearing a corsage bouquet of orchids which, notwithstanding the crowds and the heat, remained cool and unwilted like their wearer.

They are a most attractive collection of women—for, you see, women who rise to high position in the masculine stronghold of finance not only have to be competent, capable, exceptionally intelligent, but they have to be charming as well to impress their competence upon masculine recognition. Exactly—it is what "every woman knows." They probably have to have any amount of tact, too.

So there is Miss Jean Arnot Reid, vice-president of the organization, of the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, who will preside at convention meetings. She simply radiates pleasant self-confidence. She wears perfectly cut black, with a single string of pearls, and a hat just jaunty enough but not too provocative. There is a humorous twinkle in her eye. But I have observed that the women who favor pearls always have a sentimental heart—in good control. (I'm not sure if this goes for imitation—but Miss Reid's are real.)

ARTFULLY WEARS LACE

Then there is Miss Nina Bruere, who is petite and artfully wears soft [illegible] next to her face above her well-cut dark gown, and whose pretty gray hair forms a charming frame for her piquant little face. Miss Bruere is corresponding secretary of the organization and assistant secretary to the Central Union Trust Company of New York, and was formerly confidential secretary to Frank A. Vanderlip for years. She arrived a week ago and got ahead of the rest in meeting some of the motion-picture stars. (Yes, the banker-ladies are that human.)

Miss Margaret Kelley is here too. She is acting vice-president of the First National Bank of Dennison—a delightfully Irish person, short, kindly, slyly appealing and, I should say, a keen judge of human nature. She has been selected to read the president's address, Mrs. L. B. Krouth being president of her bank and too busy to come. There are six women who are presidents of banks in this organization of bank women.

Maude L. Balch is another interesting visitor—Springfield National Bank of Massachusetts. Interesting New England type, conscientious, kindly, effective, quiet, alert, and with a merry sense of humor.

Mrs. Ralph Beebe, assistant cashier of the Commerce Trust Company of Kansas City, regional vice-president of the midwestern division, is another quiet, charming woman—indulging a taste for pearls on this trip. She has soft gray hair, a youthful figure, pretty feet well shod, and yet gives an impression of being dynamic and imperative should occasion arise. She is accompanied by a clever daughter who is reporting the convention for a Kansas City paper. Mother introduced the woman's department to her bank eight years ago.

PIONEER IN WORK

Nina Carter of the People's Trust Company of Chicago pioneered in this woman's department work fifteen years ago. She has a most engaging personality, which built up that innovation—nice, easy manners, youthful and attractive. Her department really forms a model for all the women's departments of banks since installed.

Luella Ensworth of the Northern Trust Company of Chicago is Exhibit A for youth and good looks and sartorial chic—and dear Miss Bruere was bound I should get her into this story.

This Nina Bruere is enchanted with our California women bankers. She says that Lillian Molin of Santa Barbara and Marion A. Young-Green of Upper Lake, both holding cashiers' positions in their banks, are that "mountain-breeze type—the coloring, vitality, easy self-confidence" which she insists are peculiarly Californian. Miss Young-Green seems much too pretty to hold such a responsible job. Betty Richmond of the Bank of Italy here, Grace Stoermer's first lieutenant, is that type too.

Mary Natteford looks very small and frail and feminine, sensitive—but vital withal. Edith Vejar, manager of the Santa Monica branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, is tall, picturesque, convincing.

BEADS AND BUDGETS

Mrs. E. D. Dexter Knight of the Bank of Italy of San Francisco, is a quiet, capable woman, who has originated several valuable ideas in women's banking. She has compiled housewives' and business women's budgets that are a fascinating study. She is wearing a graceful dress of black and blue with a huge string of glass beads. Now, I wonder whether she allows for beads in those budgets?

Not for a moment could one confuse any of these women with the many bankers' wives attending the convention with their husbands. Responsibility is written all over them.

Those who are the heads of women's departments find their work intensely interesting. You see, they have discovered that more than half the domestic woes are caused through poor financing in the home. Many a housewife with a $500 a month allowance apportions it unwisely and "simply can't get along" on that income! So, besides being good bankers, these women have to be guides, philosophers, friends and budget makers for a great many of their clients. They encourage them to come to them with all their woes—and just by making a few home accounts balance at the end of the month they have saved many a marital bark from wreckage.

They also tell me that 75 per cent of the savings accounts of the country are in the names of women—which is distinctly interesting.

TEACHES SCHOOL THRIFT

Miss Grace Livingstone's work is important. She is the manager of the school savings department of the Farmers' and Merchants' Savings Bank of Minneapolis, [illegible] tiated with such [illegible] been copied throughout [illegible] but with all that [illegible] managed to look gay and [illegible] tractive in a piquant [illegible]

The first meeting of the convention, arranged [illegible] with the men's, will [illegible] p.m. today, when the [illegible] department will be the [illegible] for discussion.

Although they [illegible] women for guests of [illegible] banquet tonight—Dr. [illegible] hart, and Dr. [illegible] they are being [illegible] vited Oscar Wells [illegible] American Bankers' [illegible] address them.

the merged railroads is the best method for financing a consolidation, the committee reported, and no other plan should be considered.

Improvement of transportation service is the greatest benefit to be derived from consolidations, the report stated, such as the co-ordination of schedules and elimination of duplicate hauls, fuller utilization of terminal facilities, equipment and rolling stock and concentration in purchasing.

The committee deprecated the possibility of a reduction in rates as a result of consolidation, stating that there is a remote promise of rate reductions in a country of fewer and larger rail systems.

The committee urged the repeal of the section of the Transportation Act empowering the Interstate Commerce Commission to make compulsory consolidations, stating that American business had developed best by the measure of its service given the public. The solution of the consolidation question lies, the report declared, in the resumption of the natural enlargement of the railroads, which policy was being pursued prior to Federal interference. The natural process in mergers should be permitted to go forward under the jurisdiction of the commission, it was stated, which will be along sound economic lines.

GROUPING BENEFICIAL

The further legalized grouping of the roads into strong, efficient systems will be highly beneficial to the country's prosperity, it was stated. The commission has demonstrated its ability to supervise the railroads, according to the committee. More adequate service will be regarded by the public as more important than lower rates.

The report was signed by John G. Lonsdale, president of the First National Bank, St Louis, chairman; John McHugh, president, Chase National Bank, New York City; Robert F. Maddox, Atlanta and Lowry National Bank, Atlanta, and Fred I. K..., vice-president, Bankers' Trust Company, New York City.

The Spanish government will establish radio stations in the Canary Islands.

STYLE SHOW BRINGS JOY TO VISITORS

Bankers' Wives Sip Tea and Admire Models from Smart Apparel Shops

An avalanche of bankers' wives descended upon the Biltmore yesterday afternoon to attend the tea and fashion show, which was the first of several affairs to be given for their entertainment during the sessions of the bankers' convention this week.

Tea was served in the main dining-room and supper-room at tables decorated with a gay variety of California blossoms. Models from I. Magnin & Co., Goodrich's, the Unique and Colburn's circulated among the tables displaying a large assortment of feminine apparel the sight of which might cause the bravest banker to shudder had he seen the interest displayed by the wives and daughters present. Approximately 1200 women attended.

Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo was chairman of the committee in charge, Mr. Norwood W. Howard was vice-chairman, and they were assisted by Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. J. F. Sartori, Mrs. Oscar Wells, wife of the president of the Bankers' Association; Mrs. Melvin Treylor, wife of the first vice president. In the receiving line with the ladies of the committee were Mrs. Henry Robinson, Mrs J. Dabney Day, Mrs. Charles F. Stern, Mrs. J. A. Graves, Mrs. W. D. Woolwine, Mrs. A. P. Giannini and Mrs. Andrew Chaffee.

W. M. Garland is in charge of all arrangements for the entertainment of the visiting ladies. Wednesday there will be a garden party and tea-dance for them at the Los Angeles Country Club under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. F. Sartori, with Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy acting as vice-chairman. On Thursday evening Mr Garland is himself making arrangements for a grand ball to be held at the Shrine Auditorium.

WALNUT CREAM PIE

H. A. P., Van Nuys.—For walunt cream pie mix thoroughly two beaten eggs with half a cupful of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch. Pour into the egg mixture two cupfuls of boiling hot milk and place in a double boiler and stir until smooth, do not boil. Remove from the fire and stir in one cupful of chopped walnut meats, the grated rind of one lemon, and a little ground mace. Pour mixture into a baked pie shell, cover with a meringue and brown in the oven.

CANDIED FIGS

Wash and dry firm, ripe figs, drop in boiling water for three minutes and drain well. For each pound of figs boil one cupful of sugar until clear. Add the figs and boil for fifteen minutes; remove from the fire and let stand overnight; repeat this for five days, until the figs are clear and have filled with syrup. When the fruit is bright and clear, drain and dry in the sun or a cool oven. For crystallized figs when the figs are dry cover with a syrup made with six cupfuls and a quarter of sugar and four cupfuls of water and let stand three days; drain and dry in the sun or a cool oven. Sprinkle with granulated sugar and pack in layers in wooden boxes.

POMEGRANATE JELLY

C. G., Los Angeles.—Carefully remove the seeds from tart or under-ripe pomegranates, place in a preserving kettle, barely cover with water, bring slowly to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer until the seeds are soft. Pour into a jelly bag and drain. Measure the juice into a saucepan, bring to a boil and boil twelve minutes, add three-quarters as much sugar as there is juice and boil until a little will jell when dropped on a cold plate. Pour into hot glasses, cool and seal.

CIDER SAUCE

S. S., Glendale.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter in a small saucepan, add four tablespoonfuls of flour, work smooth, stir in slowly two cupfuls of the ham liquor, bring to a boil, add one-third of a cupful of apple cider and a seasoning of cayenne and salt.

QUINCE MARMALADE

S. K., Los Angeles.—For the quince marmalade peel the quinces, place the peelings in a saucepan, cover with water, bring to a boil and boil one hour. Cut the quinces in quarters, remove the cores, places in a preserving kettle strain over them the water from the peelings and cook slowly until tender and soft. Press through a fine colander, measure, return to the fire and cook twenty minutes, stirring often. Add three-quarters of a cupful of sugar for each cupful of pulp and cook until thick. Pack in hot glasses and seal.

BARBECUE MEAT

E. C. C., Los Angeles.—There are many simple rules that must be followed if one would properly cook and prepare barbecued meat. The trench should be about two feet deep and about thirty inches wide, and should be between five and six feet long. This will give space for the cooking of the green corn and Brunswick stew, which should be served if one wants a genuine southern barbecue. The meat should be cleaned and washed the evening before.

The fire should be laid the same time and kept burning steadily until morning when there should be a fine bed of coals. Make another fire to one side so as to have a supply of live coals, which will be needed after the meat starts cooking. Lay pieces of iron or split stick of green wood over the trench and lay on them the meat, which has been split in half. The meat should be started early in the morning and basted often with salt water applied with a clean cloth tied to a stick. Turn the meat only once while cooking. Just before removing the meat to the tables it should be basted with a sauce made by stewing one cupful of small chili peppers until soft in one cupful of hot water. Add the chili peppers to two cupfuls of melted lard with one teaspoonful of marjoram, one teaspoonful of thyme, half a teaspoonful of mace, one tablespoonful of minced parsley, eight tablespoonfuls of fresh ground pepper (black,) three cupfuls of cider vinegar and a seasoning of salt. This sauce should be applied lightly with a clean cloth or mop, do not allow any to fall in the fire. Place the meat on hot platters. Serve sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, radishes and ripe olive with the meat. Have bottles of French dressing for those who want to fix their own salad. Whole loaves of French bread are placed on the tables and deep plates of Brunswick stew are placed alongside of mounds of green corn that has been boiled in milk and water. For dessert have ice-cold watermelon. For a drink, make a tart orange-ade with half red grape juice and half water.

APFEL STRUDEL

F. G. H., Los Angeles.—Sift two cupfuls of flour with three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a pinch of salt into a boil and mix with it half a cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter; beat an egg light, mix it with two-thirds of a cupful of milk and stir it into the flour; turn out on a floured pastry board and knead only enough to roll out in an oblong square a fourth of an inch thick; spread over it half a cupful of softened butter, half a cupful each of chopped raisins and almonds, three or four peeled and cored cooking apples, chopped fine and a piece of citron shaved very thin; sprinkle with a teaspoonful of cinnamon and the zest of a small lemon and roll and bake in a quick oven. To be eaten warm.

BRIOCHE

Sift half a pound of flour; put a fourth of it into a bowl and make a well in the middle; dissolve a level teaspoonful of compressed yeast in a little lukewarm water; pour it into the well and mix it with the flour little by little, until it is a smooth dough; knead well and put it again in the bowl (floured;) cover and stand in a warm place. Make a well in the rest of the flour and pour in two tablespoonfuls of milk mixed with a teaspoonful of salt and two of sugar; mix well, break in an egg and beat hard three or four minutes; add another egg and repeat until three eggs have been used; then beat in a half cupful of softened butter. Now mix the two doughs together and knead only enough to form a very soft ball, which place again in the well-floured bowl; cover with flannel and place in a warm spot to rise for twelve hours. Cut the dough into small pieces, which form into buns of medium size with a twist at the top, of crescents. Place in a greased tin and when they have risen nicely bake in a moderate oven.

SUN-MAID PUFFED SEEDED MUSCAT RAISINS
SUN-MAID NECTARS SEEDLESS RAISINS

The story of Sun-Maid raisins is told in many languages. And how women respond to it! Millions now demand this brand from their grocers

They all know California for the fineness of its raisins

Almost without your suspecting it, localities fix their fame in your mind by their products. Michigan—motor cars. France—perfumes, gowns. Hawaii—pineapples. Ceylon—tea.

And California is known to American housewives as the source of many foods. Yet one probably more than all the rest. Surely the women of foreign lands know California best—for its raisins.

All the world demands this California product.

Raisin center of the universe, home of the cooperative growers, California has become the source of information about raisins for women everywhere.

And constantly the news goes out—through magazines, newspapers, street car cards, posters and store window displays.

News of Sun-Maid achievements such as Sun-Maid Nectars, seedless raisins with the fragrance, the flavor and plump tenderness of fresh grapes. Recipes for tempting new ways to use the products of our vineyards.

Translated into many languages Sun-Maid advertising is read by housewives in Europe and in the Orient just as it is by the housewives of America.

It is putting more and more raisin dishes on the world's tables—in May as well as in December. Every year it sends new thousands of women into grocery stores asking for, demanding Sun-Maid raisins.

And since there are no other raisins so fine as these, it is a fame of substantial value they win for California.

Were Sun-Maid raisins known only to California women the world would hear about them eventually.

But what a force is advertising—that tells women everywhere at once and leads them to demand our finer product!

DRAMA ATTENDS BLAZE AT HOTEL

Fire Attacks Hostelry on South Broadway

Steel Worker Rescues Woman Trapped in Room

Tenant Braves Flames to Save Pet Cat

Drama, pathos and a touch of humor attended a two-alarm fire which yesterday afternoon gutted the Dudley Hotel at 212 South Broadway. The blaze originated, according to reports of the fire department, from crossed wires in the rear of the main floor of the building. The damage, including the demolition of practically all of the hotel furnishings and water damage to a portion of the Victor Clothing Company's stock at 214 South Broadway, is estimated at $25,000.

It was drama when George Ellis, 25 years of age, a structural steel worker, rescued Mrs. H. E. Rainwater, 27, and carried her down the fire escape and ladder after the latter had been trapped in her room on the third floor. Hundreds cheered as Ellis brought the woman safely to the ground, but he thought the cheers were hisses, he said, and wondered what error he had committed.

INJURED IN LEAP

Ellis had escaped the flames himself and was standing with the crowd watching the smoking building when Miss Elvina Oaks called to him, "Sister, room fifty-six!" He re-entered the building, but found himself confronted by such an impenetrable wall of flames that he could not reach Mrs. Rainwater's room. Finally, he succeeded in reaching the fire escape and rescued the woman from her window.

George Stanford, 38, a salesman, suffered a broken left wrist and lacerations about the face and head when he jumped from the fire escape to the awning of the Victor Clothing Company and thence to the sidewalk below.

It was pathos that the twenty-six tenants of the hotel lost all their personal belongings, save what they wore.

CAT RESCUED

There was something of humor in the rescue of an Angora cat belonging to Mrs. Bertha Church, lessee of the hotel building. Mrs. Church had successfully escaped the flames when she thought of her cat, "Ginger," confined to her room. With no thought for her own safety she returned to her room, appearing a few moments later, her hair singed and disheveled, but with a smile, for she had saved her pet.

"I may have lost everything else, but I saved 'Ginger,'" she said.

Two firemen were injured before the blaze was brought under control. Capt. Carl Yeager, 38 years of age, a member of Engine Company 16, suffered a sprained right ankle when he fell out of a window to a roof; E. F. Henning, 25, a member of Engine Company 3, suffered second-degree burns about the hands.

Bonds Approved by Council for Storm Drains

The City Council, on motion of Councilman Randall, yesterday adopted a resolution approving the $35,000,000 flood-control bond issue ordered placed on the November 2 general election ballot by the Board of Supervisors. Approval of the City Council was given by reason of the fact, as stated by Councilman Randall's resolution, that $10 000,000 of the bond issue will be used for the completion of storm-drain improvements which have their origin in Los Angeles city, and these bond contributions, the resolution said, will relieve 60 per cent of the population of the city of Los Angeles from paying large assessments for the completion of these storm-drain improvements.

Life Ended as Child Plays in Adjoining Room

While his daughter Rosebud, 4 years of age, played with her doll in an adjoining room, B. A. Stevenson, 29, shot himself in the head with a revolver at his home at 642 East Twenty-fourth street yesterday, police reported. His wife was out at the time.

Police found a note, reading:

"No one loves me any more and I am tired of living."

The family came here from Denver about three months ago.

Stevenson's body was taken to the Coroner's office.

Dreadnaughts Begin Practice on Short Range

Heavy gunfire was rattling the windows of foothill cities yesterday morning before many residents had had breakfast. Four battle fleet dreadnaughts, Arizona, Colorado, Maryland and Pennsylvania, shortly after sunrise were on the gunnery range for short-range battle practice.

Seven other units, the California, West Virginia, Mississippi, Tennessee, Idaho, Oklahoma and Nevada, will fire the exercise today, tomorrow and Thursday.

LEGION COUNCIL TO PLAN FUND SUPPORT

The Interpost City Council of the American Legion will meet tonight at the Windsor Tea Rooms to form the city organization for supporting Proposition No. 1 on the November ballot which provides $20,000,000 without cost to the taxpayers to assist war veterans in purchasing homes and farms. Kincaid stated that the American Legion to a man is supporting the issue because it is not a bonus but is extending the credit of the State to worthy veterans who pay back every cent plus a reasonable amount of interest for the use of the money in buying homes and farms they could not otherwise own.

Libel Actions in Salvage of Ship Filed by Seven

Two libel actions, one seeking $25,000 in salvage, were filed in United States District Court yesterday by the owners and members of the crew of the steamer Lake Miraflores which on August 24, last, went to the rescue of the helpless steamship Point Firmin in mid-Pacific and towed the latter to La Union, Salvador. The actions are directed against Swayne & Hoyt, owners of the Point Firmin.

The salvage action was filed by Stanley Hiller, Inc., owners of the Lake Miraflores, asserting as a basis for the suit that the Point Firmin is worth $150 000 and that at the time of the August accident she was carrying a cargo valued at $750,000.

Libel in rem, seeking to collect a share of the salvage money, also was filed by six members of the Lake Miraflores crew, Alton B. Walker, John L. West, Joseph F. Harwick, William Hicks, Carl Brullard and August Granbacka.

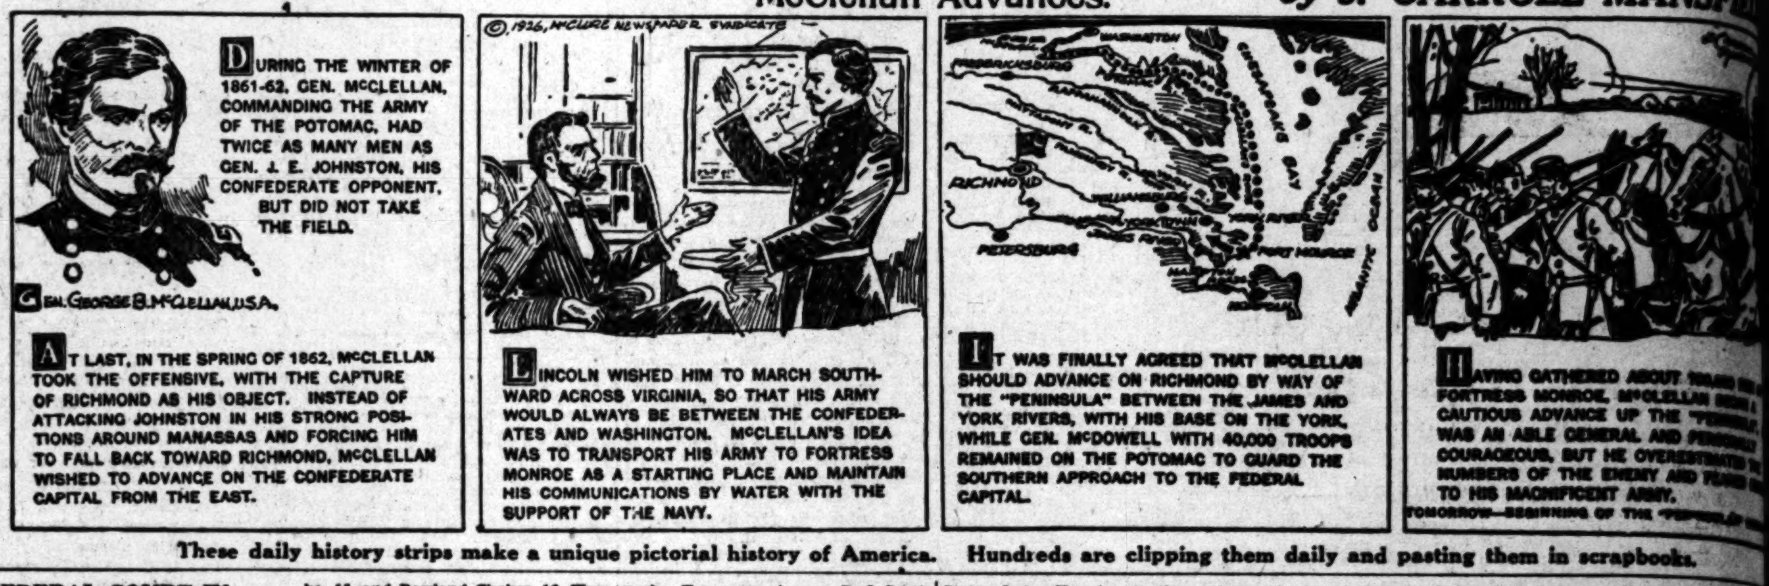
McClellan Advances.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



DURING THE WINTER OF 1861-62, GEN. McCLELLAN, COMMANDING THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, HAD TWICE AS MANY MEN AS GEN. J. E. JOHNSTON, HIS CONFEDERATE OPPONENT, BUT DID NOT TAKE THE FIELD.

AT LAST, IN THE SPRING OF 1862, McCLELLAN TOOK THE OFFENSIVE, WITH THE CAPTURE OF RICHMOND AS HIS OBJECT. INSTEAD OF ATTACKING JOHNSTON IN HIS STRONG POSITIONS AROUND MANASSAS AND FORCING HIM TO FALL BACK TOWARD RICHMOND, McCLELLAN WISHED TO ADVANCE ON THE CONFEDERATE CAPITAL FROM THE EAST.

LINCOLN WISHED HIM TO MARCH SOUTHWARD ACROSS VIRGINIA, SO THAT HIS ARMY WOULD ALWAYS BE BETWEEN THE CONFEDERATES AND WASHINGTON. McCLELLAN'S IDEA WAS TO TRANSPORT HIS ARMY TO FORTRESS MONROE AS A STARTING PLACE AND MAINTAIN HIS COMMUNICATIONS BY WATER WITH THE SUPPORT OF THE NAVY.

IT WAS FINALLY AGREED THAT McCLELLAN SHOULD ADVANCE ON RICHMOND BY WAY OF THE "PENINSULA" BETWEEN THE JAMES AND YORK RIVERS, WITH HIS BASE ON THE YORK, WHILE GEN. McDOWELL WITH 40,000 TROOPS REMAINED ON THE POTOMAC TO GUARD THE SOUTHERN APPROACH TO THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

FEDERAL COURT IN QUANDARY OVER BOYS

What to do with four youths from Salt Lake who ran away from that city with a policeman's automobile perplexed the Federal authorities yesterday, as Federal courts do not handle juvenile cases. The youths are Francis Colder, 17 years of age, Chauncey Murdock, 17; Nephi Nemelka, 15, and Rowland Chober, 16. They left there September 25, it was said, with the car of J. C. Jorgensen, a motorcycle officer. Pending word from Salt Lake the quartet will be held in custody. They were arraigned before Commissioner Head and a hearing set for the 9th inst.

CITY CLUB PROGRAM

L. E. Moselle, secretary of the City Club, yesterday announced the following program for the club this week: Tomorrow at noon, R. J. Scott, Fire Chief, will peak on "Fire Prevention." Friday at noon there will be a community sing. Saturday's luncheon feature will be an address by F. W. Roman on "What Shall be Our Response to the Economic Outlook of the Hour?"

DRAWS FEDERAL TERM

John Frederick Bailey, impersonator of an internal revenue officer, yesterday was sentenced by United States Judge Henning to three years in Federal prison and to pay fines aggregating $3000. Bailey is said to have mulcted numerous Angelenos out of various sums of money by threatening to expose the fact they had wine illegally on their premises.

SPEEDY RUM VERDICT RETURNED BY JURY

After deliberating less than three minutes, a jury in Judge Edmond's court yesterday found Mrs. Estelle Jacobs, who told the court that she "maintained a lodging house for Pullman porters," guilty of violating the Wright Act. Mrs. Jacobs was arrested recently by Police Officers Sheffield and Randolph at 1154 1-2 East Eleventh street, when they found two bottles of beer in her ice box and six pints of moonshine liquor hidden under the floor of the house she managed.

GOLDEN WEDDING ENTERTAINMENT

GREENS INCREASINGLY FAVORED BY MANY INTERIOR DECORATORS

"Practical as well as popular," says Lucy D. Taylor, interior decorator, lecturer, and author of "Your Home Beautiful"

"Do I think green is growing in favor with interior decorators?" repeated Miss Taylor in response to our question.

"It certainly is. And why not? Green, first of all, is such a comfortable color to live with. Then, in its lighter shades it works easily into a background for many other tones in the room's furnishings. Browns, reds, some tones of blue, yellow, and even mulberry and gray appear lovely in conjunction with green.

"You will notice that I put brown first in my list of colors that can be pleasingly associated with green. This is because so much of our modern furniture does come in brown—walnut, walnut-mahogany, dark oaks, all the popular Early American furniture in light maple.

"The new linoleum patterns, such as duo-tone rippled Jaspé, and the large and small tiles are extremely effective for these green backgrounds."

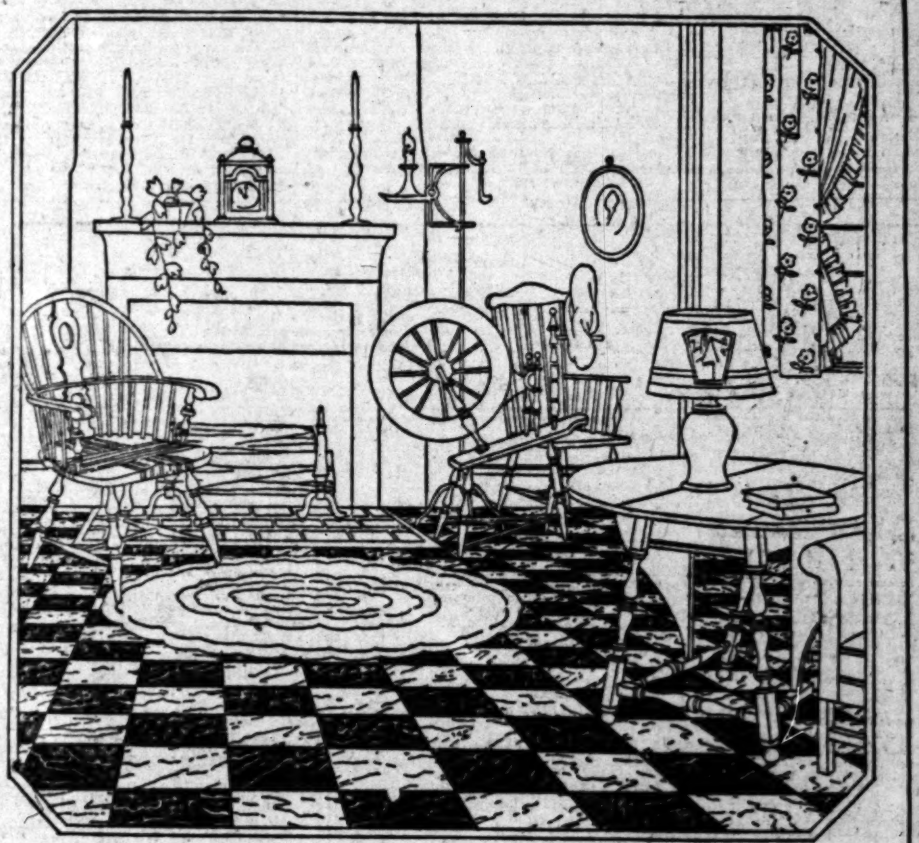
"Linoleum? But where are the seams?"

"No tacks, no brads, no seams? Why, that's not a linoleum floor as I know it."

Do you know that it is possible for you to have a modern, patterned floor of Armstrong's Linoleum cemented in place over builders' deadening felt? This manner of laying eliminates ugly seams, warping, and shrinking and presents a smooth, easy-to-clean surface.

There is no upset or bother. Rugs and furniture are moved into another room. The felt underlining is pasted down and the linoleum neatly cemented over it.

Seams are neatly joined. Edges waterproofed. The whole surface rolled smooth, neat, and firm.



An interior in the Early American fashion now so popular. Armstrong's Marble Tile No. 72 has just the proper amount of green to harmonize with light maple tones in furniture and hangings.

GREEN...
the favored color in home decoration

You'll find it in dozens of new Armstrong designs in this Fall Display

GREEN is coming in home decoration. Decorators have turned to it in planning their smartest color schemes.

Now you will find new and beautiful shades of green in modern floor patterns of Armstrong's Linoleum.

For months our designers worked to produce patterns and colors most appropriate for the home. Hundreds of color schemes were tried out. The approved designs, now on display at local stores, are America's prettiest, newest note in linoleum floors.

Patterns all the way from close designs, all-over effects, to bold, striking tiles. Colors from delicate pastel shades to deep, rich tones. Not only in the season's shades of green, but in reds and grays, blues and tans, as well.

And reasonably priced for linoleum of such authentic design.

Armstrong's Embossed Inlaids

The First Linoleum with a Surface Modeled in Natural Relief

Architects say this new floor has "texture."

Linoleum tiles of differing tones have been harmoniously combined. There is no apparent pattern repeat. And these tiles stand slightly upraised; the cement-toned interliners that frame them are pressed in beneath the surface of the goods.

Offered in eleven pleasing patterns.

MARBLEIZED

A New Group of Armstrong Inlaid Patterns

Possibly you have seen linoleum in which the surface had a marble graining, but Armstrong's Marbleized Linoleum is truly inlaid. The marbling runs through the entire flooring to the heavy burlap back.

Armstrong's Inlaid Linoleum, cemented in place over builders' deadening felt, is literally good for a lifetime of hard wear. It never needs refinishing.

Kept waxed and polished, it makes a floor that needs little attention. A dust mop removes all surface accumulation.

A More Serviceable Kind of Printed Linoleum

Each design of Armstrong's Printed Linoleum is the work of an expert colorist, and is printed, carefully printed, with pure linseed oil colors on the linoleum body. The body material is "genuine cork linoleum," tough and sturdy.

Armstrong's Printed Linoleum is backed with genuine burlap—hence its sturdy, tough, long-wearing quality. Only the best is good enough for Armstrong's.

HOW MANY OPPORTUNITIES ARE THERE IN TOWN TO EARN SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS A WEEK?

There is no theory about my proposition, for I have trained more than forty men in the last few months so that many of them are $1000 a month salesmen. In many cases they were very raw material—men who had never sold anything before. If you are tired of your filling station job, disappointed with real estate, or disgusted with clerking in a grocery store, the chances are that I can pull you out of the hole and put you in line for a real place in the sun. It costs nothing to talk to me and I am in every morning from half past eight and am anxious to help in every way. There are scores of fresh leads every morning, a big advertising campaign and eleven years of successful operation back of you. There may not be many opportunities in town for making $1000 a month, but here is one if you will really work. MR. GORMAN, 728 S. Spring st.

MEN

WHAT OF YOUR FUTURE?

I want to interview a few keen, intelligent men who wish to become salesmen and make this profession their life's work.

The sales profession stands out not only as the most dignified but the most remunerative of all professions, and many men in Los Angeles whom we have trained have incomes yearly of $15,000 or better.

If you are from 25 to 50 years of age, believe in yourself and have ambition, determination, backbone, stick-to-it-iveness, willing to follow instructions, my company will put you to work where you can advance yourself to an executive's position commanding an income equal to the best.

This advertisement is not meant for the ordinary job-hunter or men who feel they are "know-it-alls." We are a responsible, established firm, building and expanding our business. We train our men for their success and our success.

Come prepared to take active training and to enroll. References required. Interviews from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. with Mr. Empie or Mr. Griffin. J. B. RANSOM CORPORATION. 607 National City Bank Bldg.

BANK BANDITS SHOT IN FLIGHT

Employees of Branch and Customer Held Up

Traffic Officer Fires When Driver Draws Gun

Money Recovered from Car After Capture of Pair

Police Officer Stambaugh yesterday stepped from his traffic stand at Fifth and Vernon avenues, stopped a fleeing bandit car, shot and wounded the two occupants, recovered $3700 stolen money and then returned to his station to resume his duties.

"All in the day's work," he murmured as showers of praise fell around his station.

It started when Herbert Crawford and Clifford Spears held up the Bank of America branch at 5360 Angeles Mesa Drive and took $3700 from the vault. They fled down Vernon avenue. But Officer Stambaugh saw some excitement and halted the car. The driver drew a gun. Stambaugh stepped behind the bandit car, drew his own gun and emptied it through the rear end. The car drew away and he chased it for several blocks until both men threw up their hands in til both men, wounded, threw up their hands in surrender.

Stambaugh called an ambulance, loaded the men in it, picked up the money bag from the rear of the car, turned it in with a report to headquarters and returned to work.

The two bandits, neither of whom was seriously injured, walked into the bank at noon while Elmer H. Jacobs, assistant manager, and Anna C. Durfee, an employee, were alone. They forced the employees and one customer to hold up their hands and then rifled the vault.

Ball-and-Socket Action permits pens not only to stand upright, but also tilt and lie flat.

"Give us a Fountain Pen Desk Set in which the Pens will Lie Flat!"

25-Year Points—Non-Breakable Barrels

PARKER Fountain Pen Desk Sets not only take the place of inkstands but they're unlike any other desk set in existence.

That's because their ball-and-socket action not only permits the pens to tilt and stand upright, but also to lie flat without drying.

Thus no accidental blow can tip the set over as happens when pens must stand rigidly upright. And because the pens will lie level—out of the way—you can slip a Parker set in a drawer at close of day and lock it up.

There's nothing handsomer—more thoroughly usable on a desk than one of these rich glass bases equipped with one or two Parker Duofold Desk Pens. Pen barrels Non-Breakable—Point guaranteed 25 years for mechanical perfection and wear.

See these improved desk sets at the nearest pen counter and look with care for this stamp of the genuine—"Geo. S. Parker."

Does the Tariff Help or Hinder ?

Is it true that the American farmer buys in a protected market and sells in a world market? Does the tariff favor industry at the expense of agriculture? Or does the farmer share the benefits of protection? Would free trade help? Would higher duties boost the farmer's income?

E. V. Wilcox has figured the debits and the credits of the tariff as it hits the farmer's pocketbook—what high protection costs him and what he gets out of it. Read

The circulation of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is more than 1,300,000 a month and is growing rapidly among the leadership farm families of the whole United States—those who live in good homes, who have modern conveniences, who have money to spend for what they want.

A recent survey in eleven states shows that 93 per cent. of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN'S subscribers have automobiles and 14 per cent. have more than one car to the family—giving them quick and easy transportation to towns where goods are sold.

With such a circulation among modern farm families, THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN offers an unparalleled opportunity to those manufacturers who are seeking to extend their markets among rural people, who number nearly half the total population of the United States.
